G.O.P. PLATFORM GROUP CLEARS WAY TO RECONSIDER ITS PLANK ON CIVIL RIGHTS

U.S. PROPOSAL FOR IMPARTIAL RB-47 INQUIRY WINS SUPPORT

Argentina and Italy Speak for Plan as U.N. Security Council Continues Debate on Soviet Complaint.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 26—The United Nations Security Council met in morning and afternoon sessions today in an effort to dispose of the Russian complaint that an American reconnaissance plane shot down July 1 violated Soviet air space.

Argentina and Italy spoke in support of the United States proposal that the Soviet complaint be referred to an impartial investigation.

Italy introduced a new resolution expressing hope that the International Red Cross would be allowed to "fulfill its humanitarian tasks" in connection with the crew members of the RB-47. These tasks presumably would include attempting to find out what happened to the three members of the crew who are unaccounted for—and especially contacting the two American airmen held by the Russians.

Contacts Urged.

Both Mario Amadeo of Argentina and Egidio Ortona of Italy repeated the American demand that American representatives be allowed to talk to the two airmen—Lt. Freeman B. Olmstead and Lt. John R. McKone.

Both speakers expressed alarm at an apparently new Soviet policy of provocation and intimidation.

Nationalist China also supported the United States position in today's debate. Britain and France did so yesterday.

After consultations with both the United States and Russia this afternoon, delegates representing Tunisia and Ceylon said they had decided to wait until the Council acts on pending resolutions before presenting a possible compromise measure.

Tunisia and Ceylon are members of the Security Council. Representatives of the two countries would like to see the Council pass some kind of a measure and fear that the Soviet Union may cast its eighty-eighth veto to prevent an international investigation of the incident.

Any compromise, these diplomats admit, would have to be even more general and nonspecific than the May 27 resolution, passed unanimously in the U-2 American spy plane case. The United States and its friends do not by any means accept the interpretation that the U-2 case and the RB-47 case are parallels.

Russian Demands.

The Russians are demanding the condemnation of the United States Air Force "continuing provocative actions." The United States asks that an impartial investigation of the fact be conducted either through arbitration or by the World Court.

Amadeo pointed out that neither side has presented proof of its contentions. Russia declares the RB-47 violated Soviet air space in the Kola peninsula area of the Barents Sea. The United States denies it.

"But the United States," Amadeo added, "is not trying to impose its point of view on the Security Council. It calls merely for an impartial inquiry."

EISENHOWER SEES FIRING OF TWO DUMMY POLARIS MISSILES BY SUBMARINE

NEWPORT, R.I., July 26 (UPI).

PRESIDENT Eisenhower watched two wooden dummy missiles fired high in the air from an atomic submarine yesterday and concluded that the new Polaris undersea missile system "exceeds in significance for the nation's security" even the most optimistic predictions.

Mr. Eisenhower inspected the submarine Patrick Henry, called in from Atlantic duty to an anchorage in Narragansett Bay. He sat at its dual controls, worked its rudder and diving vanes and spent 15 minutes in the vessel's secret missile control center.

After returning from the submarine to his yacht, the Barbara Anne, the President went into what was called a routine session with his National Security Council.

HAMMARSKJOLD LEAVING FOR BELGIAN TALKS

Will Urge Speedy Withdrawal of Troops — To Check The Congo Situation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 26 — United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will confer with high Belgian officials in Brussels tomorrow in an attempt to impress them with the full weight of the United Nations Security Council resolution urging the speedy withdrawal of Belgian troops from The Congo.

This was confirmed here by U.N. sources today. Hammarskjold will leave New York this evening. From Brussels he will go directly to The Congo to check on the situation there.

Considerable light on that situation is shed by information available to Hammarskjold's staff at the United Nations. A clearer picture of the position of the new Congolese government and its relations with Belgium was made evident by Congo Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba in a two-hour press conference late yesterday.

So far as can be determined by U.N. headquarters here, there have been no major disturbances in The Congo for several days. At the same time the build-up of United Nations troops has continued.

Mutineers' Welcome.

There are more than 7000 U.N. troops in The Congo today and by this weekend there will be some 12,000 troops, by U.N. calculations. The mutinous Congolese army, the Force Publique, has in many instances welcomed the U.N. troops with cheers, and mutineers have handed over their arms.

Reports reaching U.N. headquarters from Ralph J. Bunche, Under Secretary General in charge of U.N. operations in The Congo, however, indicate that the Belgian authorities are reluctant to leave, even when replaced by U.N. troops. There have been instances, it is said, in which Bunche has been defied by Belgian military authorities.

In the light of these reports the Lumumba press conference was viewed with interest by diplomats here, including members of the Security Council.

The chief necessity in The Congo, Lumumba said, is for the Belgian troops to withdraw speedily as they were requested to do by the Security Council resolution, adopted unanimously July 22.

"I wish to assure you—I could even make a bet," Lumumba declared "that if the Belgian troops were to leave The Congo today, five minutes after their departure order would be completely established and collaboration be-

COUNTY AIRPORT FUND AVAILABLE IF 2 CONDITIONS OF FAA ARE MET

Howell Island Site Must Satisfy Requirements on Safety and Suitability — Earlier Bid Denied.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, July 26—Federal funds are now available to assist St. Louis county in constructing a new airport if two remaining requirements are met, the Federal Aviation Agency said today. The FAA previously had turned down the county's request for funds.

An FAA spokesman told the Post-Dispatch that money is available from the agency's allocation to Missouri in the 1961 fiscal year, which began July 1. St. Louis county has met one requirement for federal assistance and appears to have fulfilled another, he added.

However, the county's proposed airport site on Howell island in the Missouri river still has not satisfied two other criteria, the spokesman said. One of these relates to air space and flight safety, and the other concerns the suitability of the location, he explained.

Rejected in March.

The FAA last March turned down the county's request for a federal grant of $145,650 to begin construction of the airport. Two main reasons were given for the rejection:

The county "did not show availability of funds" to match the federal contribution on a 50-50 basis, as required under the aid to airports program, and the site for the proposed new airport had not been approved by the FAA "from an air space standpoint."

In turning down the request, the FAA said it might be reconsidered later if the conditions were met. The agency said at that time that it might have some money left over from the apportionment to Missouri for the current fiscal year.

This has proved to be the case, the spokesman said today. He emphasized, however, that the remaining requirements must be met before a federal grant can be approved.

The spokesman told the Post-Dispatch that St. Louis county had long ago met the first of four requirements for federal aid under the airport program. This refers to a demonstrated need for new airport facilities.

Three Airports Needed.

The FAA's national airport plan, which forecasts the nation's airport needs, states that three new airports are needed in the St. Louis area, to relieve congestion at Lambert-St. Louis field, the spokesman said.

Under the plan, which guides FAA policy but is not binding on the agency, the new airports would be designed to handle private "executive type" planes and smaller commercial craft. All three would be smaller than Lambert field. One would have a 5100-foot runway, one a 3600-foot runway and one a 2400-foot runway.

The FAA spokesman said St. Louis county now appears to have met the requirement that it match the federal contribution on a 50-50 basis. He added, however, that the county still must show that its share of the money is actually available.

He referred to a letter from Leonard W. Jurden, regional FAA manager in Kansas City, to Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, in which Jurden said:

"Our district airport engineer has recently received a resolution from the county that funds in adequate (and stated) amounts would be appropriated at any time considered necessary for the proposed development. This showing of sponsor funds has been deemed adequate for pro-

KEYNOTER JUDD HITS OUT AT THE DEMOCRATS ON RED ISSUE

He Charges Also That Rivals Favor Welfare State — Campaign on World Situation Indicated.

(Text on Page 6A.)

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—The keynoter for the Republican national convention and for Republican candidates in the November election is that the Democrats have been soft on Communism abroad and are seeking to establish a costly, inefficient government-dominated welfare state in this country.

These themes were elaborated last night at the second session of the convention by Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, the official keynoter, former President Herbert Hoover and young Governor Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, the temporary chairman.

Judd indicated that President Eisenhower will have more to say on these topics when he addresses the convention tonight as the climax of a celebration called "Ike Day."

The heavy emphasis on foreign policy last night removed all doubt that Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the certain presidential nominee, and whomever he selects for his running mate will campaign mostly on the international situation in their contest with Democratic ticket headed by Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Eisenhower Defended.

Judd, an expert campaign speaker as well as one of the foremost congressional Republican authorities on foreign affairs, devoted more than two-thirds of his 30-minute address to defending the Eisenhower record in the international field and criticizing the Democrats, from former President Franklin D. Roosevelt to Kennedy and the platform writers at Los Angeles.

His major theme was that the United States must win the cold war.

"To do this," he said, "we must have leaders who understand this (Russian) enemy and its tactics and will mobilize all our resources for the struggle."

He evoked cheers from the highly partisan crowd which filled the hall when he predicted:

"I am confident that the nearer our people come to election

ROCKEFELLER HARDLY NOTICED AS HE ARRIVES

© New York Times News Service

CHICAGO, July 26—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller arrived at the International Amphitheater virtually unnoticed last night about 15 minutes after the session had been called to order.

He had actually arrived at the neighboring Stock Yard Inn, where he has a suite, about a half hour early. He had a steak before going to the hall.

When the Governor strode down the right aisle, with his state police bodyguard, Lt. Edward Galvin, and the Republican national committeeman, George L. Hinman, few delegates noticed him.

After he took his aisle seat, third row center, directly in front of the rostrum, a group of reporters and photographers surrounded him. There was no discernible stir in the gallery, however.

This was in sharp contrast to the arrival of his Democratic counterpart., Adlai E. Stevenson, at the Los Angeles convention. When Stevenson made his entrance at the Democratic session the house came down. It was obvious the galleries were not packed with Rockefeller adherents last night.

RUSSIA OFFERS 3 UNDERGROUND BLAST CHECKS

Ends 15 Months of Silence on Inspection — 'Ludicrous,' U.S. Delegate Says.

GENEVA, July 26 (UPI)—Russia today ended 15 months of silence and offered the United States and Britain three annual veto-free inspections to check suspected underground nuclear tests on Soviet territory.

Soviet delegate Seymon K. Tsarapkin presented the proposal—which would give Russia twice as many of these vital on-site inspections as the West—to the 234th session of the nuclear test bar conference.

United States Ambassador James J. Wadsworth immediately branded the suggested Soviet inspection figure as a "little bit ludicrous" in view of the "hundreds and hundreds" of underground disturbances which cannot now be distinguished as either earthquakes or nuclear tests.

He told reporters that the Soviet offer was not near enough of a deterrent against cheating under a nuclear test bar treaty.

He welcomed the move as "the beginning of negotiations to find a stand" between East and West on the major stumbling block at the 21-month-old negotiations.

Britain's Sir Michael Wright echoed Wadsworth's stand.

The United States still wants at least 20 inspections for each of the three nuclear powers for the relatively easy-to-identify big underground nuclear blasts above 20 kilotons which would be barred permanently

Theoretically, the United States wants more inspections for the smaller underground blasts, which would be barred temporarily under a testing moratorium while East-West scientists try to perfect their control.

The Soviet offer of three yearly veto-free inspections for each of the original nuclear powers was unexpected.

NIXON BACKS UP AN OLD FRIEND— JOHN F. KENNEDY

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—Vice President Nixon went out of his way yesterday to uphold the truthfulness of an old friend and congressional colleague—a fellow named John F. Kennedy.

At issue was an old rumor that Senator Kennedy, currently Nixon's Democratic rival for the presidency, had contributed $1000 to Republican Nixon's campaign for Senator in 1950 against Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, an ultra-liberal Democrat.

Senator Kennedy has been denying it for 10 years.

When Nixon was asked at a press conference about a newspaper story yesterday flatly reporting that Kennedy did make the contribution, the Vice President snapped: "It's not true . . . not true."

BIG CHICAGO CROWD GREETS EISENHOWER

Confetti Showered on President — He Will Address G.O.P. Tonight.

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI)—Chicago all but buried President Eisenhower in confetti today when he came here to receive the homage of his party at the Republican national convention.

Tonight he will address the G.O.P. delegates at International Amphitheater. His speech is expected to include a declaration of America's military supremacy under his eight years of leadership.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived by jet airplane at Chicago's O'Hare Field at 12:58 p.m. and flew by helicopter to Meigs field beside the downtown lakefront.

It took the President, riding bareheaded in a wind-swept convertible, 40 minutes to make the six-mile run from Meigs field to the Blackstone Hotel.

On Michigan avenue the crowds, cheering and screaming with delight, pressed so deeply into the streets at some points that the President's motorcade was forced time and again to a virtual halt.

James B. Conlisk Jr., deputy chief of police, estimated the crowd on the motorcade route at 1,000,000.

The President loved every minute of it.

He stood in the rear seat of his open automobile on the last half of the trip, a smile on his tanned face, giving his famous two-handed salute.

At times the showers of confetti and other paper scraps poured so heavily down from the skyscraper canyon on downtown State street that the President was almost blanketed.

The President told reporters in his hotel suite that he thought the welcome was 'astonishing."

Still wiping confetti from his head and clothes, the President said "that sure was one of the finest crowds I've ever seen."

For Mr. Eisenhower, the trip to Chicago represented something of a sentimental journey. It was there that he was nominated for the first of his two terms as President. He was

FORCES ALIGNED WITH NIXON AND ROCKEFELLER WIN TEST VOTES

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—A revolt by the Republican platform committee was broken here today as Vice President Richard M. Nixon scored victories on national defense and the controversial civil rights issue.

The rebellious platform committee yielded to strong pressure exerted by Nixon since his arrival here yesterday.

It revised the defense plank it adopted earlier and cleared the way for reconsideration of its civil rights plank.

It was expected that it might also revise its foreign policy proposal.

Nixon's victories on the explosive civil rights issue were scored in a series of votes on parliamentary procedures at a tense executive session of the 103-member platform committee.

Motion By Ex-Governor.

Robert D. Crosby, former Governor of Nebraska and a member of the platform group, moved to reconsider the civil rights plank.

Crosby was one of a group of more than 30 platform committee members and other Republicans who were called to hastily - summoned conferences with Nixon yesterday to hear his views on the platform.

A point of order was raised by the southerners on the platform group. Representative Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, who was presiding, ruled that the civil rights plank could be reconsidered if a majority of the committee voted to do so. He ruled that the committee had recessed, not adjourned, when it ended its session last night.

Rules being used by the committee provide that previous action can be reconsidered by majority vote within one day. If more time has elapsed, a two-thirds majority is required. The liberal wing might not have been able to muster the two-thirds margin.

Ruling Sustained.

Laird's ruling was sustained by a vote of 55 to 41. Representative Hamer Budge of Idaho then tried to kill reconsideration by a proposal to table the motion to reconsider. He was defeated, 43 to 52.

This left the way open for a vote on the actual motion to reconsider the civil rights plank. Liberal wings were confident they could win approval of the motion.

Joseph F. Carlino of New York, leader of the fight for a strong civil rights plank, told reporters, "the two test votes demonstrate we have the strength to control the committee."

Nixon said he was "very pleased" with the committee's action.

"I think this means we will get a good civil rights plank," he commented.

The committee also completed action on its education plank. The national defense plank, which Senator Prescott S. Bush of Connecticut said was revised with the "approval" of President Eisenhower, was altered to include a pledge to give the President greater latitude in allocating funds for the Polaris missile program.

Bush said that a motion to reconsider a foreign policy plank already approved by the committee was expected to be made later today.

Southerners on the committee continued to oppose any reconsideration of the civil rights plank. One, who was among a group of Southerners called to conferences with the Vice President yesterday, said Nixon asked that the plank be revised.

Another said Nixon expressed his regrets to southerners that his views had been placed before them "in such strong language" before his arrival. The representation had been made by per-

FCC Asks Little Rock Stations Why Convention Wasn't on TV

WASHINGTON, July 26 (UPI) —The Federal Communications Commission today asked the three television stations in Little Rock, Ark., for an explanation of why they did not carry last night's opening session of the Republican national convention.

The FCC sent telegrams to stations KARK, KATV and KTHV expressing the view that failure to broadcast the G.O.P. opening night does not comply with the provisions of the Communications Act requiring broadcasters to give fair and equal coverage to both sides in a political campaign.

The commission acted after receiving a complaint from Mrs. W. Y. Pake, president of the Greater Little Rock Women's Republican Club. She told the FCC that the stations had given complete coverage to the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles, but devoted their evening hours last night to last—hour speeches by local Democratic primary candidates.

In Little Rock, KTHV and KARK were trying to arrange to carry both the G.O.P. convention and state election returns, tonight. Officials of KATV were not available.

Card Gives G.O.P. Delegates Rhyming Rules of TV Etiquette

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Republican convention leaders have distributed to delegates a printed card with the admonition "Delegates—you're on television."

The caption is followed by the "Elephant's Etiquette Handbook," in rhyme. It says in part:

"Don't talk to your neighbor when a proper speaker's talking.

Delegates are told not to eat in the convention hall, with the further advice to "stay outside while chewing."

Other verses:

"Don't read papers in the hall, "Even the latest issue.

"If you hold them up before your face,

"The folks at home will miss you.

"These are the rules suggested for your convention—and remember,

HAS DISCUSSION ON PHONE WITH ROCKEFELLER, OTHER LEADERS

Vice President Thinks 'We Made Some Yardage' — Making Series of Calls on State Delegations.

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today he had worked through the night in his fight to nail a strong civil rights plank onto the Republican national platform.

A telephone conference with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, an ally in this fight, was part of the night-long effort.

The Vice President told reporters about it as he left his hotel suite for the first of a long series of meetings with state delegations.

He made it clear that his energies still were being devoted to an effort to win the kind of specific broad civil rights plank he is insisting on for the platform. He called off meetings with 29 state delegations yesterday to work on the matter.

Making of Progress.

"It's been a long night," he said. "but we've made progress, I think we've made some yardage, and today we'll know how much."

The platform committee is meeting again today. Nixon is the almost certain presidential nominee.

In a television interview Nixon said that if the convention should adopt a platform "divergent from my views" he could not accept the presidential nomination. But, he added quickly, "that's a moot question," meaning there is really no such issue.

He expressed confidence the Republicans would work out their differences amicably on the platform and candidates.

The Vice President said he talked with Rockefeller late last night on the civil rights fight after returning to his hotel from a call on former President Herbert Hoover.

This was the first contact between Nixon and Rockefeller since Nixon arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon.

Nixon said he also talked by telephone with members of the platform committee and other party leaders in the night before getting a little sleep.

Meeting Southerners.

Nixon's first meeting today was with delegates from four southern states—the area where opposition to his civil rights ideas centers— Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Mississippi. An aid said it was just coincidence that the southern delegations came first.

The four southern delegations were out in full strength for the meeting with the Vice President and he devoted his talk to a discussion of his civil rights position.

Nixon was questioned about this by one of the delegates as soon as the meeting began.

Afterward, several of the delegates said they had given Nixon a courteous reception, but that they remained strongly opposed to any change in the civil rights plank approved in the platform committee yesterday. Nixon has called this plank unsatisfactory.

The meeting was closed but reporters got accounts of it from Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary, and from several delegates. Klein reported that Nixon said he was particularly interested in two items in his proposed civil rights plank.

One of these would pledge the party to support Nixon's decisions as presiding officer on the Senate anti-filibuster rule, which have the effect of making it easier to toughen that rule.

Negroe Employment.

The other point Klein said Nixon raised was a request for indorsement of legislative authority for the Government Contracts Commission, which he heads. This agency seeks primarily to prevent discrimination against Negroes in jobs on which federal money is spent.

Several Virginia delegates said after the meeting that Nixon made it clear there would have to be a floor fight on the plank if his proposals were not accepted in the platform committee. They said he indicated that a floor fight might result in a plank even less to the liking of the Southerners.

At his second delegation meeting of the morning, with the big Illinois group, Nixon said he thinks there will be six key states in the fall campaign: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, Michigan and Illinois.

He said Illinois and the Chicago area would get some of his most concentrated attention in the campaign, adding that he welcomes the opportunity to back the re-election bid of Gov. William G. Stratton.

Missouri Ready to Back Nixon In Fight Over Civil Rights Plank

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—Most Missouri delegates were ready today to support Vice President Richard M. Nixon's demands for a strong civil rights plank in the Republican platform if a fight on that issue is carried to the floor of the national convention.

A majority of the Missourians takes the position that since Nixon, as the Republican presidential nominee, will have to run on the declaration of party principles adopted by the convention, the platform must closely reflect his views on major issues.

Robert B. Langworthy of Kansas City, a member of the platform committee, declared he would back Nixon rather than the committee if a showdown fight develops on the civil rights plank.

"I hope it doesn't happen, but if there is a fight on this question, Nixon will win," he asserted. "I would have to support him as my candidate for President.

Attended Conference.

"After all, the convention must adopt a platform that Mr. Nixon can live with. It cannot repudiate the civil rights program of the Eisenhower administration."

Langworthy was one of 15 members of the platform committee who conferred with Nixon on platform problems here yesterday, following the Vice President's arrival.

He reported that Nixon presented his ideas on several platform issues in the discussions. The Vice President, Langworthy said, "was most reasonable and did not attempt to dictate to us."

Miss Hazel Palmer of Sedalia, Missouri's second member of the platform committee, said she would support Nixon's views on civil rights unless it meant a sharp switch in principle. She explained she had not conferred with the Vice President and was not fully informed on his views. She added, however, that she was certain that no major shift in principle would be involved.

Miss Palmer, who has been working with a platform subcommittee on national defense, was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for United States Senator in 1958. She was defeated by Senator Stuart Symington. Langworthy is a member of the platform subcommittee on labor and commerce.

Lone Dissenter.

The only Missouri delegate who did not go along with Nixon's request for a stronger civil rights plank was Mrs. Horace S. Hedges of Kansas City, retiring national committeewoman.

"I'm not sure we should try to outdo the Democrats on this question," she said.

United States Representative Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, who is the Missouri Republicans' favorite son candidate for Vice President, said he subscribed fully to Nixon's civil rights views as expressed by the Vice President in his press conference yesterday.

Curtis, who is not a delegate, said he agreed with Nixon that federal fair employment practices legislation should cover federal contracts only.

He said the platform did not necessarily have to indorse specifically sit-in demonstrations by Negroes in the South. It would be sufficient he said, to indorse the objectives of such demonstrations by affirming the right of citizens to assemble peacefully to call attention to their grievances.

Curtis declared he also favored a proposed platform statement commending business men who voluntarily have abandoned discrimination in stores and urged other merchants to follow their example.

HOOVER HAS MADE UP MIND ON NO. 2 MAN, NIXON SAYS

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said last night that former President Herbert Hoover had made up his mind who the vice-presidential candidate should be.

"He has a very strong feeling about it," Nixon told reporters after he left Hoover's hotel suite following a 20-minute chat.

"I wouldn't be surprised," Nixon added, "if his recommendation turns out to be the one we accept. It's a good name."

Nixon declined to go further than that. He pointed out that Hoover was a former President and it would not be protocol to disclose details of their discussion.

COMPETITION SO LACKING CAUCUS IS HELD ON BUS

© New York Times News Service

CHICAGO, July 26—Attempts to introduce an element of competition into the Republican convention have come to nothing, reducing the deliberative process to an easy minimum, as this note from the day's calendar shows:

"The Georgia delegation will caucus on the bus on the way to the amphitheater Monday morning."

Even more intriguing was this note: "Caucus of the Virgin Islands delegation. Room 741, Allerton Hotel."

The Virgin Islands delegation has one member. A phone call to Jose Shubah showed that he had been accompanied by prominent Republicans from the islands.

PRESSURE IS PUT ON ROCKEFELLER, HE STANDS FIRM

Seven Other Governors Try in Vain to Persuade Him to Run for Vice Presidency.

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York stood firm today on his refusal to accept the Republican vice-presidential nomination. He reaffirmed his position at a breakfast attended by seven other G.O.P. Governors who tried to persuade him to change his mind.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, who promoted the breakfast session, said that Rockefeller's position was unchanged "as of this moment." Rockefeller broke in to say that, as far as he was concerned, there would be no change in his position although he appreciated the feelings of the Governors.

Rockefeller said also he did not think there was any "very great chance" that his name would be placed in nomination for the presidency. He has said repeatedly that he would be available for a genuine draft—but believed the possibility of that was remote.

Hatfield was told that he sounded as if he still felt Rockefeller might be persuaded to accept second place. He said he had not meant to give that impression "but conventions change from day to day."

He was asked whether Rockefeller's refusal meant he now would turn to United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

"Ambassador Lodge would make a very fine candidate, but I'm keenly interested in knowing what Vice President Nixon thinks about his running mate," Hatfield said.

Rockefeller turned to a discussion of the controversy over the civil rights plank in the party platform. He said progress was being made.

"We don't want a floor fight, but we are not afraid of a floor fight," Rockefeller added.

Sidelights of G.O.P. Convention

By JACK RICE
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26.

TELEVISION does a fine work, compressing the clambake of the Republican national convention to take-home size on a picture tube, but television cannot transmit the basic feeling of actual presence at the convention. Television can't present the convention in living claustrophobia.

Color television improves the semblance of reality. Some day perhaps aromatic television will help at political conventions, too, but until a television set can walk across the family room and stomp on its owner's toes and jam him in the eye with a "Rhutabaga for President" sign, television technicians can't truthfully claim to make the viewer feel he is on the scene.

The only crowd situation—the most impossible number of people in the least possible space—that compares to a political convention in size is a World Series crowd or a football bowl game crowd. In direction, there is no comparison, because a World Series crowd or a bowl game crowd knows where the game is and therefore the crowd knows whether it is coming or going. Nobody in the crowd here really knows that much, not through any fault of his own. A cry of "Nixon's coming" will raise a counter-cry of "no, he's gone" and the likely truth is that Nixon has not budged from his suite. Veterans, meaning anyone with healed placard wounds to prove he has attended conventions before, say it always is thus.

CHICAGO DOES a particularly excellent job of maintaining a constant mob scene because the two principal hotels of the convention, the Hilton and the Sheraton-Blackstone, sit cheek-to-cheek on Michigan avenue and between them the taxicabs play and the pedestrians roam and the cops go mad.

Occasionally the cabs are ruled off the track. A man can get killed easier then because it means a dignitary, a really big one entitled to Secret Service men and bush-beaters out front clearing a path, is going to cross the street from one hotel to another. Last night Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller's favorite Vice President, crossed the street to call on Herbert Hoover, every Republican's favorite ex-President to date.

The cabs stopped and the greatest marvel in outraged nature, the growth of a crowd from out of the concrete, took place. From the door of the Sheraton-Blackstone came a roar of voices and a rush of placards. Two large youths, fullbacks for Nixon with visions of touchdowns lighting up their eyes, charged the crowd shouting "clear the way" and the crowd fell back. Nobody fell down, there wasn't room for that luxury.

A man standing with his back to the wall of the Hilton saw what was coming, took a deep breath to last him through the ordeal and was only mildly surprised, when Nixon had passed and the pressure eased, to find that his back no longer was to the wall. His face was.

LATER, DEEP in the basement of the Hilton, a policeman gray of hair and rosy of outlook said, "I feel sorry for the young cops. They get caught for those details outside the hotel because they don't know where to run and hide."

A WOMAN standing in the lobby of the Sheraton-Blackstone took careful aim with her lipstick, but two passing elbows hit her drawing hand, one high and one from the side, and she painted her eye. She tried again, and painted the other eye. Red-eyed, she gave up.

LONG AGO the Blackstone built a reputation as a society showcase and its lobby was just right for that. The lobby is big enough for a woman to swing her mink around and small enough for her entrance not to be missed.

Used as one of the main rings in a convention show, the Blackstone lobby is as practical a venture as taking the U.S.S. Missouri through the Panama Canal sideways. The proposition just won't fit the facts.

The confusion, organized and otherwise, of Vice President Nixon's first day at the Blackstone was at its muddled best in the matter of Nixon's handshaking appearance before state delegations. He was scheduled to shuttle from the Mayfair room off the main lobby to the Hubbard room on the floor above, back and forth all afternoon, meeting delegates.

He didn't, because his welcome ran longer than expected, his press conference ran longer, than expected, and his platform scrimmages ran longer, which might have been expected.

Delegates and others in the lobby and on the floor above waited several hours for intelligence to filter down that their scheduled hand-shaking with Nixon had been postponed to another day because of time, politics and such. At the end of an hour, with delegates loyally still lumped together in the Mayfair room, and a crowd of Nixon-for-President people plus the just plain curious stubbornly standing on one another's feet in the lobby, a bald man appeared suddenly at the foot of the steps leading up to the mayfair room.

"Do you know the Nixon song," he yelled. He sang it. The tune is "Merrily We Roll Along." The lyrics don't quite kill the tune, they are content to mutiliate it.

"Let's sing it," said the bald man, clapping his hands. He was a frisky man. He was a good leader. The crowd rehearsed the song with him eight times, figuring he must know something about Nixon's coming on the scene.

"Let's form a crowd," said the frisky leader. That alarmed the crowd. They thought they already were a crowd. Frisky leader put a hand on a small boy and firmly pushed the startled boy toward the steps up from the lobby to the May air. The small boy looked like he wished he was two feet higher and 100 pounds heavier. Frisky would have had a return match.

"Close up around the steps," said frisky. "Now, when he (Nixon) comes down here, are you just going to stand here and go hee-hee-hee? No. So let's really sing it."

So they really sang it, for the ninth time. They really sang it for the tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth times, too, when suddenly frisky leader, as abruptly as he had appeared, disappeared.

Slowly then, the crowd lost faith and a few hotel guests, shocked and delighted with surprise, actually made it to the elevators and got to their rooms, where they will stay until Friday, if they learned anything at all yesterday.

THE MINOR disappointments were not all to the Nixon people. On the sound truck at the Draft-Rockefeller headquarters the announcer was horrified to hear himself say, after playing a campaign tune record, "Draft Franklin D. Rockefeller."

The announcer gave himself a rest then. He put on a taped spiel.

2 MAJOR COUNTY SEWER PROJECTS EXPLAINED AT PUBLIC HEARINGS

Bond Issues of $10,986,000 Proposed for Coldwater Creek, $4,750,000 for Gravois Creek.

Two public hearings were held last night on major sewer construction proposals in St. Louis county.

Between 150 and 200 residents of the Coldwater Creek subdistrict met at McCluer Junior High School, 1890 South Florissant road, Florissant, on a proposal to build a 12-mile sanitary trunk sewer and a treatment plant for the subdistrict.

Charles B. Kaiser, counsel for the Metropolitan Sewer District, said the estimated cost of the project was $10,986,000. It would be financed by a revenue bond issue which would require a four-sevenths majority vote for passage.

$28 a Year Per Family.

The revenue bonds would be serviced through a charge of $15 a year per family, and an additional $1.08 a month would be levid for operation and maintenance of the facility. In addition to these $28-a-year service charges, the residents would pay the regular district-wide levy of 4 cents on each $100 assessed valuation. However, Kaiser pointed out, the service charges would drop as more families moved into the subdistrict.

Robert Flick of the County Health Department and Paul Decker, field engineer for the Missouri Water Pollution Board, emphasized the serious danger to health in the discharge of the present sanitary wastes into Coldwater Creek and their eventual release into the Missouri river.

Decker said the Water Pollution Board was gravely concerned about river pollution in the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. If the bond issue fails, he said, the board would have to use every legal means in its possession to end the Coldwater Creek pollution.

Gravois Creek Project.

About 200 residents of the Gravois Creek subdistrict in the southern part of the county met at Lindbergh High School, 4900 South Lindbergh boulevard, to hear details of a proposed 12.7-mile trunk sewer to carry sanitary wastes now discharged into Gravois creek.

Peter F. Mattei, interim executive director of the Metropolitan Sewer District, put the cost at $4,750,000, to be financed by a general obligation bond issue. He estimated residents of the district would have to pay a tax of 30 cents on each $100 assessed valuation to retire the bonds. A two-thirds majority vote would be required for passage. Voters defeated two previous bond issues proposed for Gravois Creek.

Mattei pointed out the tax rate would drop as more families move into the subdistrict. He noted that a 40-cent rate had been proposed for a $4,100,000 bond issue last year. This year, despite a higher proposed cost, the rate would be only 30 cents.

Some Objections.

Most objections came from owners of septic tanks who saw no reason why they should be taxed for a facility they contend they do not need. However, Mattei pointed out that the trunk sewer must have the capacity to serve present septic tank owners, who are thereby obligated to bear their fair share of the cost.

Jack Smith, executive director of the Water Pollution Board, said that if the bond issue failed he would recommend that the board advise the M.S.D. to go ahead with whatever steps are necessary to get the sewer built. The project had the strong indorsement of the County Health Department through its chief sanitarian, Carl Nadler.

Both Mattei and Kaiser will recommend to the M.S.D. trustees that they find both projects to be in the public interest and set a date for a vote on each in the near future. If the trustees make such a finding at their meeting Thursday, the elections could be held the latter part of next month.

ALDERMEN'S HELP SOUGHT IN GETTING MEETING WITH ONE

An appeal was made today by a Board of Education member to the liaison committee of the Board of Aldermen for help in arranging a meeting on the school fire safety code.

In a letter to the chairman of the liaison committee, Alex Aboussie, chairman of the school board's legislative committee, recalled that he had written several letters to Alderman Alfred I. Harris, chairman of the aldermanic public safety committee, asking for a meeting to consider the problem of school compliance with the fire safety code. Aboussie said he had received no replies to his letters to Harris.

"The schools are faced with a real dilemma and only a meeting of minds on this subject can produce any results," Aboussie wrote. "Therefore, it is sincerely hoped that an effort will be made to have Mr. Harris meet with the school fire safety committee with a view of determining what recommendations can be made."

Deadline for compliance with the code is Sept. 30, although a bill is pending to extend the deadline to next May 31. Two bond issues to finance the changes needed to bring the schools into compliance have been defeated at the polls.

SIGNATURES ON UTILITY TAX REPEAL PETITIONS DISPUTED

Petitions calling for a referendum on the utilities tax proposed for East St. Louis should be declared void because they lack the required number of valid signatures, two objectors contended yesterday.

Ray Reischl, administrator of the Edgmont-Oak Park sewer district, and Jack Theiss, a sewer inspector, filed objections with St. Clair county court. They contended that some of the petition signers were not registered voters, some signatures were forged and others had not been affixed in the presence of certifiers.

The city council of East St. Louis passed an ordinance to levy a 5 per cent tax on gross receipts of utilities, starting Aug. 1. To obtain a referendum on this tax, petitions must carry signatures of 2126 registered voters. The petitions being studied by the county court bear 3100 signatures, it has been estimated.

$3,438,094 CONTRACT LET FOR COPTER MODIFICATION

The United States Army Transportation Material Command here has awarded a $3,438,094 contract to Sikorsky Aircraft Division, United Aircraft Corp., Bridgeport, Conn., for the modernization of 30 H-37A "Mojave" helicopters, Brig. Gen. William B. Bunker, commander, announced yesterday.

The improvements will include modifications to permit loading and unloading from a hover position, without the aircraft touching ground.

The H-37 is the largest Army helicopter in service, having a payload of 6000 pounds. In size, it is comparable to a DC-3 transport airplane. It carries a crew of three and 23 passengers and cruises at about 115 miles per hour.

Dr. Kleinschmidt was associated with the American Red Cross in World War II and before that was medical director of the Atlantic area for the National Tuberculosis Society. He retired from public health work 11 years ago. Dr. Kleinschmidt obtained his medical degree from the Washington University School of Medicine and was engaged in private practice here for a short time before entering the Navy in World War I. He had not lived here since then.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ann Kleinschmidt; two sons, Louis and James Kleinschmidt, and three brothers, L. Walter and Dr. Clinton Kleinschmidt, both of St. Louis, and Dr. Ralph Kleinschmidt, a medical missionary in The Congo. Funeral services and burial will be later this week at Mystic.

BOY CHANGES HIS STORY ON BEING TIED BY OTHERS

John Michael Sczurek, 8 years old, admitted to Alorton police yesterday that he stayed away from home Sunday night to avoid being spanked for coming home late, rather than having been tied up by some boys, as he had reported earlier.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sczurek, 3658 McCasland avenue, Alorton, said he slept in a vacant house a block from home. Police and relatives had spent Sunday night searching for him.

His first account, after returning home at 7 a.m. yesterday, was that he had been tied with clothesline and abandoned, and that another boy had released him in the morning.

MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

The body of Phillip Nahrgang, 75 years old, a retired janitor, was found yesterday in his home on Meramec Bottom road, St. Louis county, with a revolver near by. He had been shot once in the head. The body was found by his wife.

Nahrgang had been suffering from a heart ailment and was to have been taken to a hospital yesterday, but refused to go, his wife said.

Opens Fire With Shotgun in County Tavern—Wounded Victim Three Years Ago.

William H. Cole, a cement salesman, was shot and killed last night in St. Louis county by the husband of a woman with whom Cole was drinking beer, county police reported.

Police arrested Richard Henry Keller, brick contractor, of 1530 Trampe lane, St. Louis county. Keller admitted the killing and surrendered a .410-gauge shotgun to the arresting officers, police said.

Cole, 39 years old, 2060 St. Louis avenue, Florissant, was shot three times in the abdomen and chest. The shooting occurred in a tavern at 11190 Riverview drive.

Keller had shot and wounded Cole Aug. 7, 1957, when he found Cole in his home in University City. The Kellers then lived in the 1200 block of North and South road.

Found Her in Tavern.

In his statement to county police, Keller said he came home from work yesterday and his wife was not home. He made a check of taverns in the area, he said, and finally found her with Cole and another woman at the Riverview drive tavern.

"I asked her to come home and prepare supper for me and our four daughters," Keller said. "She laughed and said she was not about to go home and fix supper."

There was further discussion, Keller said, and he left the tavern. He returned home, got his shotgun and loaded it. With his four daughters, who are 3 to 15 years old, he drove back to the tavern. He said he took the girls into the tavern and said, "There's your mother."

"The girls saw the gun in my hands and they all ran out and got in the car," Keller related.

Advances With Gun.

He said he had warned Cole "a dozen times" to stay away from his wife. He advanced toward Cole, he told police, without saying anything.

Just before he fired the shotgun, Keller related, Cole said, "No, Rich." Keller said he fired one blast about 10 feet from Cole and shot him twice more from five feet. Cole, who was seated at a table between the women, fell to the floor.

Witnesses said Keller placed the shotgun on the table and telephoned police. He said he had not intended to kill Cole when he went home for the shotgun.

Coroner Raymond I. Harris examined the body at the scene of the shooting and ruled the death homicide. There will be no inquest.

Keller, 40, was charged with second-degree murder in a warrant issued today by Magistrate Joseph W. Murphy at Clayton. He was released from jail on $10,000 bond. Keller and Cole had known each other for 21 years and had been business associates.

ANHEUSER-BUSCH CHARGES UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TAMPA, Fla., July 26—Charges of unfair labor practices were filed yesterday by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., against Local 388 of the Teamsters Union. The brewery closed its plant here and Busch Gardens, a tourist attraction, after charging the union with staging a secondary boycott.

The local is bargaining agent for the Tampa brewery's production and maintenance employes. Production workers walked off their jobs last Friday when a contracting firm attempted to deliver a load of cement to the brewery.

The contractor, Cone Brothers Construction Co., has been struck by the Teamsters and an operating engineers local for several weeks. Anheuser-Busch said the brewery workers failed to report for work yesterday, forcing closing of the plant. The company filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board in which it charged Local 388 with a secondary boycott.

WEBSTER GROVES TO SEEK BIDS ON HOUSING PROJECT

Action Planned After U.S. Approves Loan and Grant Amounting to $2,518,000.

Bids will be asked next month for construction of homes and a flood control facility for Webster Groves's first urban redevelopment project, Glenn J. Manley, executive director of the Webster Groves Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, said today.

The Urban Renewal Administration in Washington yesterday approved a loan and grant of $2,518,000 for the project. The grant totals $946,300 and will defray two-thirds of the estimated cost of the project.

The loan totals $1,571,700. It will be used to acquire and clear land in the 106-acre development area in north Webster Groves and will be repaid as the cleared land is sold to developers.

Most of the 280 families now living in the area will remain, Manley said. Plans call for razing 110 homes and replacing them with new houses in the $8000 to $10,500 price range. Families whose homes are torn down will be given an opportunity to purchase the new houses with $200 down payments and loans extending 30 to 40 years, Manley said.

Homes of 170 families in the area will be renovated and brought up to acceptable standards. The present occupants will remain.

Twelve apartments will be built for sale to persons drawing state old age pensions, Manley said. The apartments will be sold for $3750 each.

Twenty contractors already have applied to build the homes. Manley said five will be selected and will be asked to build model houses side by side on Kirkham avenue in the project area. The contract will be awarded to the builder whose model is regarded as the best value, he said.

Coincidentally, bids will be asked for design and construction of a flood control facility about 3900 feet long, Manley said. The area became blighted in the first place, he said, because it is subject to frequent flooding from Shady creek, a tributary of Deer creek and River Des Peres.

Construction will begin in the Spring, Manley said. The flood control facility will take six to seven months to complete. New housing will be built at a rate of 12 homes a month. In addition, 13 acres now occupied by substandard houses will be turned into industrial sites.

The project area is north of Kirkham avenue and extends roughly from Elm avenue to the eastern city limits.

SCHOOL PATRONS ASK 2 ON BOARD TO RESIGN

The executive board of the Public School Patrons Alliance adopted a resolution last night calling on Charles J. Dyer and Mrs. Irma H. Friede to resign from the Board of Education.

The executive board said the action was needed "to restore confidence in the Board of Education."

Mrs. Thelma Kalinoski, recording secretary of the Patrons Alliance, said the vote on the resolution was 10 to 2. The organization has 122 members representing 61 schools.

A circuit court grand jury which investigated the School Board recommended that Dyer, Mrs. Friede and Michael J. Hart resign because they used school board workers at private residences.

Hart submitted his resignation and Dyer and Mrs. Friede were given until Aug. 5 by the school board to say whether they intend to comply with the grand jury's recommendation.

Mrs. Kalinoski said the executive board had submitted to Mayor Raymond R. Tucker the names of Fred Whaley, 7117 Whaley place, and Irwin Rosel, 3909 Utah place to fill the two vacancies created by the resignations of Hart and of James F. Morrell, who was subsequently appointed school buildings commissioner.

When vacancies occur on the School Board they are filled by appointment by the Mayor until the next board election.

PILOT KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO LAND IN FOG AT VICHY

One man was killed and another was injured seriously early today when their Cub Tri-Pacer plane crashed in dense fog as they attempted a landing at the Vichy (Mo.) airport.

The crash apparently occurred about 2:20 a.m., but the men were not discovered until shortly before 8 a.m. They were some distance from the runway.

The dead man was William Ott, 26 years old, and the injured, John R. Lehman, 27, both of Kankakee, Ill. Lehman, the pilot, had filed a flight plan with the Federal Aviation Administration indicating he left Flippin, Ark., and intended to land at Lambert-St. Louis Field en route to Manteno, Ill. He was taken to the nearby Phelps County Memorial Hospital at Rolla, about 100 miles southwest of St. Louis.

ARMED ROBBER STEALS $2500 AT LOAN FIRM

Holds Up Association's President and Woman an Employe in Florissant Office.

Carl O. (Toddy) Kamp Sr., president of Conservative Federal Savings & Loan Association, was held up in the firm's Florissant branch yesterday and robbed of $2500 by an armed man.

The robber, displaying a revolver, entered the offices, 1055 St. Francois avenue, at 2 p.m. Walking to Kamp's desk, he ordered Kamp to lie on the floor. The man tossed a paper bag to Miss Rita Froehlich, cashier and the only employe present, and instructed her to "fill it with money." Kamp advised the cashier to obey the order, police said.

After receiving the bag, stuffed with $2500 in currency, the robber directed Miss Froehlich to join Kamp on the floor. "Wait 10 minutes before you call police," he advised the victims. The robber walked out of the office and fled.

The man was described as 6 feet tall, weighing more than 200 pounds and about 45 years old. He wore a brown and white striped shirt, khaki trousers and sun glasses. The loan association is protected by Federal Government insurance, bringing the FBI into the hunt for the robber.

Kamp, 64, lives at 6 Tealwood drive, Creve Coeur. Miss Froehlich, 20, lives in Jennings.

8-YEAR TERM FOR ROBBER; HIS PROBATION IS REVOKED

Lawrence Harry Williams, 18 years old, who participated in a series of holdups while on probation, was sentenced to eight years in prison yesterday by Circuit Judge Theodore McMillian.

Williams, a welder, was placed on probation for 18 months when he pleaded guilty Jan. 26 of burglary and stealing in the theft of a television set and a record player from a residence in the 2800 block of Texas avenue.

Judge McMillian, learning that Williams had been charged with three robberies since Jan. 26, revoked his probation and imposed the sentence. Williams, who lives in the 1200 block of Grattan street, was charged with taking a total of $194 in holdups at a delicatessen and two confectioneries in May.

Platform Fight

Swing to Goldwater.

A Louisiana delegate said Nixon's action has hurt him with some delegates to the convention. He said a substantial part of the Louisiana delegation now favors Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona for President.

The Texas delegation, by a 3-to-1 vote, decided to disregard its instructions to vote for Nixon for President. The delegates were left free to cast their votes for any nominee they might favor.

Nixon said several times yesterday that, if the committee does not reverse itself, the civil rights issue will be carried to the floor. Most observers say there is no question the Nixon-dominated convention would give Nixon the planks he wants.

The importance the Vice President attached to the issue was illustrated by the change he made in his plans yesterday. Meetings with convention delegations from 29 states were canceled to allow him to concentrate on shaping the platform to his views.

Plank Not Disclosed.

The plank approved by the platform committee has not been made public. A version published yesterday by some newspapers was incorrect, committee officials said. The plank adopted was understood to indorse equal rights in voting, education and employment and, in general terms, to approve sitins.

The proposal backed by liberal elements was reported to call for a change in Senate rules to make Southern filibusters impossible and for broader authority for a commission that polices against racial discrimination by employers holding federal contracts.

Nixon said yesterday that the committee's national defense plank contained "most" of proposals he and Rockefeller agreed to. He said he would give further study to the foreign policy plank to make sure that it conformed to his position.

Omitted Points.

Principal points sought by the two men but omitted from the two platform planks were declarations for formation of "political confederations" of nations with common interests and increased defense expenditures.

Nixon and Rockefeller were reported to have gained a preliminary victory last night when the platform committee accepted their proposal for a program of federal aid for school construction. The action reversed a subcommittee which had omitted a reference to federal aid.

The platform group last night made public planks dealing with immigration and human needs, including the controversial subject of medical care for the aged. This brought to 11 the number of planks drafted.

The Nixon-Rockefeller view was followed rather closely in most of the proposal for providing medical care for the elderly. The plank proposed a "contributory" system of medical care for the aged who need it. The plan must be on a sound fiscal basis and give beneficiaries the option of purchasing private health insurance, the plank stated.

The same key points were contained in the Rockefeller-Nixon plan but there was no reference to limiting it to those in need.

Security Tax Boost.

The precise plan contemplated under the Rockefeller-Nixon proposal has never been spelled out. Rockefeller has advocated a system financed through an increase in the social security tax while Nixon has supported the federal-state "subsidy" plan advanced by the Eisenhower Administration.

The Republican plank would require state participation with the Federal Government although the nature of the state role is not specified.

The planks also called for federal sponsorship of a grant program for "research, demonstration and training projects" relating to juvenile delinquency, an accelerated program to assist in urban planning, federal assistance "in new programs to build schools of medicine, dentistry, public health and nursing and to provide financial aid to students in those fields."

Anti-Pollution Steps.

It also proposed to strengthen federal powers for dealing with water and air pollution, but would limit federal grants for construction of sewage disposal facilities to localities where "they make an indentifiable contribution to clearing up polluted streams."

Other proposals included extending the social security system to cover additional elderly persons and increasing the benefits, along with other expanded welfare programs.

The immigration plank proposed "at least" doubling the number of immigrants allowed to enter the United States each year and called for other changes in immigration regulations.

Ovation for U.S. Conductor.

BAYREUTH, Germany, July 26 (AP)—American conductor Lorin Maazel received an 18-minute ovation last night after his debut at the Bayreuth festival. Maazel conducted the first performance of Wagner's "Lohengrin" at the 1960 festival. Only 30 years old, he is the youngest conductor in the festival's history and one of the few non-Germans ever invited to conduct at the Wagnerian shrine.

G.O.P. Keynote

day, the more they will become convinced that the course of wisdom and sureness is to continue to entrust the destiny of our nation to the steady, complete, experienced principled Republican hands."

He was interrupted 61 times by applause. In his foreign affairs remarks it lasted 30 seconds after he had defended Mr. Eisenhower's action at the Paris summit conference and the cancellation of his trip to Japan. The delegates and gallery cheered these words:

"It has been charged that no previous President or Vice President ever suffered such insults abroad—as if somehow that is their fault. There are two inescapable answers. One is that as long as the two previous American Presidents were willing to give in to the Soviet leaders they got along famously with them. Why should the Communists insult them as long as they were getting what they wanted?

"The second answer is that no previous President has faced a Communist conspiracy that was strong and arrogant enough to take such action as Mr. Khrushchev took."

To explain why the Russians had become so strong and arrogant, the Minnesotan went back to 1933 when President Roosevelt recognized the Soviet Union. He revised his advanced text to get audience participation by the campaign device of asking rhetorical questions such as: "Was it the Republicans who, at Tehran, against the advice of Mr. Churchill, agreed to give the Russians a free hand in the Balkans?"

To each question the audience gave a resounding "no."

45-Second Applause.

The longest applause—45 seconds—came after:

"The Republican party stands always for maximum freedom and opportunity—for every man to get ahead.

"This is why it is possible in America for the son of a rich man, like Jack Kennedy, to become President.

"This is why it is possible for the son of a poor man, like Dick Nixon, to become President."

In his remarks on domestic issues, the speaker made the customary campaign talk replete with statistics which Republicans and Democrats select to bolster their arguments. Many of the claimed legislative accomplishments were the result of co-operation between the White House and the congressional Democratic leadership when the Eisenhower "middle-of-the-road" philosophy coincided with the "moderation" views of Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson. Other claims could be made also by several governments abroad, whether they have conservatives or socialists in power.

Former President Hoover, who will be 86 years old next month, was given an emotional reception and attention by the convention. He was introduced by national chairman Thruston B. Morton as "one of the greatest humanitarians in all history."

The delegates and the gallery spectators stood and cheered for almost five minutes. In a slate-colored double-breasted suit, blue shirt with a soft collar and a light blue tie, he stood erect, his eyes blinking. He smiled benevolently as many state standards, led by California, were paraded by the speaker's platform. The crowd roars increased when he said: "This indeed is a demonstration of great friendship."

Hoover opened his formal address by recalling that he had bade affectionate goodbyes to the last three conventions but apparently they didn't take. When he said with a smile, "Unless some miracle comes to me from the good Lord, this is finally it," there was a response "no" from all parts of the hall.

His message was spiritual rather than political, calling on his listeners to "help end the frightening moral slump" in this country by making the word "America" mean what it has meant in history and throughout the world.

He too brought in the Russian menace but on a different plane. He was applauded when he said:

"During the 14 years since the war, Communist conspiracies and their fronts have poured their Marxist poisons in our people.

"We have also been brainwashed with another Communist basic tenet. They insist that love of a country, pride of a people in their history, their ideals and their accomplishments is wicked nationalism. Ever since the war, the Communist fronts, and beatniks and the eggheads have conducted a national chorus of denunciation of this wicked nationalism."

He told the delegates they were here not only to nominate a President but to declare anew the principles and ideals which must guide our nation.

"Yours is the task," he concluded, "to stop the moral retreat; to lead the attack and to recapture the meaning of the word 'America.'

"Thus can opportunity and the spiritual future of your children be assured. And thus you will win the gratitude of posterity and the blessing of Almighty God."

Again the delegates and spectators stood and cheered. During this ovation, Ned Cushing, chairman of the young Republican National Federation, presented him with a gold medal, inscribed "27th National Republican Convention." As he left the platform with his son, Herbert Hoover Jr., former Under Secretary of State, he looked back to say: "I too was once a member of the Young Republican organization."

Two speeches were preceded by brief demonstrations. One was by Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, appearing officially in his capacity as chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee. He was the subject of a demonstration by "Goldwater for President" paraders who were joined by delegates from southern states who approve his opposition to the Nixon-Rockefeller plank on civil rights.

The other was by Gov. Underwood, the 37-year-old temporary chairman, the Republican answer to 36-year-old Senator Frank Church of Idaho, who made the Democratic keynote speech at Los Angeles.

Underwood used the occasion to further his campaign for the Senate seat now held by Democrat Jennings Randolph. For the benefit of the television cameras, a hundred or so large placards with Underwood's picture, lettered "Forward West Virginia" were paraded around the inner hall. His speech was mostly against the welfare state.

The feminine element of the convention personified by Mrs. Clare B. Williams of Florida, assistant chairman of the national committee, who praised the party for making use of its "womanpower." Mrs. Williams is the widow of Frank E. Williams, who practiced law in St. Louis for 33 years before he moved to Florida for reasons of health.

She boasted that one fourth of the delegates and alternates at this convention are women—a record high for any party. She asserted also that the women voters were responsible for the election of Gen. Eisenhower in 1952 and his re-election in 1956. She ridiculed Democratic nominee Kennedy by asking "what frontiers have been crossed by the young man who spoke of them in Los Angeles in such fiery phrases?"

Her own reply was: "He crossed a new frontier of blundering in foreign policy, by using his position in the Senate to barge into the French Algerian dispute, to the embarrassment of the entire free world."

The former St. Louisan introduced the representatives of the two newest states—Alaska and Hawaii. Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii, another former St. Louisan, placed the lei he had been wearing on Mrs. Williams' shoulders.

Eichmann Trial Far Off.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, July 26 (AP)—The trial of former S.S. Col. Adolf Eichmann will not begin before next March, it was authoritatively reported yesterday.

CARRIER WASP DELIVERS FUEL FOR U.N. AIRLIFT

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The United States Carrier Wasp was unloading 200,000 gallons of aviation gasoline at Accra, Ghana, today to refuel the United Nations airlift to The Congo, the Navy said.

Moored 2½ miles off shore, the Wasp was using a hose connected to an underwater pipe to pump the gasoline to tanks ashore.

The Navy tanker Salamonie, with a load of aviation gasoline, is scheduled to arrive at Accra Friday. The Pentagon said the airlift fuel situation was improving.

More than 100 C-124 and C-130 transports of the United States Air Force, plus planes of other nations, are participating in the airlift. Ten C-47s have been delivered by the Air Force for use of United Nations forces in The Congo. Five C-119 transports and six helicopters are en route or have arrived in The Congo for the United Nations.

FPC HOLDS THAT GAS FIRM SHOULD SUPPLY RED BUD, ILL.

A Federal Power Commission examiner recommended yesterday that Mississippi River Fuel Corp. provide natural gas service to Red Bud, Ill. The recommendation will become an official ruling in 30 days unless new objections are filed.

The examiner said the fuel firm should supply a maximum of 430,000 cubic feet of gas daily during the first year, and a maximum of 640,000 cubic feet during the second and third years. The company has objected, claiming it will be forced to reduce its service to industrial customers.

Lord Iliffe Dies.

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—Lord Iliffe, business man and newspaper owner, died last night in a London hospital where he was being treated for a head injury suffered on board a ship returning from the United States several months ago. He was 83 years old. He owned numerous trade and technical periodicals. In 1943 he bought the Birmingham Post.

NEGRO MARCHERS CALL FOR STRONG RIGHTS PLATFORM

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Thousands of Negroes marched outside the Republican convention last night in what leaders said would be a 24-hour-a-day vigil in support of a strong civil rights plank in the party platform. The Rev. Martin Luther King, a leader of the demonstration, said it would continue through the convention.

King said that, if Republicans adopted a moderate civil rights plank approved by the platform committee yesterday, the party could lose Negro support.

Police estimated the number of marchers at 5000.

The marchers represented the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Negro American Labor Council.

U.S. Cemetery Dedicated.

FLORENCE, Italy, July 26 (AP)—The American military cemetery at Florence, where 4402 United States dead of World War II are buried, was dedicated yesterday.

TED KENNEDY IS ON HAND FOR ARRIVAL OF NIXON

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI)—Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, brother of Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy, was in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel yesterday when Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived.

An associate explained that Kennedy's presence there at that particular time was "pure coincidence." Hy Raskin, Chicago attorney, who is serving as a helper and adviser to Senator Kennedy in his campaign, was lunching with Ted Kennedy when the Nixon greeters blocked the streets around the hotel.

"We really hadn't planned it that way," said Raskin. "Really, we were a little bit embarrassed. We had expected Nixon to arrive there earlier."

TEXT OF JUDD'S KEYNOTE SPEECH AT G.O.P. CONVENTION

Times Too Perilous to Indulge In Idle Promises; Nation Needs Ablest Men to Keep It Sound

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP).

Following is the prepared text of the keynote speech by Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota last night at the Republican national convention:

AS WE meet tonight in this Republican national convention of 1960 I do not believe you want me to indulge in the traditional keynote speech, blaming the other party for everything that is bad; taking credit to ourselves for everything that is good, and promising that if you voters will just elect us to office this fall, we will solve every problem, increase every benefit, expand every existing program, start a whole flock of new ones, give everyone everything he wants—and reduce the national debt at the same time.

The times in which we meet are too serious for that.

The problems we face are too disturbing.

Our country's safety — your safety and mine—are too gravely endangered.

What the American people want to know as they watch us tonight is: Which party has the greatest capacity to keep this country safe and sound?

Which party is the most alert to and best understands the powerful forces against us, abroad and at home?

Which party best understands the forces for us, abroad and at home?

Which party has the ablest, the most experienced, the best qualified and the finest men to lead our country through the perilous months and years ahead?

We do not pretend that our party is always right and the Democratic party is always wrong.

Agreed on Objectives.

We know, as do you who are listening, that both Democrats and Republicans want a strong, free and prosperous America in a peaceful and secure world. The difference between the two parties is not over those good objectives, but over the best way to achieve those good objectives —and keep them.

Some Democrats have regularly tried to make it appear that Republicans are opposed to various good ends—such as security for old age, adequate medical care, better education, better housing, protection of the rights of labor, aid to agriculture—just because we do not agree with the solutions they advocate, believing they are not the right way to get what we all want. But it is not because we are against the good ends; it is precisely because we are for them that we oppose measures we believe are unsound.

It is the obligation of the Republican party and its members to show that loose fiscal policies, while temporarily gratifying, in the end inhibit growth rather than expand it.

Sometimes we are told that to win elections, we Republicans should make countless promises, like those the opposition party made at its convention. Maybe that is a way to win elections; but we repudiate it, first because it would not be shooting square with you, the voters; and second, it would not succeed. For there is no chance of our outpromising the Democrats.

Overshadowing everything else as we meet is the hard fact that a powerful enemy threatens us on every front. It is the most dangerous assault upon us in our history, in part because it is so different from any previous threat.

And without victory in this struggle, there will be no survival of freedom for any of us—Democrats or Republicans.

Party Born in Crisis.

The Republican party was born in a time of crisis. It was brought into being by the strong free spirit of a century ago, to deal with the gravest issue of the nineteenth century — human slavery.

In 1860 in this city the Republican party nominated as its candidate for the presidency of the United States a man who had risen from the humblest beginnings to become a leader in the effort to end human slavery without destroying the Union.

He led the party to victory, the nation to salvation, and the people to a rededication to the sound principles on which the country had been founded and had grown great.

We want tonight, both to honor Abraham Lincoln and to learn from him.

Please God, may we do as well with our divided world as he did with his divided nation.

For the gravest issue of our century is also human slavery —this time not men enslaved by other men; but, far more complex and dangerous, masses of men enslaved by governments.

More human beings are in bondage tonight than ever before in human history. Nine hundred million abroad are denied by their government the right to worship, to speak, to assemble, to join, to own; the right of a man to choose or to change his work and to live his own life with his family and friends—in freedom.

In this total situation, the Republican party stands today as it has from the beginning—for freedom and against slavery.

You will judge both parties not by promises but by performance. And it is on the basis of our record of solid performances that we proudly present to you in this convention, an honest accounting of our stewardship during these eight years—and a look at the future.

How well have we done what we said we would do when you elected us?

How do we propose to deal with the challenges we face now, at home and abroad?

Why do we believe our principles and proposals offer greatest hope for accomplishing the greatest good and the greatest growth for America in the next four years.

Foreign Affairs Record.

Let us deal first with our international relations.

We said in 1952 we believed we could get and maintain peace with honor. We have done it.

We brought to an end the fighting in the Korean war which the Truman Administration would not win and could not stop.

It did not make sense to continue to enlist American youth and exhort them to fight well in the noblest tradition of America's greatest heroes—but not to fight too well because then they might win, and that might provoke the enemy. They should give all they had, their lives—and over 33,000 did — but they must not win! It was the first war ever fought—so far as I am aware — in terms of trying to please the enemy! To continue the war was madness.

Then President Eisenhower took charge. It took time and patience and skill, but within nine months, the fighting was brought to a close—without dishonor, without sacrificing the interests of any ally, or weakening our security position in the Pacific. We Republicans are proud of that accomplishment.

In addition, this Administration has prevented a half dozen other threats from developing into war — Trieste, the Mossadegh uprising in Iran, Guatemala, Formosa, Suez, Lebanon, Quemoy, West Berlin.

How was it done? Not by sacrificing our principles in secret deals under the table; but by steady, patient firmness and strength in support of friends and allies; and, second, wholehearted support of the United Nations.

In short, our efforts everywhere have been to help build free nations up; the efforts of the Communists everywhere are to pull free governments down.

National Defense Position.

It does not avail, however, to be firm in support of principles unless we have the strength to back it up. This Administration has built up gigantic strength in our own armed forces and given vital assistance in building up the strength of other nations standing with us against the common threat.

Ours is a balanced power, not all our eggs in one basket, whether it be a bomber basket, missile, submarine, or any other basket.

President Eisenhower will perhaps have something to say on this subect tomorrow night. I hope the armchair experts who have thought they knew more about our armed strength than he and our Joint Chiefs of Staff will listen in too.

But I am compelled to take notice of certain charges made by the opposition party.

It is claimed that this administration allowed a missile gap to develop. No, it found a missile gap and has managed to get it almost closed.

When President Eisenhower took office in 1953, the preceding administration had actually retarded work in this field, even though it knew that the Soviet Union was making tremendous efforts. The Truman administration in eight years had put 17 times more into price supports for peanuts than for long range missiles.

The Eisenhower Administration is today putting 40 times more into such missiles each month than the previous administration did in eight years.

It took the Soviet Union 12 years to develop its long range missiles. It took this administration six years to get ours operational. Anything wrong with that?

Senator Kennedy was reported by the press to have said on February 21st of this year, "we have the greatest deterrent force in history and thank God for that." He was right!

But it is not enough to have such vast over-all power. Our primary desire in building such striking force is not to fight a war, but to deter one.

It is not just the strength that we have, it is the strength which our enemies, our allies and our own people know that we have, which is our hope of deterring war.

Charges Misrepresentation.

What kind of reckless and irresponsible action is it for anyone to misrepresent the United States as a second-class power, as was done in the Democratic convention, and thereby encourage the very attacks which all Americans profoundly hope and pray can be prevented?

Did you see the movie shown at the Democratic national convention two weeks ago, dredging up scenes of hunger, squalor, and misery in the United States as if they were typical of America? What kind of salesmanship for their country is that?

Can our nation's prestige be raised by tearing it down?

It is devoutly to be hoped—because it is our best chance of avoiding war—that Mr. Khrushchev, in making up his mind about our actual military, economic and moral strength, will depend a lot more on the reports of his own agents than on the misstatements made in the heat of the Los Angeles convention.

It was claimed that this administration has not taken the initiative in the cold war, that we have allowed things to drift. Yet the orators condemn the Republican administration for brilliant examples of successful initiative. For example, the U-2 flights. If we had not developed U-2 and had not been using it to keep up to date on military preparations within the Soviet Union, we could properly have been charged with inviting another Pearl Harbor. The fact that our U-2 operations were so outstandingly successful for four years should be a source of intense pride to all Americans. The U-2s were not provoking war, they were helping to prevent war.

It has been suggested that the President should have done something different or better about Mr. Khrushchev's breakup of the Paris conference. Will they please tell you what they think the American people wanted their President to do? Apologize, and hand over West Berlin? Blow up and start a war? Of course not!

The facts are that it has been the President himself and Secretaries of State Dulles and Herter who on innumerable occasions have warned the American people against optimism regarding any conference with Communists at the summit in the absence of any evidence of change in their objectives and methods.

Just as Prime Minister Macmillan said a year ago that he thought he ought to go to Moscow to find out if possible just what the Soviets had in mind, so the President invited Mr. Khrushchev to this country, and agreed to go to the Soviet Union; and the big three agreed to meet with Khrushchev in Paris—all in the hope of finding ways to get a settlement that might end the cold war without betrayal of our principles, our commitments, or our allies.

At the Paris conference, everybody hoped that the miracle might take place and Mr. Khrushchev would abandon his avowed purpose to bury us—one way or another. But there was no miracle. Mr. Khrushchev killed the hope.

But his ruthless torpedoing of the Paris meeting was evidence of the failure of his foreign policy, not ours. His strategy for at least two years had been the old one of trying to conquer the West by dividing it. He tried his best to set our allies against each other and against us. He came to our country and talked about peace and friendship, trying to whittle down our resolution and soothe us into relaxed slumber. He did not succeed.

When Mr. Krushchev knew before the Paris conference convened that he had failed to divide, deceive or soften up the free powers, he had no choice but to break the conference up. Otherwise, he would either have had to back down on West Berlin, or actually start a war. Either would have been fatal to him. His scuttling of the Paris conference and his violent efforts to pin the blame on us were proof positive, not of our weakness, but of our strength.

Reds Turn to Subversion.

With the bald deception of Khrushchev's peace offensive exposed at Paris by himself, he had to change his tactics and make a third effort to divide and conquer. He is now moving heaven and earth to achieve by subversion among the weaker and more vulnerable nations of the free world coalition what he could not achieve by division of the stronger powers. He is trying to upset free governments, one by one, by ordering into action the apparatus the Communists have been systematically building and training in all other countries for decades, for the very purpose now revealed in Japan and Cuba.

Why did the Communists have to cancel President Eisenhower's visit to Russia and resort to such violent measures in Japan to prevent his visit there? Not because of the ineffectiveness of the President's visits abroad, but because of their demonstrated effectiveness. The Red leaders saw the vast difference between Eisenhower's reception in India, for example, and the receptions given Khrushchev and Chou En-lai. They didn't dare let like chalk up another tremendous triumph with millions of people in Mother Russia itself, and in a key country like Japan.

It has been charged that no previous Presidents or Vice Presidents ever suffered such insults abroad—as if somehow that is their fault. There are two inescapable answers. One is that as long as two previous American Presidents were willing to give in to Soviet leaders, they got along famously with them. Why should the Communists insult them as long as they were getting what they wanted?

Naturally Khrushchev would prefer not to negotiate with a Republican President who he has learned will not be taken in or intimidated or tricked into any concessions, no matter how innocent looking, that would weaken the free world.

The second answer is that no previous President has faced a Communist conspiracy that was strong and arrogant enough to take such action as Mr. Khrushchev took.

And how did the Communist conspiracy get so strong and arrogant? That cannot be laid at the door of Republicans. Look again at the record.

'Mistakes of Past.'

I would rather not go over the mistakes of the past; there's more than enough to talk about regarding the future. But if Republicans are to be charged with inability to deal with the forces of aggression which those who make the charges helped to build up, then we owe it to the truth to set the record straight.

The trouble we are in with the Communists is exactly the trouble that Republicans warned for years before 1952 would develop if we followed the course that was followed.

It wasn't Republicans who recognized the Soviet Union in 1933 and gave it acceptance into our country and world society as if it were a respectable and dependable member thereof.

It wasn't Republicans who, at Tehran, against the urgent advice of Mr. Churchill, agreed to give the Russians a free hand in the Balkans.

It wasn't Republicans who secretly divided Poland and gave half of it to the Soviet Union.

It wasn't Republicans who agreed to the Communist takeover of a hundred million people in eastern Europe who are not Russian.

It wasn't a Republicai administration which at Potsdam gave the Soviet Union East Germany and left West Berlin cut off from the rest of the free world.

It wasn't a Republican administration that publicly promised that Manchuria would go back to its rightful owners, the Chinese, and then secretly at Yalta gave control of Manchuria to the Russians.

It wasn't a Republican administration that divided Korea and gave control of North Korea to the Communists.

It wasn't a Republican administration that gave to the Soviet Union the Kurile islands which had never been anybody's except Japan's, thereby endangering both Japan's and our own security in the north Pacific.

It wasn't a Republican administration that rightly put its hand to the plow in Korea, but then when victory was in sight turned back, allowing the Reds to recover so they can make still more trouble in the future.

It wasn't a Republican administration that fell for the Communist offer of a truce in Korea without requiring that the North Korean aggressors lay down their arms and the Chinese Communists get out of Korea where they had no business to be.

In summary, it wasn't under Republicans that 600,000,000 people disappeared behind the Iron Curtain in the first five years after World War II.

In fact, the record will show that Republicans opposed these steps every time they were taken.

What our Republican administration has done in these eight years is, with initiative and imagination, to stop the process of retreat before the Frankenstein monster that its predecessors did so much to build up.

We have resolutely opposed anything everywhere that would make Communist regimes stronger.

That is why, for example, we have opposed and must oppose official recognition of Communist China or its admission into the United Nations, unless or until it will give up in a dependable way its aggressive acts and threats against other countries; that is, give up Communism! Recognition and admission would needlessly present it with smashing victories. Does it make sense to build up an avowed enemy?

But our refusal to give Red China the tremendous boost of official recognition does not mean—as has been asserted by people who ought to know better —that this administration has been hiding its head in the sand, or pretending Red China does not exist, or trying to ignore 600,000,000 Chinese. The exact reverse is the truth. This administration is acutely aware of Red China's existence and the threat it constitutes to freedom, not only in Asia, but everywhere. It was not this administration which induiged in the illusion that Communists in China are democratic agrarian reformers!

We are not ignoring Red China. We have been negotiating with its official representatives for five years. The ninety-ninth such negotiation, unfortunately still fruitless, took place just last week.

"We Must Win Cold War."

Surely it is now plain to all that since the Communist world conspiracy remains the same, and since we don't intend to surrender, and since nobody wants a hot war, there is only one alternative left. We must win this cold war. To do this we must have leaders who understand this enemy and its tactics, and will mobilize all our resources for the struggle.

We must use more effectively our strongest weapons, the values and virtues of a system of government which has given freedom and dignity and better living standards to human beings than any other system ever has. How many of us understand our own system well enough to sell it to others with contagious enthusiasm, as the Communists are so well trained to sell theirs?

We must let loose in the world the dynamic forces of freedom in our days as our forefathers did in theirs, causing people everywhere to look toward the American dream.

Men have always found ways to bring down tyrants in the past; men will find ways to bring down today's tryants, if only we don't build up the tyrants! In short, we have a good strategy for holding. But we cannot hope to win in the end just by holding. We must develop a strategy for victory!

A new chapter has now been opened by Khrushchev. The Soviet Union stands naked before the world today, self-exposed, its objectives and its unchanging methods of deception and trickery revealed by its own acts.

It is going to require stronger approaches, different strategies, new tactics by someone who has proved he understands Communism.

America has the brains, she has the wealth, she has the weapons. Who can best galvanize into rocklike firmness her will?

I am confident that the nearer our people come to election day next November, the more they will become convinced that the course of wisdom and sureness is to continue to entrust the destiny of our nation to steady, competent, experienced, principled Republican hands.

The man who will be nominated in this convention as our candidate will be incomparably the best qualified to deal with the relentless cold war which we have tried our best to avoid, but which we now have no choice except to win.

It has been said by Mr. Kennedy that the most important issue in this campaign is foreign policy. We agree and welcome the test.

Domestic Record.

Now let us take a look at our record on the domestic front.

Undeniably this has been overall the best seven-year period in the history of the United States.

What did we say in 1952 that we would do? First, we said we would be a middle-of-the-road government. We believe that middle-of-the-road government is, in the long run, the best kind of government for everyone. For when anybody or any group, whether at one extreme or the other, gets all it wants, it is at the expense of the people as a whole.

We promised we would clean out the corruption that was a scandal under the previous administration and led to more than 20 convictions of high officials. I am proud of the fact that there has not been a single conviction for malfeasance in office of any high official of this administration. That does not mean everything has been perfect. It does mean that wherever there was any slightest suspicion of impropriety, this Republican administration has not tried to cover up; it has cleaned up. That is what you wanted it to do.

We said we were convinced we could bring prosperity without war—something our predecessors had never been able to do in this century. We succeeded.

Curb on Inflation.

The first requirement was to stabilize our economy and slow down the inflation. It was stealing the people's substance—and especially cruel in its eating away of the value of the pensions and social security benefits which millions of older persons were counting on for the security and serenity they so richly deserve in their years of retirement.

How could inflation best be checked? The Democrats clamored for more controls. President Eisenhower announced he would take off the controls. You will recall how some screamed that the Republicans were yielding to the profiteers, big business, money interests; prices for common people would now go sky high, and so on.

But did they? No. The prices which had been rising alarmingly—48 per cent in the seven Truman years—promptly leveled off and stayed practically stable for four years.

We achieved this stability not by changing our free system, but by using it. It works better than those of little faith in the American people give it credit for.

We said in 1952 that if the Federal Government would stick to its proper function of running the business of the nation, and get out of trying to manage the affairs of our people, the creative energies of the American people and their millions of individual enterprises would create a vaster expansion of production and trade, with correspondingly greater expansion of jobs than the government itself could do. Were we right or wrong? Well, there were 61,000,000 jobs when we took over in 1953. There are 68,000,000 jobs tonight.

And jobs at higher wages. Wages up 39 per cent in these seven years! Do you recall the seven consecutive cost-of-living increases that labor had to fight for, just to keep up with inflation under Truman? In contrast, real wages, actual purchasing power, have gone up 20 per cent under this administration.

To buy a standard market basket of groceries in 1945 under the Roosevelt administration cost the average worker 13 hours of labor. To buy the same market basket in 1952 under the Truman administration took 13.7 hours of labor. To buy it in 1959 under the Eisenhower administration cost 10 hours.

This is the measure of how much better off rank-and-file people are today. Does this sound like a party of big business?

Our workers have better food and clothing for themselves and their families, more homes, more automobiles, more refrigerators, more TV's, more free time for study, for recreation, for sports, for travel, for whatever. The record is clear that labor has done better under this Republican administration than in all its previous history.

Personal income, the money that goes into your pockets, has gone up a whopping 33 per cent —from 301 billion dollars in 1952 to 420 billion dollars in 1960—and in constant dollars.

Furthermore, a larger share of that higher income than ever before, more than 4 per cent larger, goes now into the pay envelopes of workers. Anything wrong with workers getting a bigger share of the national income under the Republicans than they ever did under the Democrats?

Isn't it plain horse sense to trust for the next four years the leadership which has enabled you to do so well for yourself in the last eight years?

Recalls Tax Cut.

While the Republican Eighty-Third Congress was in power to co-operate with the Eisenhower Administration during its first two years, we gave the American people the biggest single tax cut in their history—and at the same time expanded the benefits to people; more social security benefits, more for highways, hospitals, health, housing.

And you still have that tax cut. If I may borrow a phrase that you perchance remember: Don't let them take it away!

The Republican record in the area of meeting human needs has been one of remarkable action and progress on all fronts, contrary to the image promoted by the opposition that they alone are the party of the people.

Under Social Security 7,500,000 more persons are now covered than before. The number receiving benefits has increased from 5,000,000 to more than 14,000,000 persons.

Under the vocational rehabilitation program as strengthened by Republicans in 1954, some 400,000 disabled men and women have returned to active, self-respecting employment and have earned almost two billion dollars. This is the true American system of enabling people to do things for themselves.

Deeply concerned with the increasing complexity of the problems of senior citizens, this administration has established a staff for research into their problems and how to use their valuable experience and talents. It has called the first White House conference on the aging in our nation's history for next January.

Bold and dramatic steps have been taken to expand medical research in cancer, heart disease, mental illnesses, and other crippling and killing maladies.

In the seven years prior to 1953, surplus agricultural products distributed in the school lunch program and to needy persons, institutions, schools and Indian reservations totaled $263,000,000 worth. In the seven years since 1953 the total distributed is $960,000,000 worth —three and half times as much. Anything wrong with that record? This is help to those who need it.

In short, we have moved vigorously whenever and wherever action by the Federal Government is the proper and best way to deal with any problem affecting public safety and the people's welfare.

Takes Less, Gives More.

When before did any government ever take less from the people in taxes and give them more in return?

How was it done? Not by government orders, edicts or controls; and not by government handouts.

It was done by changing our principles of freedom of enterprise, but by sticking to them.

It was done by good Republican management of the government, not management of the people.

Obviously I cannot try here to outline our detailed proposals for the years ahead. I have not mentioned vitally important areas like education, health, agriculture, conservation, taxation, and a dozen other issues which would require almost a separate speech each. They will be covered before this convention is over.

But there are some basic principles—tested principles of freedom—which we believe it is necessary for us to understand and follow, if we are to meet successfully the challenges of the future.

Many Americans have come to think that our two major parties are, after all, just about the same. But is is not so. The main difference between them, as I said in the beginning, is not over good ends. The difference, and it is a profound one, is over means. Which are the right ways to get the good ends?

We Republicans deeply believe that the first function of our government is to protect the liberty of the individual citizen, not to take it away.

There have never been but two basic philosophies of government—government from the bottom up, and government from the top down. Our fathers believed and so do we Republicans, that most problems can best be solved by the people themselves.

One philosophy puts its primary faith in government officials. The other puts its primary faith in the good sense and the capabilities of our people.

One group begins with the assumption that the more complex and complicated a society becomes, the more its control and management must be centralized in an increasingly powerful government.

We Republicans begin with the same premises and come to exactly the opposite conclusion; namely, that the more complex and complicated a society, the more impossible it is for any centrally located group of men—no matter how able or devoted or sincere—even to grasp all the details of the complicated problems, to say nothing of handling those details from Washington.

We are not against adequate Federal Government. There must be such government to prevent abuses of power. We merely want to keep it limited to its proper fields, so that the liberty of individuals will be protected.

The Republican party stands for liberty.

In the Democratic convention you heard a lot of talk about Woodrow Wilson. What did he, a real student of government, think on this issue? In a speech in New York in 1912 he said, "Liberty has never come from the government. Liberty has always come from the subjects of the government. The history of liberty is a history of resistance. The history of liberty is a history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it."

Nobody has said it better than that. Yet we now see those who claim to be the followers of Wilson insisting that the way to expand liberty is to increase the powers of government.

Constitutional Curbs.

How did our forefathers seek to limit government to its essential functions? By putting the government under the Constitution. Many regard that Constitution as the means by which the government regulates the people. No, it is the magnificent means our fathers devised by which the people can regulate the government.

Why did they insist on having a Bill of Rights in that Constitution? In order to be sure that their government would take care of them? No, in order to be sure that their government could not interfere in their taking care of themselves.

Rights are not what our government must do for us; rights are what our government cannot do to us.

Americans believe that all men are created equal. In support of this fundamental faith, Republicans work for government that will provide equality under the law for all citizens, and equality of opportunity for all citizens. We believe this is the best way to get the fullest possible rewards for all citizens.

It is because of this Republican emphasis on equal opportunity for all that the Republican party is the party to which youth will naturally grativate, if we make our principles clear to them. For what does youth want most of all? Youth wants to get ahead. The Republican party stands always for maximum freedom and opportunity — for every man to get ahead.

This is why it is possible in America for the son of a rich man like Jack Kennedy to become president.

like Jack Jennedy, to become President.

This is why it is possible in America for the son of a poor man, like Dick Nixon, to become President.

Republicans believe that the government is best, not which does most for its citizens directly, but which makes it possible for most citizens to do most for themselves—and then assists with those who, for whatever reason, cannot provide the basic necessities for themselves.

I think we can state it as a law, that whenever a government does for its citizens that which they have the capacity to do for themselves, individually and in groups, it begins to destroy both their capacity and their incentive to do for themselves. It begins to weaken rather than to strengthen the foundations of freedom and the means of progress.

I can work my girl's arithmetic problem better for her than she can work it for herself. I can get the right answer almost every time. And she would like to have me do it for her. She'd even vote for me if I would. But I don't do it! Not because I don't love her or want her to succeed—but because I do.

Test of Liberty.

Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg said, "Now we are engaged in a great civil war testing"—testing, among other things, whether government of the people and by the people and, therefore, for the people can long endure.

Lincoln and the Republican party led our country through the crisis of 100 years ago. Now we are engaged in a greater conflict — the whole planet is in the throes of the mightiest conflict in all history. It is a world civil war. What is it about? It is about exactly the same thing as then: Is government of the people, by the people, and therefore for the people to perish, literally, from the earth?

During the fiery trial of Lincoln's day he warned solemnly that this nation could not exist half slave, half free. The Republican party succeeded in restoring unity and freedom to the nation.

Can this whole wide world of our day go on indefinitely half slave, half free? Deep down in our hearts, we know the answer is no.

The reason why it has not proved possible to get any real agreement with the Communist world all these years is because the Communists are not pursuing the same objectives as we are pursuing. And why are they not pursuing the same objectives? Because they do not believe the same things we believe —about man, about the universe, about God.

If we in America of whatever political opinion at the moment, are to prove worthy of this most terrible testing in our nation's life, we too must resolve with Lincoln, "that, under God, this nation shall have a new birth of freedom."

It was under God that our freedom was born. Only under God can there be a rebirth.

What then is our role to be?

KENNEDY URGES G.O.P. TO MATCH HIS RIGHTS PLANK

HYANNISPORT, Mass., July 26 (UPI)—Senator John F. Kennedy said today Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York had made the Republican party "reluctantly" move ahead. The Democratic presidential nominee challenged the G.O.P. to match his party's civil rights platform stand.

Kennedy laughingly brushed aside attacks by Republican leaders at the opening of the G.O.P. convention yesterday. He grinned and said, "That's all right," when asked to comment on Republican chairman Thruston B. Morton's reference to Kennedy as "young" and to the Democratic platform as "charity for all."

Kennedy talked to newsmen outside his vacation home here after discussing African problems, particularly educational needs, with Kenya labor leader Tom Mboya, who flew here from New York.

The Democratic nominee said there is need for the United States Government to "play a greater role" in broadening educational exchanges with the nations of eastern central Africa.

"The United States is going to have to concern itself far more than it has in the past in Africa—not only in time of crisis," he said.

The candidate said this Government should help to provide schooling for Africans and also help the new nations "build a viable economy." He said he and Mobya discussed this as well as "the role of the United Nations in providing trained personnel."

Kennedy said the United Nations may be a more satisfactory means than any other in assisting the African countries.

Fresh Promlems.

By the Associated Press.

Kennedy forces faced fresh problems in their efforts to unite feuding factions in New York.

Michael H. Prendergast, New York State Democratic chairman, spoke out yesterday against an idea to set up a Citizens-for-Kennedy movement. He said the party experienced tremendous losses while attempting a similar unity effort in the 1952, 1956 and 1958 campaigns.

Prendergast said he made an arrangement with Kennedy before the Democratic national convention that Prendergast would run the New York state campaign.

Prendergast asserted himself after Kennedy conferred here with Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York Citv.

The state chairman said he expected the help of Wagner and other party leaders, but he pointed out that he intended to keep his post for two more years.

Wagner expressed approval of a Kennedy plan to set up a citizens group in New York, headed by someone from out of state, to bring in independents, dissatisfied Republicans or Democrats at odds with the organization.

"As far as I am concerned," Wagner commented later, "I am trying to work to keep all together working for the ticket. I never intended to be the boss, but I am going to exert my authority as Mayor of the city of New York."

Wants Single Command.

Some persons thought Prendergast and Kennedy might be less far apart than the state chairman's statements might indicate. Kennedy has said he wants a single command campaign, run through the Democratic National Committee and down through the official state organizations.

He intends that Citizens-for-Kennedy fit into the structure and provide a voice for independents and dissident Republicans.

Asked today about Prendergast's position, Kennedy replied that his brother, Robert, would be seeing Prendergast and other New York party leaders this week. "I'm sure they will be able to work things out," he said.

Listen again to Lincoln in his message to the Congress in 1862, "the dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. The occasion is piled high with difficulty, and we must rise with the occasion. As our case is new, so we must think anew, and act anew. We must disenthrall ourselves, and then we shall save our country."

There it is.

"Under God, a new birth of freedom;

A new and deeper understanding of it;

A new and deeper dedication to it.

With such a rebirth within you and me, and within our beloved party, we shall deserve to be entrusted by the people with the awful responsibilities of governing this great land. And they will turn to its and our country will be saved.

And now let us get to work!

To save freedom!

Freedom everywhere!

Hoover, at 85, Wildly Cheered By G.O.P. Convention Delegates

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—In what he promised was his fourth and last farewell appearance, Herbert Hoover gave the Republican national convention a respite of nostalgia and sentiment last night and the delegates loved it.

They cheered and applauded. The state standards bobbed up and down for nearly five minutes. The only living Republican ex-President raised his hands in the gesture which is part admonition and part salute. As one dewy-eyed delegate remarked, "If he was 70 we could nominate him again."

In his eighty-sixth year, only a little stooped, wearing the kind of severely tailored double-breasted business suit that was his uniform in the White House, the former President was enjoying his sentimental return.

"Apparently my goodbys did not take," he said of his previous three farewell appearances. "And I have been bombarded with requests to do it again for the fourth time. Unless some miracle comes to me from the good Lord, this is finally it."

The delegates and the galleries chanted, "No, no, no."

His Varied Career.

It was a touching apogee for a career that has covered an extraordinary range—from the rich and successful international engineer to the great humanitarian who fed starving Europe, to the dynamic Secretary of Commerce, to the triumphantly elected President promising two chickens in every pot and two cars in every garage, and then through the depression to repudiation by the American voters in 1932.

His speech deplored the rise in the rate of crime and juvenile delinquency.

"When I was a boy, under group pressure, I was sent regularly to attend the Sabbath day Quaker meetings," Hoover said recalling his life in his birthplace of West Branch, Ia.

"They were mostly sessions of silence. There was little a boy could do about that silence but count his toes. However, occasionally the spirit moved Aunt Hannah to rise amid the silence and say she was 'going to speak her mind.' She dealt with moral delinquency. She always urged the benefits of right living.

"Aunt Hannah loved America. Come Fourth of July she sat on the platform at the village crossroads where every year the countryside gathered with reverence to hear the reading of the Declaration of Independence. On these occasions Aunt Hannah even tolerated the presence of the only Democrat in our village."

This glimpse into a simpler past was in sharp contrast to the highly organized convention Hoover was addressing and to the television carrying his image and his words across the land. And few survivors from his past were with him last night.

Some of Veterans.

Former Senator John Bricker waved the Ohio banner. In the Tennessee delegation sat Carroll Reece, a former national chairman and a stanch believer in Hoover and the Hoover view of the nation and the world. In the V.I.P. section in the gallery was Harrison Spangler, also a former national chairman and as an Iowan rooted in the same elemental beliefs that have left Hoover essentially unchanged through the years. Spangler, who must be nearly Hoover's age, looked as hale and hearty as the former President.

"Because I lament the evils and dangers which beset us, I would not have you believe that our nation is in its decline and fall," Hoover said. "The American people have rallied many times in our history to meet even greater tasks. They can be rallied again."

This was Hoover the patriot speaking, the Hoover who tried in vain in the years after 1929 to rally the American people and dissuade them from resort to government for help in their troubles.

When he had finished and again the cheers had mounted, Hoover was presented with an award by Ned Cushing, chairman of the Young Republicans. He thanked the delegates for their "demonstration of great friendliness" and with his son, Herbert Hoover Jr., at his side he left the platform. The younger Hoover, who shares his father's political views, had an unhappy interlude in the Eisenhower Administration as Under Secretary of State.

1936 Incident Recalled.

Accompanying the former President to the platform and recalling another Hoover appearance, 24 years ago, was Arnold Stifel, St. Louis investment banker. At the Republican convention in 1936 in Cleveland, Stifel, a delegate from Missouri, had led a frenzied war dance for Hoover at the conclusion of Hoover's speech. Stifel had hoped against hope that the 1936 convention convention would renominate Hoover despite his 1932 defeat.

"So you were my undignified friend dancing up and down in that fashion," Hoover said in mock reproach when he saw Stifel later.

The former President recalled this incident last night, chuckling over that other time when he perhaps also harbored a hope that his party would forgive him and intrust him again with their standard.

Last night, in the warm recognition of his services, all that was in the past, and Hoover and the Republicans were plainly enjoying the trip to a simpler America with the man who had come out of that America.

nominated in San Francisco for his second term.

Mr. Eisenhower, as commander of allied forces in Europe in World War II, won a reputation for being able to smooth out rivalries and differing viewpoints.

The Summer White House gave no hint as to whether he would step directly into the disputes at the convention. But his presence and the views expressed in his speech could hardly fail to carry some influence on the platform to be adopted tomorrow.

FOUR STEVENSON PARADERS GET REPUBLICAN BOUNCE

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI)—Four youthful demonstrators for Adlai E. Stevenson showed up last night at the Republican convention.

They entered the first balcony of the convention hall and walked the length of the aisle just before Representative Walter Judd of Minnesota began his keynote speech.

Each carried a cardboard standard. One said, "Draft Adlai." Another depicted the well-known Stevenson shoe with the hole in the sole. A third read, "Independent Republicans for Stevenson," and the fourth showed an elephant with the word "Adlai" written across it.

A guard walked behind the four, apparently to see that they reached an exit swiftly. They did.

G.O.P. BARS LIVE ELEPHANT FROM CONVENTION FLOOR

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 26—The Republican national convention has barred a live elephant, traditional party symbol, from the convention floor.

Maurice W. Coburn, of the Young Republican organization, which has hired the elephant, said the committee on convention arrangements had balked at admitting the elephant.

The animal appeared in a parade on Michigan avenue Sunday, and conducted itself with dignity in an appearance in the grand ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel Sunday night.

"It's a question of whether the aisles in the convention hall are wide enough," Coburn said. "The elephant is three feet wide. The aisles are three feet four inches and some are four feet. But he may wobble when he walks."

MARTIN TO BE PRESENTED SILVER GAVEL AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI)—Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, who presided over five Republican national conventions as permanent chairman, will be honored with a silver gavel at the convention tonight.

The gavel will be presented by National Republican Chairman Thruston B. Morton. The permanent chairman this year is Representative Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who ousted Martin from the House leadership two years ago.

By the Associated Press.

Martin faces primary opposition in September for the first time in about 30 years. Oscar H. Peterson of Easton, Mass., foreign aid administrator at the American Embassy in Paris from 1954 to 1959 filed yesterday for the Republican nomination in Martin's Fourteenth District.

G.O.P. WOMEN WIN EQUAL VOICE ON 3 MORE GROUPS

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Republican women won an equal voice with men on three more convention committees today. In what Mrs. Clare B. Williams, assistant national chairman, called "an historic step," the 1960 convention rules committee voted equal representation for men and women on the rules, credentials and permanent organization committees.

The change is effective with the next convention, in 1964. The women have had equal representation on the resolutions (platform) committee since 1920.

Mrs. Williams described as "deceptive" a similar action taken several months ago by the Democrats. She said their rule calling for 50-50 representation of the sexes was followed by a disclaimer permitting appointment of a man when a woman is unavailable.

$55,780 TAX CLAIM FILED AGAINST EARL H. C. LURKINS

A claim of a tax deficiency of $55,780 has been made against Earl H. C. Lurkins, an attorney living at 5363 Odell avenue, a petition on file in United States Tax Court in Washington, D. C., showed today.

The Government contends that Lurkins had a taxable income of $121,459 in 1956, but reported an income of $41,460. There were no fraud charges made by the Government.

In his petition, Lurkins said the Internal Revenue Service erred in disallowing his deduction of $37,973 for interest he paid on bank loans obtained for stock transactions, and that it erred in crediting him with $26,125 in capital gains income. He reported a loss of $707.

LODGE GOING TO CHICAGO TOMORROW FOR CONVENTION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 26 (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge will go to Chicago tomorrow afternoon for the Republican national convention, an aid said today.

Lodge, United States ambassador to the United Nations, is being mentioned prominently for nomination as the party's candidate for Vice President.

He has missed the early part of the convention because he has been busy in the Security Council handling the United States defense against a Soviet complaint that an American RB-47 reconnaissance plane violated Soviet air space July 1.

G.O.P. CONVENTION RUNS HOUR BEHIND SCHEDULE

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—The Republican national convention, which stuck to a tight timetable at its opening session yesterday morning, got way off schedule last night.

It was running almost an hour behind the detailed program timing when Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnestota started his keynote address at 9:35 p.m.

Hammarskjold

tween whites and blacks also would be re-established."

His chief purpose in coming to the United Nations, Lumumba said, was to make a personal plea to Hammarskjold to do everything possible to speed the withdrawal of Belgian troops from The Congo.

"The Secretary General assured me that he would spare no effort," Lumumba said. "It is in that spirit that he will negotiate in Brussels with the government of Belgium."

The Congo Prime Minister conferred with Hammarskjold here Sunday, and the announcement that Hammarskjold will go to Brussels before he visits The Congo was made Monday.

Lumumba said he would wish the U.N. forces to remain in The Congo for an unspecified time after the Belgian forces leave. He added that he was fully confident the Belgian paratroopers will be forced to leave, and there is no question of merely retiring to bases in The Congo.

It is, he said, a Belgian propaganda story that Belgian troops might satisfy the Security Council resolution by retiring to bases in The Congo, the use of which are granted by the Congo-Belgian treaty of friendship. Lumumba pointed out that the treaty has not been ratified; he charged it had been violated by the Belgians, and added that it was entirely a dead letter.

Complete Departure.

United States sources previously had indicated that their understanding of the council resolution also was that Belgian troops would have to leave The Congo entirely.

"Belgium," said Lumumba, "must face the choice between completely disrupting relations with The Congo or re-establishing relations, and faced with this choice the only solution is the immediate withdrawal of all troops, bases included."

The Congo has severed diplomatic relations with Belgium — "until the withdrawal of the Belgian troops is effected," he said, adding that "at that time, we would reconsider the possible renewal of such relations."

Lumumba was questioned Concerning a possible leaning to Russia and Communism.

"We are simply nationalists at the same level as American nationalists, French nationalists and Belgian nationalists," he said. "We do not wish to have any dictatorship in our country. We wish democracy — real, true democracy which you see and have here in the United States, for instance, where all philosophies and trends of thought are respected, where everybody is respected in his dignity and in his right."

Positive Neutrality.

At another point he added: "For the Congolese people, the Soviet Union is a nation like any other nation. Ideological questions are of no interest. . . . Our policy of positive neutrality recommends ontacts with all nations which have honorable intentions."

Lumumba declared he had signed no agreement with American financier L. Edgar Detwiler which bound The Congo government to anything. He said Detwiler wanted to present a plan for the development of power resources in The Congo and he was given authority to proceed with the plan.

There will be an investigation of the plan by a ministerial commission, Lumumba said, and "once the commission has presented its conclusions I shall be able to submit the plan for the ratification of my government. Therefore, at this stage it is only an exploratory action. There is no final agreement."

Lumumba admitted that some Belgians have been molested by mutinous Congolese troops. However, he laid the blame for this on the Belgian authorities, and declared they had used it as an excuse for the military occupation of The Congo—particularly of the copper-rich province of Katanga.

He said he had warned the Belgian commanders of the Congolese army that there would be trouble unless Belgian officers were replaced by Congolese. These warnings were ignored, he said, and no effort to "Africanize," the army or other public services was made before independence came. After independence, he added, he was still unable to induce the Belgian officers to appoint Congolese replacements.

Congolese Soldiers.

In resentment, therefore, the Congolese soldiers revolted, Lumumba said. Even then, he added, the atrocities claimed by the Belgians to have taken place were greatly exaggerated.

Lumumba said he had instructed the magistrates—all Belgians—to arrest the guilty soldiers immediately, but that no arrests had been made to date. The general population of The Congo did not participate in any "anti-white" action, he said.

If the Belgian government was merely worried about the fate of Belgians in The Congo, the Prime Minister said, under the treaty it should have informed the Congolese government, which then might ask for Belgian troops to help restore order. "Such a request has never been made of our government," he said. "Belgium did not consult with us at all."

Lumumba declared the separatist movement in the Katanga province was a "Belgian plot."

Moise Tshombe, commonly called the Prime Minister of Katanga province, is not in fact entitled to this designation, Lumumba said. "He is the chairman of the provincial government which has a simple autonomy within the fundamental law which was prepared by the Belgian government for the territory as a whole." Tshombe has proclaimed the independence of Katanga—supported by Belgian troops. The Congo, however, is a unit, Lumumba said, and is so recognized by the United Nations.

"If we could in fact organize a referendum in Katanga to determine whether the population is in favor of secession," he declared, "it would be seen that the population is indeed in favor of the unity of the country."

Belgians have tried to fragment the Congo by detaching other provinces, Lumumba said. "The consul general of Belgium in the Equator province tried, under threats, to make the chairman of the provincial government at Coquilhatville sign a document proclaiming the independence of the Equator province and told him Belgian troops would be put at his disposal, as was done in Katanga," he said. This attempt was not successful.

Paratroopers Dropped in Tribal Fighters' Area.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, July 26 (UPI) — The Belgian army dropped 80 paratroopers yesterday at the town of Tshikapa to protect Europeans threatened by Kasai warriors, it was disclosed today.

The Belgian defense ministry informed U.N. headquarters here the action was taken because a U.N. force moving on Tshikapa by road would not arrive in time. Tshikapa is about 400 miles southeast of Leopoldville.

The announcement said the Belgian troops would withdraw as soon as the U.N. convoy arrives. The Belgians have taken over the town of Tshikapa and its airfield.

This was the first time since trouble broke out in The Congo that the warrior tribes have moved against the whites. The Baluba and Lulua tribesmen have been waging war in this area for almost two years and until now the Congolese army had kept the warriors under control.

WALSH CITES RAPID RISE IN ST. LOUIS CRIME RATE

The crime problem in St. Louis "is far too critical to entrust the administration of criminal justice to anyone other than the best qualified person," Joseph L. Walsh, candidate for the Democratic nomination for circuit attorney, said last night.

Walsh, who addressed the Young Democratic Club of St. Louis, charged that the city's crime incidence is increasing at too fast a pace because criminals have not received stern prosecution and stiff punishment. He spoke at Carpenters Hall, 1401 Hampton avenue.

He told the group he had practiced law here longer and has tried more cases than have both his opponents for the nomination combined. Walsh praised the police department for its energetic and tireless work, but asserted its personnel is overworked, the department is understaffed and personnel underpaid. The police department, however, cannot be responsible for prosecuting criminals, he added.

SUSPECT HELD IN THEFTS FROM PARKING METERS

A man in whose automobile and pockets police found $57.91 in nickels, dimes and pennies was held early today suspected of stealing from city parking meters.

The suspect, booked as Sam W. Risk, a mechanic, 4136 Flora place, was arrested at 1:15 a.m. after a policeman saw him drive away from several open parking meters in the 4900 block of Forest Park avenue. He gave no explanation of his possession of the coins, or of a key that opens parking meters, also found in his possession.

ST. LOUIS AMONG WORST AIR POLLUTION CENTERS

The St. Louis area was included as one of the 12 worst air-pollution centers in the nation in a survey by Consumers Union published yesterday in the August issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports.

Samples taken in 1957 and 1958 showed 175 micrograms of suspended articles in each cubic meter of St. Louis air. In Los Angeles the figure was 215; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, 185 each, and New York, 180.

The growth of metropolitan areas is making the air-pollution problem a regional one, the survey said. The problem can be met only by determining the source of the pollutants and enacting strong laws to force installation of corrective devices, it said.

3 MONTHS DESIGNATED FOR UNITED FUND DRIVE

September, October and November were designated United Fund months in a proclamation by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, yesterday. The Mayor presented the proclamation to B. B. Culver Jr., general chairman of the United Fund campaign to be conducted this fall, in a brief ceremony at City Hall.

"A universal gauge of a community's level of maturity and vitality is the extent to which its citizens support their voluntary, human-service agencies," Mayor Tucker stated, urging "all who live and work in St. Louis" to give their wholehearted support to the campaign.

About 40,000 volunteers will take part in raising a year's funds for 116 agencies of the greater St. Louis area.

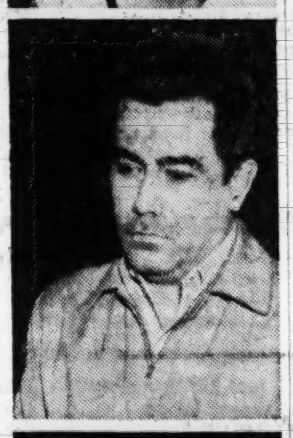
In this week's Saturday Evening Post

Was this "love" killing justified?

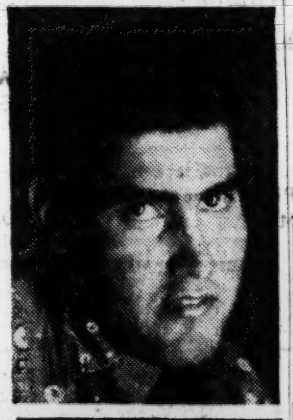
The VICTIM

Herlinda Alcorta—attractive, fiery B-girl who was stabbed 32 times by her tormented husband. The men in the bars called her Borada, "Green Eyes." She called her husband a "square," and flaunted her unfaithfulness — until the fatal night he found her alone with her lover.



The KILLER

Alvaro Alcorta — the quiet, religious husband who killed in a blind fury. He fought through Okinawa, Kwajalein, Leyte—only to come home to the taunts of a faithless wife. The struggle to save him from the electric chair was carried all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.



The LOVER

Nato Castilleja — nineteen-year-old street fighter who became Herlinda Alcorta's lover. "The girls all went for him," a friend said. The handsome, muscular youth was the state's star witness — until a priest persuaded him to reveal the truth behind the murder.

The PROSECUTOR

Roy Barrera—crack assistant D.A. who drove relentlessly for the death penalty. "The whip has got to come down where it belongs," he once said. In his determination to send Alcorta to the chair, he withheld vital information, at the time of the trial, that later saved Alcorta's life.

How thin is the line between justifiable homicide and first-degree murder? Can a man be unfairly convicted in a U.S. court? In this week's Saturday Evening Post, John Bartlow Martin examines the famous murder trial of Alvaro Alcorta – a case where justice did not triumph. You'll read how a man was almost sent to the electric chair because he couldn't afford a high-priced defense. What happened when the state prosecutor withheld the most important piece of evidence. What the chances are of you being unjustly sent to prison! Be sure to read "The Innocent and the Guilty" – beginning in this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

U.S. ALLOCATES $2,893,750,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller allocated federal highway aid funds totaling $2,893,750,000 to the states yesterday for highway construction in the year starting July 1, 1961.

The apportionment include $2,200,000,000 for the 41,000-mile interstate highway system, for which the Federal Government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

Another $693,750,000 was apportioned to the states for the federally-aided systems of primary and secondary roads and their city extensions, the so-called ABC program.

Missouri will receive a total of $79,169,726, broken down as follows: $7,721,692 for primary highways, $5,409,437 for secondary roads, $4,253,316 for urban highways and $61,785,281 for interstate systems.

Illinois will receive a total of $138,864,179, broken down as follows: $9,774,023 for primary highways, $6,087,533 for secondary roads, $11,949,364 for urban highways and $111,053,250 for interstate systems.

The early apportionment, Mueller said, "provides almost a full year's lead time to the states for adequate planning of their use of the money, and thus assures orderly progress in the program."

The new allotment will bring the total federal support for the interstate system to $11,400,000,000 for the six years since the program of controlled-access super highways was begun.

The full amount authorized for the ABC program by the present Congress was $925,000,000, but Mueller said one-fourth of this total is being withheld until final census figures are provided. Population is one of the considerations involved in distributing the money on a basis of equal sharing of costs by the federal and state governments.

Recent figures show that more than one-fifth of the interstate system is now in use. Some 8855 miles are open to traffic. About 40 per cent of this mileage is built to standards deemed adequate for the traffic burden of 1975.

Another 4353 miles are under construction and engineering or right-of-way acquisition has been started or completed on an additional 10,436 miles.

The largest sum among yesterday's apportionments was the $254,610,831 allotted to California.

The next largest apportionments, in order, are: Ohio, $165,511,624; New York $146,526,522; Illinois, $138,864,179; and Texas, $133,574,132.

County Airport

gramming purposes insofar as this question is concerned."

With respect to the other two requirements, Jurden told Curtis: "We have had considerable difficulty in arriving at a satisfactory answer to site and air space approval due to the effect of operations from the proposed (Howell island) site on Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport.

". . . The Howell island site, which was proposed by St. Louis County, will create problems in the control of aircraft" operating in and out of Lambert field, "particularly during instrument flight rule conditions," Jurden said.

Under the air space and flight safety requirement, a proposed airport must be located so as not to interfere with established traffic lanes to and from existing airports in the vicinity.

A companion condition relating to ground location requires that a proposed airport be situated so as to fulfill the air space and safety consideration and, in addition, requires that the ground location be accessible from an engineering standpoint.

Subject to Flooding.

The Howell island site has been criticized on the ground that it is subject to flooding and early morning fog.

Jurden referred to an earlier letter from Henry L. Newman of the FAA Kansas City office to supervisor James H. J. McNary of St. Louis County, in which Newman stated:

"It is unfortunate that we cannot obtain a site which can be economically developed in the area south and west of Weiss airport. This is the only area west of the Mississippi river which we feel will permit the development of an airport without having an adverse effect on the instrument flight rule traffic using both Lambert-St. Louis municipal airport and the proposed airport."

Newman said the location of Howell island with respect to Lambert-St. Louis field was such that its development would cause problems in routing planes in and out of both airports.

Conducting Survey.

In an effort to resolve the problem, the FAA is conducting surveys to determine whether a second all-weather runway can be developed at Lambert field, the FAA spokesman said. This runway, for instrument landings, would face in a direction that would enable planes to use it without passing through traffic lanes to and from the Howell island airport, he explained.

Newman told McNary, however, that preliminary tests of the feasibility of developing a second instrument landing runway at Lambert field "have been unsatisfactory" and further tests will have to be made.

"The final decision on the second instrument landing strip . . . will have a direct bearing on the final air space decision on the Howell island site," he added.

GOV. BLAIR ISSUES REQUEST FOR EXTRADITION OF DAVISON

Extradition papers asking the state of Florida to send Glennon Joseph Davison back to St. Louis county were issued today by Gov. James T. Blair at Jefferson City.

The action was taken after County Prosecuting Attorney Norman Anderson appeared at the capital with a warrant which charged the 28-year-old Davison with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Anne Conway Davison of Kirkwood.

Her body was found July 13 in a second-floor storage closet of her home at 132 East Monroe avenue. She had been shot four times. Davison went to Havana before the discovery of the body and was arrested on his return to Miami last Saturday. Davison, a former psychiatric patient, denied the killing.

TWO FIREMEN ARE INJURED IN $1700 CHURCH BLAZE

Two firemen were injured when fighting a two-alarm fire at the Community Fellowship Church, 1614 Menard street, last night.

Charles Clifton, Engine Co. 16, was cut on the right hand by glass. Leonard Frerick, Hook-and-Ladder Co. No. 6, was struck in the eyes by debris. Both were treated at City Hospital.

The fire, discovered by a passer-by, started in the attic of the building. Damage to the roof and second-floor ceiling was estimated at $1700. Cause was not determined.

STRIP DANCER DEMANDS PENALIZING OF POLICEMEN

Miss Clarise Anngell, striptease dancer who was held nude at police headquarters overnight last Wednesday, demanded punitive action yesterday against policemen who arrested her at the Stardust, a night club at 309 DeBaliviere avenue.

She said in a letter to H. Sam Priest, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, that she received "abusive" and "outrageous" treatment from officers who arrested her. Miss Anngell said that one detective "repeatedly addressed me as Castro."

She said she was "grabbed by the hair" and was thrown into a patrol wagon. She said she removed her clothing only after a threat by a matron that she would "call the detectives and have me disrobed by force."

"I asked the matron for something to cover up with as it got cool, but she wouldn't give me anything," the dancer wrote. "I remained in the cell nude until 8 a.m. when I was given a hospital garment which I put on."

FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY FOR MISS EUNICE A. WEIS

Funeral services for Miss Eunice A. Weis, a member of the St. Louis Public Library staff for 45 years, will be at 9 a.m. Thursday at St. Roch's Catholic Church, 6056 Waterman avenue, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Miss Weis, who was 66 years old and lived at 6169 Pershing avenue, died Sunday at St. Mary's Hospital following a brief illness. Her last assignment was as chief librarian at the Barr Branch Library, 1701 South Jefferson avenue, where she had been since 1956.

Previously Miss Weis had served at the Divoll and Baden branches, and as assistant at Barr. She was active in the Lafayette Community Council, a group of merchants and residents working for community improvement. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Thomas R. O'Brien of St. Louis.

3 Die in Scottish Mine Blast.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

TUESDAY, JULY 26, 1960
SECTION B • PAGES 1-4B

SAVINGS AND LOAN SECTION

Nations Savings and Loan Association's Assets Total $66,900,000,000

The nation's savings and loan associations have continued their post-war rate of growth in the first six months of 1960, according to the United States Savings and Loan League.

In the first half of this year they have increased their savings an estimated $3,700,000,000, approximately 7 per cent, and now hold total savings of $58,-200,000,000, the League said. Total savings at the beginning of the year were $54,500,000,000.

The 1960 savings growth, the League said, is running slightly ahead of the record rate of growth set last year. In the comparable period of 1959, net savings increased by slightly more than $3,500,000,000. The increase in net savings in the first half of this year over the first half of last year is 5 per cent.

"If this pattern continues," said W. O. DuVall, League president, "the chances are that savings and loan associations will set a new record of savings growth in 1960."

DuVall noted that while home construction throughout the country was down approximately 20 per cent from last year's record pace, savings and loan association home mortgage lending was holding up reasonably well.

In the first half of this year, he said, savings and loan associations made an estimated $6,900,000,000 in home mortgage loans, approximately 9 per cent below the comparable figure of 1959.

"However, since home starts are expected to rise in the second half of the year, savings and loan home mortgage lending should reach nearly fifteen billion dollars by the close of the year," DuVall said.

The savings and loan gains in the first half of 1960 have pushed up total assets to an all-time estimated high of $66,900,000,000, more than 5 per cent above the $63,400,000,000 asset figure of Jan. 1.

Continuance of this rate of gain, DuVall said, indicates that the savings and loan business will have assets in excess of 70 billion dollars by the end of the year. This would be eight times larger than it was at the end of World War II.

Executive Graduates of Loan Institute

Pictured here are five of the six St. Louis savings and loan executives who have completed graduate training at the University of Indiana. Seated are Mrs. Margaret Tucker, vice president of Roosevelt Federal Savings and Loan Association and president of the Graduate School Alumni Association, and Joseph Urban, executive vice president of Cass Federal Savings and Loan Association, who was first of the group to complete the graduate study in 1949. Standing (eft to right) are Arthur Katz, executive vice president of Postal Plaza Savings and Loan Association; Russell LaBoube, executive vice president of Bohemian Savings and Loan Association, and Walter Bolliger, vice president of Roosevelt Savings and Loan Association. The sixth graduate, Winifred Kamp, was not present when the photograph was taken.

28 Million Families Own Their Homes

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor.

NEW YORK—Home ownership has risen to the highest position in the nation's history, according to the United States Saving and Loan League.

It reports in its annual savings and loan fact book that 61 per cent of all non-farm families—some 28,000,000 — own their homes. That contrasts with 53 per cent a decade ago and 45 per cent in 1930.

Home owners are financing these houses with $131 billion of mortgage debt which is 11 per cent higher than at the end of 1958 and twice as much as at the end of 1953.

Aggregate mortgage recordings in 1959, according to the fact book, amounted to $32,235,-000,000. Of this total the savings and loan associations led with $13,074,000,000 or 40.6 per cent. Home mortgages recorded in 1959 totaled 3,782,000, 10 per cent higher than in 1958

The loan associations found that despite the big demand for home mortgage credit which tightened the money market, there was in general an adequate supply of funds at favorable terms.

"While mortgage rates rose a little in common with revisions upward in the interest rate structure generally," the fact book noted, "loans in 1959 tended to be made with somewhat longer maturities and relatively smaller down payments.

"Strong factors that have encouraged residential construction and home ownership in the past give every evidence of continuing in the years ahead."

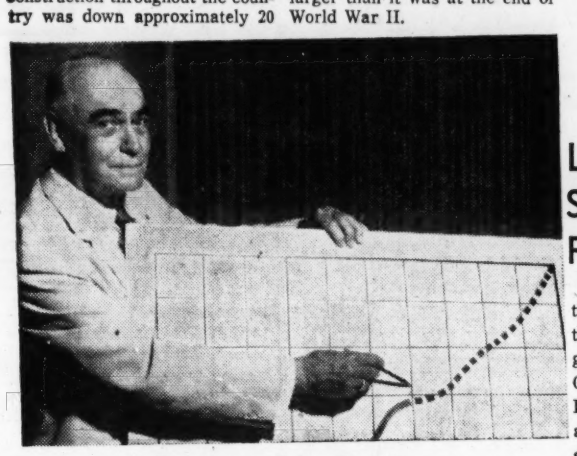
A Growing Business

Brenda Fassel, age nine, is one of an estimated 3000 youngsters who save regularly at St. Louis area savings and loan associations. Special windows, children's accounts and saving reminders help small-fry develop the savings habit. Brenda's account was opened for her the day after she was born. The teller is Esther Kohlbusch.

Continued Home Construction Need, Bank President Says

A recent survey of the Greater St. Louis area shows a continuing need for new home construction, Robert H. Bush, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines, reports.

The demand for new home construction is being felt throughout the entire state, Bush stated. The Federal Home Loan Bank has 123 member associations in Missouri, with resources of approximately $1,553,000,000.



Proving His Point

George N. McDonald, president of the Greater St. Louis Savings and Loan League, uses a graph to emphasize his report that 38 per cent of all home mortgage loans are made by savings and loan associations.

League Expects Steady Demand For Loans

More than 57,000 families in the St. Louis area presently have their homes financed with mortgage loans with members of the Greater St. Louis Savings and Loan League, George N. McDonald, league president of the group, reports.

McDonald, who is executive vice president of Farm and Home Savings and Loan Association, said the 38 members of the St. Louis League financed more than 11,550 homes in the last 12 months and have completed approximately 5500 mortgage loans since January.

"Most of our members are looking forward to a steady demand for mortgage loans during the next six months. Some members believe the rate of demand will continue at about the same pace as witnessed during the past year. Generally, the members of the Savings and Loan League are optimistic about the future of home building in St. Louis," McDonald stated.

163 Enrolled In Savings, Loan Study

Employes of the Greater St. Louis Savings and Loan League established a new record of enrollment in the educational classes sponsored by the St. Louis Chapter 8, American Savings and Loan Institute in the second semester of the 1960 school year.

Enrollment in the night school classes, held at St. Louis University, totaled 163 employes from 29 savings and loan associations. Previous record enrollment was 147 employes.

Classes are held by the Savings and Loan Institute to provide study courses that will help the professional needs of savings and loan employes. Instructors for the courses are experienced executives and employes of the St. Louis savings and loan associations.

Officers recently elected to serve for the 1960-61 year are: Earle LaBoube, Bohemian Savings and Loan, president; Allan H. Ramsey, Roosevelt Federal Savings and Loan, first vice president; George Hunt, Unity Savings and Loan, second vice president; Robert Smith, Columbia Federal Savings and Loan, treasurer; Mary Riegel, Clayton Federal Savings and Loan, recording secretary; Janet McKay, Carondelet Savings and Loan,, educational secretary; Dolores Braisier, Postal Plaza Savings and Loan, corresponding secretary.

New members of the St. Louis Chapter Board of Governors are: Cliff Wieland, Lafayette Federal Savings and Loan; John Bowman, Jefferson Federal Savings and Loan; Harry Walthers, Roosevelt Federal Savings and Loan; Frank Hoffman, Public Service Savings and Loan; Glenn Barker, Conservative Federal Savings and Loan.

Representatives

George S. Metcalfe (left), president of Roosevelt Federal Savings and Loan Association and board member of the U.S. League discusses reports with Michael A. Burdzy, president of Pulaski Savings and Loan Association. Burdzy represents St. Louis on the Missouri State League.

Associations Set New Records

Members of the Greater St. Louis Savings and Loan League established new records for savers, amount of savings and total assets for associations, according to a survey made by the group.

Almost 325,000 persons had savings with members of the St. Louis League at the end of June, an increase of 45,000 during the last 12 months. The survey also disclosed an increase of approximately 30,000 savers since Dec. 31, 1959.

Total savings reached a record high of $690,000,000 on June 30, 1960, an increase from $610,-000,000 recorded a year ago.

The 38 member associations of the League reported an increase in savings of almost $50,000,000 during the last six months.

Total assets of the members also established a new record of more than $825,000,000. The total assets increased more than $120,000,000 in the last year and $64,000,000 since Dec. 31, 1959.

In reporting the increase, the League emphasized that dividends paid by member associations are in direct relationship to the increased number of savings. The 38 associations paid more than $13,000,000 in dividends as of June 30, 1960, an increase of approximately $3,-000,000 since June, 1959.

League members reported in the survey they expect the growth pattern to continue.

U.S. ENDS 19-YEAR STUDY; SETS UP ICE CREAM STANDARDS

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) —It has taken 19 years and 12,000 pages of testimony but the Government has now determined what should and should not be in ice creeam and other frozen desserts.

The new standards announced yesterday by the Food and Drug Administration cover what goes into the product and what the manufacturer says about it on the label. George P. Larrick, commissioner of the FDA, said the establishment of minimum requirements will make it easier for the Government to proceed against a product using inferior or adulterated ingredients.

The search for the standards began in 1941 but was interrupted by World War II. New hearings were held in 1951 and 1952 and ever since then the Food and Drug Administration has been poring over the testimony.

The standards, which become effective Oct. 25, set minimum amounts of milk solids and fats for each clasification and fix a minimum weight for a gallon to prevent too much air from being beaten into the mixture.

VIEWS AND COMMENT ON THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Struggle in G.O.P. Is to Present A Modern Face to World, and That Face May Belong to Lodge

Childs Reports Party Strategists Are Said to Have Agreed Vice-Presidential Nominee Should Be St. George Who Has Battled Red Dragon in U.N.

CHICAGO, July 26.

THE STRUGGLE WITHIN the Republican party is to present a modern face to the world. It is a struggle that has been going on since the crash of 1929, and, as this convention is demonstrating, it is still unresolved.

Vice President Nixon knows only too well that, as the Republican candidate, he cannot go to the country with the comfortable cliches of the past. His task is made more difficult by the fact that for eight years the conflict has been papered over by the presence of the hero-leader, Dwight D. Eisenhower. The name was a magic invocation for the diverse elements of the party, if only because it meant victory.

In being able to unite on Nixon as the legate of President Eisenhower the party is extremely fortunate. As the fight over the platform has shown, if it were now necessary to resolve the differences between the Rockefeller and the Goldwater wings of the party in the selection of No. 1, there would be serious trouble and possibly even disaster ahead.

This conflict is seen in a minor and comparatively unimportant form in the choice of a vice-presidential candidate. If the delegates cannot have Nelson Rockefeller, and they will not surrender this golden dream until the last strategem has been tried and the last vote counted, then they are bound to go in a dozen different directions.

IT IS ONLY necessary to consider some of the names being cast up by this yeasty process to realize how wide are the divergencies in the party. One is that genial master of the well-intentioned platitude, Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois.

No one seriously expects that Dirksen will be the choice of the delegates. But he answers the desires of a segment of the party that cannot be lightly dismissed. It is the Republicanism of the Midwestern small town, the solid, respectable, work hard six days of the week and go to church on Sunday Republicanism. Everett McKinley is their man.

Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is a more sophisticated model. He speaks for the articulate right-wingers who know what they want. They want to roll back the social security measures that add up to that ultimate horror — the welfare state. They want to prosecute the cold war to the utmost limit with a bold defiance of the risks of a hot war.

GOLDWATER'S own candidate for Vice President, as he has repeatedly said here, is Senator Thruston B. Morton, the party's national chairman. Morton is a charming, smooth-talking Kentuckian with a shrewd knowledge of how to reconcile the conflicting factions within the party.

But for the Rockefeller wing he has too much the look of the old-fashioned compromiser in an Ivy league uniform. Gov. Rockefeller recalls that when they both appeared before a meeting of Western Republicans last year Morton could joke amiably about the fact that Kentucky was nearly at the bottom of the list of the states in the support of education. This is Kentucky cynicism only lightly overlaid by Yale.

Surveying the field in search of a modern face for a modern look for the ticket, the party strategists are said to have agreed, with Nixon's blessing, on Henry Cabot Lodge. He is the St. George who has battled the Communist dragon in the United Nations and as such he will greatly enhance the Republican claim of having the wisdom and the experience to stand up to the Russians and lead the nation safely through the perilous times ahead. While saying that the choice should be left to Nixon, the Rockefeller forces have considered Lodge as the logical nominee.

CERTAINLY he has dramatized his role and made his face familiar to millions of voters on television as he is doing now in upholding America's stand against the Soviet charges in the case of the shooting down of the RB-47 over the Barents sea. And incidentally, the fact that he is staying at his post, holding the flag high while the convention goes through its familiar routine, is the best advertisement he could have for the role in which he is likely to be cast in the campaign.

There are sharp differences of opinion among those who have observed him at close hand over how much of the Lodge act is statesman and how much is thespian. But certainly he has enhanced the role of U.N. delegate, making it a cabinet and even in a sense a policy-making post. That is the image he will present if he is the vice-presidential candidate.

The conservatives who have been outraged at the Nixon "surrender" to Rockefeller on the platform may be able to dictate a choice other than this "Eastern internationalist." But if they take him, as Nixon's choice, it will be as the Communist fighter who has made his mark even though he is a modern Republican from the Eastern seaboard.

TASS BLAMES ROCKEFELLER FOR PLANKS ON ARMS RACE

MOSCOW, July 26 (UPI)—The Soviet news agency Tass says New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is responsible for a Republican platform aimed at "increasing still further the arms race."

"Seeing that the party machine is controlled by the rival monopoly groups of Morgans and Mellons and will not permit his own nomination, Rockefeller made an all-out effort to have his demands included in the election platform," Tass said yesterday.

Goldwater Says Rockefeller Is Out to Destroy the Party

Declares Governor 'Mouse-Trapped' Nixon on Civil Rights—Fears South May Quit G.O.P.

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI).

SENATOR BARRY GOLDWATER charged today that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is "out to destroy what we know as the Republican party."

Goldwater told a meeting of delegates from his home state of Arizona that Rockefeller "mouse-trapped" Vice President Richard M. Nixon on the civil rights issue.

"I don't think Nixon can get elected if he keeps on doing what he's doing," Goldwater told the delegates.

Goldwater has described as a sell-out last week's Nixon-Rockefeller 14-point agreement on what the Republican platform should look like.

"If a liberal civil rights plank is adopted," Goldwater said, "the South will leave the party this year. I don't know what Nixon is thinking of."

Goldwater said Rockefeller wants to rebuild the party "in the image of New York Republicans."

"Nixon has got himself mouse-trapped into a position where Rockefeller can win a floor fight on a liberal civil rights plank," Goldwater said.

AS FOR HIS own intentions, Goldwater indicated he will permit his name to go into nomination for President. He said he is sure of 61 first ballot votes. An Arizona delegation survey claimed as many as 275.

"If I can see 300 votes, I would go in just for the expression of conservatism, knowing I wouldn't beat Nixon," Goldwater said.

"It looks to me as if this is the end of the Republican party as we know it," Goldwater said. "We may have to look for new alignments, maybe with members of the other party.

"Rockefeller is aiming for 1964, and that's what we would have to do," Goldwater said.

Events Upset Nixon Slate on Running Mate

CHICAGO.

RICHARD M. NIXON, a man who never makes a move without studying the polls, had his vice-presidential running mate pretty well picked 10 days before the convention. But events in two distant parts of the world upset the polls and his own calculations. They were:

Lyndon Johnson's unexpected acceptance of the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

Trouble in The Congo, plus Cuba and the United States observation planes, which focused more attention than ever on the United Nations and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

PRIOR TO THESE EVENTS, Nixon had favored Senator Thruston Morton, the G.O.P. chairman, as his running mate. He had also planned to ask President Eisenhower to go on a campaign tour of the South, where the polls show Mr. Eisenhower is still popular. But now all bets are off. Nixon has revamped his preference list for vice-presidential running mates and here is the current scorecard:

1. Nelson Rockefeller—Nixon doesn't like him, didn't plan to put him on the ticket, but recognizes his political strength. So he'll now take Rockefeller, despite his personal antagonism.

2. Henry Cabot Lodge—Nixon wants to present an experienced team to the public. Lodge is in the spotlight, has made a good impression in handling foreign affairs. His chief weakness is that he lost to Kennedy in 1952 at a time when the President carried Massachusetts.

3. Senator Morton—able, likeable, coming from Kentucky

Nixon, Like Kennedy, Is Caught In Violent Currents of History

Reston Believes That Is Why Vice President Has Moved to Liberal Side at Risk of Irritating Eisenhower.

By JAMES RESTON

CHICAGO, July 26.

THE OVERRIDING ISSUE of the 1960 presidential campaign is which candidate and party can best deal with the tumult of change in the world.

Republicans and Democrats may differ among themselves and across party lines about how to respond to the revolutionary changes at home and abroad, but nobody at either nominating convention has denied that this is the main issue.

This is why both parties are nominating young men, why both candidates defied the protests of the southern Democratic conservatives and the northern Republican conservatives, why Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York pushed his party to the left, and why Vice President Richard M. Nixon went along with him even at the risk of irritating President Eisenhower.

The preamble to the Republican platform summed up the problem in its opening paragraph: "The lives of men and nations are undergoing such transformations as history has rarely recorded. The birth of new nations, the impact of new machines, the threat of new weapons, the stirring of new ideas, the ascent into a new dimension of the universe — everywhere the accent falls on the new."

THIS SENTIMENT, which parallels the central theme of the Democratic platform, helps explain why the conservatives in both parties are on the defensive. No candidate for the presidency of the American union wants to run against the tendencies of history, even if this means going against the traditions of his party or the sentiments of a substantial and powerful minority of his party.

Thus Senator Kennedy, and even Lyndon Johnson of Texas, accepted a civil rights platform which infuriated the Old South, and Nixon and Rockefeller combined in support of foreign, defense, economic and civil rights policies which enraged the Republican conservatives.

This has been more difficult for Nixon than for Kennedy. The main strength of the Democratic party lies with that part of the electorate which favors change; the heart of the Republican strength lies with those who are more skeptical of change and therefore more inclined to defend the status quo.

Nevertheless, when Nixon was forced by Rockefeller to choose between emphasizing a continuation and expansion of past programs or a more radical platform designed to deal with the dramatic changes of the present, he chose the latter.

If he had done so earlier this year, the chances are that he could have avoided the dramatic confrontation with Rockefeller in New York, and the fight in Chicago with the conservative members of the platform committee.

FOR EXAMPLE, it was in his power to influence the selection of the members of the platform committee earlier this year. Also, he could have come to terms with Rockefeller on the Republican platform long ago and avoided the impression that he was forced at the last minute to take Rockefeller's platform in order to keep Rockefeller from dramatizing the conservative-liberal fight on the floor of the convention.

Since this was not done quietly in the spring or early summer, it had to be done on the eve of the convention with the whole country watching. While this has made the convention more interesting, it has hurt the Republican party.

For it has given the nation the impression that the Republicans are still fighting against

The Letter Carriers' Case

As a letter carrier for 25 years I wish to present some facts your editorial of July 8, "Political Pay Rises," did not mention.

We are not allowed to strike; we lack the right to collective bargaining; but we do have the right to petition Congress by virtue of the Lloyd-LaFollette Act of 1912. If legally using this right is pressure, we are definitely guilty.

The discharge petition is also legal, and is just a case of 219 signatures being more powerful than a few votes on the Rules Committee.

You say "debate on the merits was lacking." Evidently your editorial staff did not have available, or did not read, the testimony from the Federal Employe Compensation Study of 1960, entitled Hearings before the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, U.S. Senate, Eighty-sixth Congress, Second Session.

This report contains testimony from the Postmaster General, Bureau of Labor Statistics, and Director of the Budget.

The leaders of the letter carriers (who led the fight) presented facts, figures, charts and records taken from 25,000 letter carrier family budgets.

As for the "half-million-dollar salary study ordered by Congress itself," this is the record — four separate wage studies commencing with the Fry report, and followed by the Cordiner, Young and O'Connell reports since this Administration took office. The last three reports were ignored because they did not produce the results the Administration wanted.

On page 161 of the hearings can be found the climaxing phrases of the last study in 1957:

"Salaries fixed by statutes have not been adjusted in a timely and adequate manner in response to general changes in non-federal salary levels. In general, federal statutory salary rates are below non-federal rates for comparable positions."

In view of the foregoing facts your paper did not print on this issue, an apology is due to Congress, especially the six from Missouri who signed the discharge petition, and the nine Representatives and two United States Senators who voted to override. One is also due postal and federal workers and their families, and our union leaders.

Cornelius J. Venneman

Speaking of Lures

A recent cartoon by Bill Mauldin showed a dangling lure in the form of Castro who was daring the United States to bite him. Evidently Mauldin is trying to tell us that it would be a mistake to try to protect our position with regard to Cuba. Does Mauldin want us to allow the situation in Cuba to deteriorate further and perhaps even allow the Russians to establish bases in Cuba?

Where Feet Beat a Path...

The other day I saw a most amazin' thing. They are goin' to put up chains along the curbs of Seventh street, between Olive and Locust streets, to keep all those shoppers from crossin' in the middle of the block. By jing, if arrest tickets didn't stop 'em (bless their hearts), they may even climb a chain barrier to spend their money downtown.

We all know that, where many feet beat a path, there a walk should be. So, since I'm not for jaywalkin', I'm a-suggestin' to the city fathers that they think about makin' a cross-walk here—nice and safe-like with painted stripes and walk lights in step with those at the corner.

Bein' a downtown small-business man, I got a special likin' for folks who patronize downtown St. Louis. I want 'em to feel at home here.

Downtown Small-Business Man

Exercising an Old Right

Since the delegates at Los Angeles accomplished the impossible and made Mr. Nixon look good, the only hope for Democrats who lost their party would be Rockefeller.

The Republicans are unlikely to nominate him, however, and although there has never been an election year with brighter prospects for a third party, that is even more remote.

Therefore we Clothespin Democrats think our position will be the only one remaining. We still retain our right not to vote for either presidential ticket, while at the same time lending our support to selected candidates for Congress and state offices.

James L. Summers

100 Years From Lincoln

If the keynote speech at the Republican National Convention sets the tone for the presidential campaign, the voters cannot hope for much rational discussion of foreign policy. Representative Walter H. Judd of Minnesota made it clear that, if he has his way, the Republicans will run against Khrushchev. Vice President Nixon specifically indorsed the address.

Mr. Judd pictured the Eisenhower Administration, which by subtle alchemy at the convention has become the Eisenhower-Nixon Administration, as the only one that has refused to "give in" to Soviet leaders. Naturally, he said, Khrushchev would prefer not to negotiate with a Republican President whom he cannot take into camp. And to explain the fact that in recent years the Soviets have increased their power and arrogance so alarmingly, he said it was all because the Democrats had made too many concessions.

This is, to put it mildly, a distressingly inaccurate version of history, and voters who want a real discussion of how the American world position is to be restored will have to hope that the presidential candidates themselves rise above the levels of convention oratory.

The Republican convention is officially billed as the Lincoln Centennial, and Mr. Judd paid tribute to the party mythology by reminding his listeners that this is the party of Lincoln, brought into being to wipe out slavery.

Yet as he spoke the party of Lincoln was finding great difficulty in agreeing on a relatively mild platform promise to advance the cause of civil rights for which it once led the nation in civil war.

That the Republicans can get into the same kind of dispute over civil rights as the Democrats emphasizes how much the two parties are coming to look alike. Historically and politically, this is one issue on which the Republicans should be able to speak strongly. But it will take the combined influence of Mr. Nixon and Gov. Rockefeller to strengthen the civil rights plank even to the point where it will stand comparison with that of the Democrats, and it is clear that the party as a whole, even if it bows to this pressure, will do so against its better judgment.

If left to itself the party would be much more hesitant on foreign policy, defense and economic growth than Mr. Nixon and Gov. Rockefeller advocate in their 14 points. The chances are that the rebellion in the platform committee will be put down. But it is the rebels, and not the two national leaders, who represent the real sentiment at Chicago.

The keynote speech and the platform fight alike must be viewed in the light of the fact that presidential campaigns come down, in the end, to the candidates. Keynotes are meant to rouse the animals, not to illuminate the issues. Mr. Judd followed tradition in professional style. Platforms are meant to provide verbal formulas to accommodate many divergent views.

The Republicans, like the Democrats, will be judged primarily on the record, capacities, character and promise of their presidential candidate. The platform, over which such seemingly desperate struggles are waged in convention, will fade in voters' minds as the candidates come into full focus.

Shepherd Over Speer

A close contest is in sight for the Republican nomination for State Representative in the county's Eighth District, a central area including parts of Ladue, Kirkwood, Glendale and Frontenac. The race is between the incumbent Charles M. M. Shepherd and Alfred A. Speer. Both are young lawyers.

On balance we would recommend Rep. Shepherd's renomination on the basis of his one term of experience and his understanding of the county's school financing problem. He has worked for equalizing educational opportunities in the county exactly along lines recommended by the Metropolitan St. Louis Survey. Mr. Speer opposes this approach. Evidently he fails to understand that the benefits of industrialization to broaden the county's tax base cannot be equitably shared in the absence of some such plan as that proposed by the Survey, or that children now have to live within the shadow of industry to benefit financially from it.

Rep. Shepherd understands the school problem and the need for legislation to pave the way for its solution. He is willing to do something about it. We favor Rep. Shepherd's renomination.

Fair Trade for Cuba?

Fidel Castro no doubt is trying to play off one big power against another in his sugar-barter deals with Russia and Red China. Seeking greater economic independence of the United States, he is deliberately pushing Cuba toward the Communist trade orbit. But Havana offers a small and precarious fulcrum for such great powers as these.

Castro's new arrangement with China means that he will sell nearly 2,000,000 tons of his prospective 5,500,000-ton sugar crop to the Communist bloc. When the United States bought 3,100,000 tons yearly, such a deal would have guaranteed the sale of nearly the whole Cuban production. Washington recently cut 700,000 tons off the Cuban quota, however, and may cut more in the future, so Castro still is not assured a complete market for Cuba's main export.

From Cuba's point of view, it is not so important that the Communist sales will involve barter on a basis of prices lower than the United States pays. The United States paid high for sugar, but Cuba used the dollars gained to pay high for manufactures from the United States. By bartering sugar for Communist manufactures, Castro obviously hopes to stop the drain on Cuba's dollar reserves, and to reduce dependence on the dollar market.

Economic independence is a primary goal of the Castro revolution, and has unquestioned popular support. As one Havana citizen told an English correspondent, James Morris of the Manchester Guardian, "This city looks American, doesn't it? It smells American? Sure it does. This was a dollar colony." He went on to say that having 50 per cent of Cuba's trade going to the States was all right, "but 90 per cent, that's imperialism."

Economic independence, justly sought, would be a goal which the United States itself could support for Cuba. Cuba has as much right as anybody to trade with Communist nations. But as other countries have discovered in doing business with the Kremlin, Communism's interest in trade often is more political than economic. For Cuba, the great risk in trading dependence on the United States for dependence on the Communist bloc is that both economic and political independence can suffer in the bargain.

The Case of the RB-47

The United States seems at this point to have the better of the Soviet Union in the United Nations Security Council debate over the shooting down of the RB-47. The Russians say they downed the plane July 1 over Soviet territorial waters in the Barents Sea. The United States reply is that the plane was at all times over international waters.

To an objective observer, neither nation has offered conclusive proof of its contention. But Ambassador Lodge says that when the plane's position was last monitored, presumably by radar, the RB-47 was well outside Soviet territory and was proceeding on a course that would not impinge on Russian air space. The crew had the latest in navigation equipment and was under instructions to stay well away from Soviet territory. The British backed Mr. Lodge with the disclosure they had independent information to support his assertion the plane was never within 30 miles of the Soviet coast.

The Russians obviously know exactly what happened, but since they have not chosen to disclose all the details their version must be suspect. And it must be doubly suspect in the light of the knowledge that an incident such as this is useful to them in their propaganda struggle to destroy the United States's system of forward bases. Although Ambassador Lodge's case is not perfect, it is a lot better than that of the Soviet Union.

The United States is on sound ground in seeking an investigation of the incident by an impartial commission, although the matter does not seem to lend itself to Mr. Lodge's alternate proposal that the World Court be asked to take jurisdiction. Pressure should be put on the Russians to make public all the details. Our planes have a right to fly at will over international waters, and if measures are needed to prevent Russian harassment, they should be taken.

Mr. Benson's Indorsement

Among the minor political mysteries of the day is why Secretary of Agriculture Benson should have asserted that Gov. Rockefeller would be the strongest Republican presidential candidate. Mr. Benson said nothing previously to indicate disapproval of Vice President Nixon, and stated he thought Mr. Nixon would support his farm policy. Mr. Nixon, on the other hand, has given every evidence of wanting to break loose from the unpopular policies of Mr. Benson.

So the result of Mr. Benson's statement is to free Mr. Nixon to draw a line between his own views and those of the Administration as represented by the Secretary of Agriculture. This undoubtedly is helpful to Mr. Nixon, who has said he would offer his own farm program after his nomination. What will Mr. Benson do in the campaign? The notion is advanced that he may remain in the Cabinet and continue to preach his gospel, thus drawing the fire of Democratic orators and taking the heat off Mr. Nixon.

This seems to us an unnecessarily complex approach. Mr. Nixon's best bet to capture the farm vote is to come forward with an imaginative program to end costly surpluses without destroying farm income.

Why Not Follow Durham?

The Sam Iaconetti case showed Missouri how precarious is present legal procedure involving questions of insanity in criminal cases. The joint lecture reprinted in today's Mirror of Public Opinion was given prior to this case but is pertinent in view of the new interest in improving medical testimony.

Unfortunately, the Missouri Supreme Court has refused to adopt the Durham test of criminal insanity which the Mirror article expounds. In Missouri vs. Goza, 1958, the court rejected the Durham Rule on the ground that "it fails to give the jury any sufficient guide as to what constitutes mental disease." Yet the major advantage of the rule is its lack of legal rigidity. It gives medical witnesses the latitude necessary in their complex science for testifying on mental disease and its relation to a crime. The present M'Naghten Rule, requiring a determination of whether a defendant knew right from wrong, is a totally unscientific guide as to what constitutes mental disease. It encourages differences of opinion, as in the Iaconetti case.

Missouri's courts, we think, ought to abandon this century-old rule and bring their legal procedure into accord with medical and psychiatric advances. Most psychiatrists and many lawyers would agree on this, but if the courts do not act, the Legislature may want to consider the lessons of the Iaconetti case.

Red Herring on a Billboard

"Do You Want To Pay Someone Else's Rent?" Opponents of the Jefferson Barracks public housing project are asking that question on giant billboards that mar the county's pleasant scenery. Nobody wants to pay the other fellow's rent, but this is not really the issue; it is more of a calculated deception.

The fact is that Federal income taxes paid by county citizens already are paying part of someone else's rent in public housing in St. Louis and other parts of the United States, and that situation will continue regardless of the outcome of the Aug. 2 referendum on J.B. What is more, county voters won't save a single cent in Federal taxes even if the J.B. project is killed. The Federal money will simply be transferred for use somewhere else. If countians kill the project, they will lose an essential tool in urban redevelopment and they'll be paying for it anyway. It does not make sense to cast a vote that will produce that kind of result.

No local money is going into the Barracks —unless of course the county falls for the billboard nonsense. In that case the people will have to pay the costs of abandoning the project, which could run to at least $1,000,000 and perhaps three times as much. But if the project is approved at the polls, as it should be, it will be federally financed, and there would be no question of abandonment costs.

Citizens who think twice about the deception on the billboards will vote APPROVED on this issue.

COUNTER-ATTACK

How the Courts View Insanity

Attorney and Psychiatrist Discuss Outmoded Legal Boundaries for Medical Testimony

From a Washington University Law Lecture by Melvin L. Newmark and Dr. Bernard A. Cruvant

In Missouri, as in practically all states and in the federal courts, the so-called "M'Naghten Rule" dictates the legal test of criminal responsibility and insanity. In some states it has been established by statutory provisions but in most it is embodied primarily in court decisions.

The background of the M'Naghten Rule is important in understanding its durability. In 1843, M'Naghten was brought to trial for the murder of Edmond Drummond, the private secretary of the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Peel. According to testimony, M'Naghten shot his victim in the back without any provocation. Two years before he had asked his father to put a stop to the persecution that was raised against him. He thought spies were following him.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Lord Chief Justice Tindal, who presided at the trial, submitted a charge to the jury on the question "whether on the whole of the evidence you have heard you are satisfied that at the time the act was committed . . . he had not that competent use of his understanding as not to know that he was doing, by the very act itself, a wicked and wrong thing."

Following the trial, considerable debate ensued in the House of Lords and it was determined to take the opinion of the learned Law Lords of England on questions relating to the defense of insanity in criminal cases. It was in answer to the questions that the judges announced that:

"To establish a defense at the time of the committing of the act . . . the accused party was laboring under such a defect of reason from disease of the mind as not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing, or if he did know it, that he did not know he was doing what was wrong."

In addition to the M'Naghten Rule, some 17 states have accepted the doctrine of "irresistible impulse." This doctrine states that in addition to being able to know right from wrong, an individual must be able to adhere to the right or to resist doing a wrongful act.

In only two jurisdictions is there a distinctly different rule of law. Justice Doe in State vs. Pike (New Hampshire, 1869) announced that the rule was "whether an individual has a mental disease and whether the criminal acts charged are a product of that disease." In a celebrated decision by the Federal Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia on July 1, 1954, the now famous Durham case was decided. Judge Bazelon stated that the rules were to be simply, first, whether the individual was suffering from a disease or mental defect, and second, whether the crime was a product of such a mental disease or defect.

The Durham Rule was held by many psychiatrists to be a magnificent step forward in resolving the difficulties encountered when a psychiatrist was required to make his testimony conform to antiquated notions of mental processes. It was also denounced by other psychiatrists, and by many prosecutors, as a step backward. There were dire predictions as to an increase in criminals seeking to escape just punishment through spurious pleas of insanity aided by over-liberal interpretation. (Durham, however, was convicted; M'Naghten was acquitted.)

Judge Bazelon pointed out, however, that juries have always made moral judgments and have tended to determine guilt or innocence quite apart from any specific rule expounded by the judge. It was his belief that the Durham Rule would permit the psychiatrist to testify with greater latitude as a medical expert.

Justice Douglas of the United States Supreme Court commented a few years ago as to the reasons why the M'Naghten Rule had been established. In 1843, England was in a political ferment. The ruling class felt the uneasiness of the times and was nervous. M'Naghten's acquittal generated a lot of heat. Judge Biggs in his book on "The Guilty Mind" has said: "Under pressure from the Crown, the Lords and the press . . . the Judges were in effect called to account for what seemed miscarriages of justice in which murderers went unpunished."

Had it not been for this, it is possible that the views of Dr. Isaac Ray, in his book "The Medical Jurisprudence of Insanity" (1838), might have carried the day. Recently published correspondence indicates that Dr. Ray was the inspiring influence that led to the New Hampshire test of insanity.

In 1913 a distinguished group of psychiatrists and lawyers, including the late Adolph Meyer, Morton Prince, William White and others, recommended passage of legislation with this test: "No person suffering from mental disease shall hereafter be convicted of any criminal charge, when at the time of the act . . . he did not have, by reason of such mental disease, the particular state of mind that must accompany such an act in order to constitute the crime charged."

With approval, the Medical Legal Bar Association of the Pennsylvania Psychiatric Society noted that mental illness is not a constant quality, that the bill espoused no particular legal theory, that it eliminated any legal definition of insanity and did not employ the word, and that it separated the legal and medical functions of the trial. The bill left it to the judge to define the law to the jury, and to the jury to fit the facts as related by the expert to the case.

Criminal responsibility is a legal question and rules for its determination are inevitably based on legal principles. Mental disease is a medical problem and can be established by the testimony of qualified physicians. It is the function of the jury to apply the rule of law laid down by the judge to the medical testimony and to arrive at a verdict.

But since the Durham decision there has been no particular indication of any attempts to expand the use of this concept. In Missouri, the M'Naghten Rule has been consistently followed from the earliest recorded case.

Between Book Ends Too-Rich Recipe

P. M. Pasinetti

The Venice of one's dreams is a white cloud castle rising out of the blue canals with gondolas riding gayly by, carrying masked cavaliers and their dark-eyed loves. In a word, romance!

But here we have a cluttered dense growth, like a suffocating vine, covering up and hiding a small structure of thought. While a kind of intellectual history exists in this complicated narrative of two interwoven Venetian families, there's little real excitement of episode and the romance but merely byplay between couples, taken between bouts of talk. Conversation, that is the main means of progression, and the dialogue is infinite. There is the Partibon family, particularly Elena and Giorgio, sister and brother who find themselves fatally enmeshed in an incestuous attraction —which, however, does not prevent them from other affairs. Giorgio in particular; this gallant has girls, girls, girls at a mere glance from his lazy black eyes.

The Partibons are poverty—well, at any rate, not rich patricians, sliding slowly down-hill. Their antagonists are the parvenu, fascistic Fassola family for this is the Mussolini era. The Fassola drive for power, corrupt and amoral, alternately attracts and repels the Partibons. And so behind the surface events we have a theme of moment—will the Partibons cling to the free ideal of their exiled Marco, or will the destroying Fassola seed their existence with death and decay?

Seemingly there should be a novel here but it has gotten out of hand. Too complex, a message too vague, too many surface events. The recipe is too rich, the pudding falls apart, disintegrates in various directions.

Collier Ford

GUIDE FOR LIVING: AN APPROVED SELECTION OF LETTERS AND ADDRESSES OF HIS HOLINESS, arranged by Maurice Quinlan. (Longmans, Green, 270 pgs., $4.50.)

In his 20-year Pontificate, Pius XII spoke out on numerous subjects. In his will the Pope said he did not need to leave a spiritual testament "because the not inconsiderable number of acts and speeches emanated or pronounced by me by reason of my office suffice to make known, to whoever should by chance desire to know, my thought on the different religious and moral questions." In this volume his views appear in four parts: The Family, War and Peace, The Church and Science, Letters and Laymen, The Road to Christ. Any impartial reader can find inspiration in the Pope's thought as cogently expressed in the book.

DORIS FLEESON

Mr. Nixon and the Platform

CHICAGO.

VICE PRESIDENT RICHARD M. NIXON surrendered on principle to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to achieve convention unity and strengthen his appeal to the big states where elections are won and lost.

But the "dream ticket" of Nixon-Rockefeller still eludes the party, and the question remains whether platform promises can serve the purpose when they are not dramatized by the persons of the conflicting leaders. What hurts is that the Democrats, more by good luck than good management, produced the "dream" kind of result at Los Angeles. They may have trouble later, but Senators John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson appear now to offer in their very different persons the maximum reassurance to regions and voting blocs on which their party depends.

Fleeson

Nobody thought Johnson would take second place and so substitute potential power for his present genuine authority, but he did and Rockefeller won't. It seems clear that Johnson thought Kennedy would win and that Rockefeller at the very least suspects that Nixon can't.

Fading Visions.

What both Johnson and Rockefeller are saying in their separate ways is that under the American system all the executive power belongs to the President and that Kennedy and Nixon are men who would use it, leaving very little lying around for a Vice President. President Eisenhower's age, health and passive concept of the presidency, in combination with Nixon's aggressiveness and astuteness, has obscured this fact for the public.

But both Johnson and Rockefeller have had long service in Washington. Johnson knows no Senator can become great by fighting a President of his own party, so he would have to play second fiddle to a President Kennedy or be displaced. Rockefeller served as an Eisenhower assistant where he had actual experience of being euchred out of authority by Eisenhower's refusal to interfere with Sherman Adams and the late John Foster Dulles.

Thus Nixon had powerful motives for picking up the telephone to Rockefeller even before this convention began to jell. Fading rapidly were the Vice President's rosy visions of carrying a disaffected Texas and Southern and border states presumably sensitive to Kennedy's Catholicism. The unexpected Democratic Senate victory in North Dakota banished any notion that it is only Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, not Republicans, who are unpopular in the once heavily Republican Midwest.

Rockefeller Adamant.

Kennedy's sweeping convention victory showed his pulling power in the pivotal states and it was reinforced there by an unequivocal platform his own advisor, Representative Chester Bowles of Connecticut, had managed.

Then came week-end word from Chicago that Rockefeller was adamant about liberalizing the platform and ready to fight it out on the floor. What this might do to him in New York and similar states had to concern the Vice President deeply.

He was not without weapons. Conservative Republicans, mostly upstate, are for him and resentful of Rockefeller's leadership. Already their spokesman, State Senate Leader Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, had held up to the Governor a Gorgon's head of rebellion which might cost the state next fall, result in legislative civil war thereafter and be a threat to Rockefeller's re-election in 1962.

The Governor has extricated himself from that snarl and he has promised to support the ticket named here. He also arrives here on a psychological crest of great help to his national image.

He has done Nixon some further service in forcing his disassociation from some White House policies and giving him an alibi with the President.

'ROSALIE' HAS WET OPENING AT PARK

Dated Musical Is Rained Out in Middle of Final Act.

By MYLES STANDISH

Half-way through the second and final act of "Rosalie," at Municipal Opera last night, a drizzle which had been falling for a half hour finally graduated into a light and stubborn rain, forcing the opening night audience of 7100 to the pergolas. A quarter hour later, the management called it quits for the night. It was just as well. The production, as well as the atmosphere had been pretty damp most of the evening. Old "Rosalie" was like a moist firecracker that just fizzled, never exploded.

The simple truth is that "Rosalie," like so many musical comedies of its genre, is terribly dated. It was probably dated when Florenz Ziegfeld first put it on around 1927, but with all the glitter attendant on his show—Marilyn Miller, Jack Donahue, beautiful girls and gorgeous costumes—no one could see the new deal coming up in musicals, one with style and meaning like "Show Boat" and "Music in the Air." So shiny emptiness had its last real fling.

The plot by William Anthony McGuire is like pink spun carnival cotton candy. West Point cadet flies ocean to meet princess of mythical kingdom. Royal parents spurn upstart suitor. But when they come to the United States seeking, like any mythical bankrupt kingdom, some good old American dollars, cadet gets in his military strategy as they visit West Point.

Parents order princess off to a loveless marriage, but she escapes, so help me, by donning a uniform and posing as a cadet. Cute, oh my, how cute! No matter what anybody says, the world has progressed since then.

McGuire's comedy, centering chiefly around a smart-aleck cadet friend of the hero and the heroine's roguish-leer-toward-the-girls royal father, is just what the moribund plot needed for the coup de grace.

The songs were by such illustrious names as George Gershwin and Sigmund Romberg on the notes and P. G. Wodehouse and Ira Gershwin on the words, but one suspects they tossed the whole thing off at a Saturday night poker game. "Oh, Gee, Oh Joy," is lively, and "Say So," is fair, but there's nothing else to make a man perk up his ears in the original score.

Cole Porter came to a minor rescue in a later film version with "In the Still of the Night," an evocative number well sung by Dorothy Collins last night, and a so-so title song, but it was merely throwing good bars after bad.

The rest of the music served merely to implement one hussars' march and one West Point cadet march, old stuff that still retains its popularity at Forest Park. In line with the age of the piece, there was even a high-kicking precision dancing chorus, a style which has been permanently embalmed in the museum at Radio City Music Hall.

Miss Collins as the Princess Rosalie, Bill Shirley as her ramrod-backed suitor, Bobby Van as his flippant pal, Arthur Treacher as the ogling king, Marjorie Gateson as the haughty queen and Dorothy Keller as the soubrette, all tried nobly, but in the judgment of this scorer weren't ahead when the game was called.

The early ending prevented the playing upon the stage by musical director Edwin McArthur of the third movement of Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F major. That might have been compensatory, but hardly settlement in full for damages suffered.

EUGENE GRACE DIES; EX-STEEL EXECUTIVE

Made Bethlehem Corp. Second Biggest Producer in U.S.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Eugene G. Grace, who made Bethlehem Steel Corp. the nation's second largest producer, died yesterday. He was 83 years old.

Mr. Grace, who for nearly half a century served as president, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, abandoned a promising career with the old Boston Braves to join Bethlehem in 1899 after graduating from Lehigh university at the top of his class.

His first job was that of an electric crane operator earning 15 cents an hour. He rose steadily until he became one of the highest paid corporate officers in the country. His salary and bonus totaled $1,560,000 in 1929.

At the age of 80 Mr. Grace was in the midst of directing Bethlehem's $300,000,000 expansion program designed to increase its 20,000,000 ton annual capacity by 3,000,000 tons.

Mr. Grace, the son of a Goshen, N.J., sea captain turned shore merchant, said he gave up baseball because he felt his career would be over at the age of 35. Ironically, in 1913 at the age of 36, he became president of the Bethlehem Steel Co. Less than three years later he was promoted to president of the parent Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Mr. Grace became board chairman in 1945 and continued as chief executive officer. Under his guidance Bethlehem's ingot capacity increased from 950,000 tons in 1913 to 73,000,000 tons for six years during and just after World War II. It now exceeds 20,500,000 tons. He was also chiefly responsible for making Bethlehem the nation's largest ship building concern.

In 1957, shortly after he resigned as board chairman and chief executive officer, his health began to fail.

He led the industry in introducing benefit plans, paid vacations for hourly workers and company grants to schools. He advocated the theory that an organization should develop its own men and give them advancement opportunities. He cut his own income by $350,000 in World War II.

Pirates Regain Lead on Home Run Pitches by Ex-Mate Kline

Cardinals Lose, 4-2; 4-Bagger By Musial

By John J. Archibald

In the midst of a dreary Cardinal dressing room pitching coach Howard Pollet sat quietly last night, mulling over a hard-to-take loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Ron is an awfully effective pitcher when he keeps his stuff low," said Pollet. "We've been working on it. But once in a while a pitch just seems to get away from him."

Pollet, who has been given much of the credit for the improvement of several other Redbird pitchers, was speaking of one of the hurlers who has not yet benefitted from his advice—Ronnie Kline.

Kline had just tossed two more home run pitches, Nos. 19 and 20 this season, which enabled the Pirates to regain first place in the National League by beating the Cardinals, 4 to 2, at Busch Stadium.

The 28-year-old former Pirate is far and away the Redbirds' gopher ball champ, with the 12 home runs allowed by Larry Jackson being closest to his total. Jackson has pitched almost twice as many innings as Kline, including seven excellent frames last night.

Pinch-Hitter for Jackson.

The score was tied, 2-2, when Jackson was removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning. When Saturday's hero, Walt Moryn, struck out to end the frame, it put the game in the hands of reliever Kline.

The first two batters to face him went out easily. The third was Bob Skinner and the ball he hit went out easily—out of the park and into Grand boulevard. That put the Bucs ahead, 3 to 2.

Roberto Clemente, leadoff batter in the ninth, gave Pittsburgh an insurance run when he drilled one of Kline's pitches into the bleachers in left-center.

Both of the key pitches were high. Catcher Carl Sawatski said they were both fast balls.

There were four home runs in all. Stan Musial gave the Cardinals the lead when he socked one of starter Bob Friend's offerings against a light standard atop the pavilion roof in the second inning. It was The Man's ninth circuit blow of the year.

A former Redbird who never has forgotten that the Cards once traded him for Bobby Del Greco, Bill Virdon, tied the score at 1-1 when he homered in the sixth.

Rocky Nelson in Picture.

Pittsburgh went ahead in the seventh when Rocky Nelson—don't those discarded Redbirds ever forget—led off with a single and scored later on Bill Mazeroski's hit.

Manager Solly Hemus made use of his vast array of bench strength in the last half of the same inning, however, and tied the score. Daryl Spencer singled with one out. Alex Grammas, who had base hits in three other trips to the plate, grounded out, but Spencer took second. Master pinch-hitter George Crowe then batted for Curt Flood and singled, scoring Spencer.

Sawatski batted for Hal Smith and singled. This runners-on-first-and-third situation presented Hemus with a problem. Pitcher Jackson was scheduled to bat next. Questioned afterward, the Redbird manager admitted that he hesitated before pulling his No. 1 hurler for a pinch-batter.

"But I figured this was my chance to win the game right there," said Hemus. "I had Kline warmed up and I had confidence in him because he had pitched well against Pittsburgh this season. That's why I sent in Moryn to bat."

Hemus's memory wasn't deceiving him. Kline had done good work against the Bucs, at least by comparison to his efforts against other teams. Ron had achieved two of his three victories against Pittsburgh—as well as two defeats.

But this was a night for ex-Cardinals, not ex-Pirates. Kline, the man who must pitch low in order to be good, threw high.

"Oh, yes, it was very high," said the man out on Grand. "The ball cleared the roof, and that screen on top of the roof . . . and it bounced high when it landed too. Very high."

Nuxhall's Knucks Go Up---and He Goes Down

Cincinnati pitcher JOE NUXHALL (39) squares off with Umpire ED VARGO after Nuxhall pushed Vargo in disagreement over play at first base yesterday. To keep Nuxhall from battling the umpire, teammates BILLY MARTIN (12) and GORDON COLEMAN (far right) wrestled the pitcher to the ground. Nuxhall was thrown out of the Chicago game, won by the Reds, 6-5.

Foiles Goes To Tigers For Two

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today obtained veteran shortstop Rocky Bridges, and catcher Bob Wilson from the Detroit Tigers in a waiver deal that sent catcher Hank Foiles to the Tigers.

Frank Lane, Cleveland general manager, said waivers also had been asked on pitcher John Briggs for the purpose of assigning his contract to another major league club, presumably Detroit.

Bridges probably will take over the shortstop job with the Indians, filled with rookie Mike De La Hoz after Woody Held was injured.

Manager Joe Gordon said he hoped to get Bridges and Wilson into the lineup as soon as they could report to the club. The Tigers were in Washington when the deal was made.

Bridges, 32, has played only 10 games for Detroit this year. Chico Fernandez, acquired during the winter, took over his shortstop job this spring. Bridges had one hit in five official at bats for a .200 average.

Wilson, 31, appeared in 45 games for the Tigers and was batting .216. He had four doubles, a homer and 15 RBI.

Foiles, 31, was acquired by the Indians when he refused to report to Pittsburgh's Columbus farm after he was traded by Kansas City. Foiles had a .307 batting average.

Briggs, a 26-year-old right-hander, has a 4-2 won-lost record with the Tribe.

The Kansas City Athletics today sent Catcher Harry Chiti to the Detroit Tigers on waivers.

Parke Carroll, the club's general manager and vice president, made the announcement at Baltimore.

Chiti has a batting average of .221 in 58 games this season. He has driven in 28 runs and hit five homers. Because of a back injury he has been used sparingly of late.

The 6-2, 220-pound catcher was drafted from the New York Yankees in December of 1957. In 1958 he batted .268 and last season finished with .272.

Simmons to Oppose Vern Law Tonight

Curt Simmons, whose work with the Cardinals has been far more important than is indicated by his 2-0 record, will pitch against the Pirates in tonight's 8 o'clock game at Busch Stadium. Vern (12-5) Law will probably be Pittsburgh's starter.

The Cardinals threatened in the ninth inning last night. With one out, Alex Grammas got his third single. Pinch-hitter Bob Nieman struck out, but Sawatski made his second hit in as many appearances.

Ken Boyer, who had come within one out of getting a full day of rest for his various muscle injuries, batted for Kline. Elroy Face then relieved Friend. Boyer flied out to end the game.

The defeat ended a four-game Cardinal winning streak. This was the fifth time Manager Solly Hemus's club has won this many in succession, but never has the streak gone further.

After making several fine plays earlier, second baseman Julian Javier muffed two successive grounders in the fourth inning. He then helped to complete a double play that took Larry Jackson out of trouble.

In a preliminary affair the Radio-TV team defeated the Newspapermen, 3 to 1.

Rightfielder Joe Cunningham again made the play that brought the greatest cheer from the crowd that included 23,641 cash customers. In the seventh, with two on and two out, Joe raced for Bob Friend's sinking liner, speared it and then tumbled across the grass with the ball in his outstretched glove—a Cunningham special.

Tonight's broadcast will be over stations KWK and WAMV instead of KMOX, which will carry the Republican convention.

Joe Nuxhall Suspended, Fined $250

CINCINNATI, July 26 (UPI)—National League President Warren Giles today suspended Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Joe Nuxhall for five days and fined him $250 for pushing Umpire Ed Vargo yesterday in Chicago.

Nuxhall's suspension starts today. He quarrelled with Vargo in the eighth inning over a play at first base in which Vargo called Chicago Cub runner George Altman safe. Nuxhall was covering the bag on the play.

He charged at Vargo, and Red teammates had to wrestle him to the ground to restrain him.

Cincinnati scored all its runs in the last three innings yesterday to overcome a five-run deficit and break a four-game losing streak with a 6-5 victory. The Reds moved within one run of a tie in the eighth with the help of Frank Robinson's double, Wally Post's sacrifice fly and Gordon Coleman's single.

They won the game in the ninth on singles by Leon Cardenas, Gus Bell and Vada Pinson and a pair of sacrifice flies by Eddie Kasko and Harry Anderson.

Royals and Big 'O'

Although the Reds are playing baseball this summer as though they had trained on the steppes of Russia, Cincinnati is looking forward to considerable improvement from its other professional team, the basketball Royals.

And, coming away from the banks of the O-hi-o, you get the definite impression that for the first time the Royals, poor relations of pro basketball, are looking forward to doing business at the box-office.

The answer, of course, is Oscar Robertson.

Even though the Royals haven't signed him, their season ticket sale has more than doubled, General Manager Pepper Wilson acknowledged the other night at a dinner given by sportsman Ed Mosler at nearby Hamilton, O.

The Olympic code requires that Big "O" be as athletically pure as the driven snow when he helps Pete Newell and the rest of Uncle Whiskers' amateur basketball best retain the international roundball championship next month at Rome.

When you tease Wilson about whether he already has lined up Robertson, he grins almost as broadly as Cincinnati University's fabulous three-time All-America did a week earlier when asked the same question in the Yankee Stadium clubhouse of the victorious Natioal League baseball All-Stars.

They shake their heads in the most easily understood double negative since the emaciated illiterate said he ain't had nuthin' to eat.

Twyman's Tribute

Assuming that Big "O" will be with the Royals when they play the Hawks here Saturday night, Oct. 8, in a benefit sponsored by the Junior League of St. Louis, Wilson spoke glowingly of Cincinnati's chances of digging out of the N.B.A. basement.

"Robertson, Bob Boozer and Jay Arnette could make a big difference," said the Royals' G.M. "Except maybe for Detroit, the Western Division teams should give St. Louis more of a battle next winter. The Lakers, in Los Angeles, will have Jerry West to go with Elgin Baylor, Rudy LaRusso and Rod Hundley."

With the Peoria Caterpillars having joined the mass exodus from A.A.U. basketball, the Royals seem unlikely to have much trouble signing Kansas State's Boozer, their No. 1 draft choice a year ago. Arnette is a backcourt star from the University of Texas.

It's as a backcourt man, incidentally, that Jack Twyman, the Royals' remarkable scorer, expects Roberston to make his mark in professional basketball.

"He's not as big or as strong as Baylor," said Twyman, "but he's great. I scrimmaged against him many times and, one on one, he gave me a fit."

Twyman, whose 2338 points were second only to Wilt Chamberlain's record-breaking 2707 last year, is a personable young man, 26, who has won sportsmanship brotherhood awards and other deserved recognition for the time and attention he has devoted to former teammate Maurice Stokes, bedridden for two and a half years with an insidious form of sleeping sickness.

Roll of Honor

Although Stokes only can make sounds barely understandable to Twyman, his legal guardian is convinced he'll walk away and talk again, if not play.

"Maury was an amazing player, so versatile and unselfish," said the hustling insurance man and television sports announcer who might be regarded as an authority on unselfishness.

"He was," Twyman said, with feeling, "the only player in the league who ranged close to the top in scoring, field-goal percentage, rebounds and assists."

Cincinnati's handsome Gardens, where Twyman and Company have rattled around previously in semi-privacy, will be filled Aug. 13 for one of the six tuneup games to be played by the United States Olympic team, the Hawks' Ben Kerner pointed out.

Pete Newell, the retiring California coach, will give up towel-chewing, his outlet for the agonizing ravages of the profession, after the Olympic games.

Newell has available tremendous talent. Aside from Cincinnati's Robertson, West Virginiia's West, Texas' Arnette and K-State's Boozer, Uncle Sam's amateur basketball best include Jerry Lucas, Ohio State; Walt Bellamy, Indiana; Terry Dischinger, Purdue; Daral Imhoff, California; Burdette Halderson, Colorado; Al Kelly, Kansas; Les Lane, Oklahoma, and Adrian Smith, Kentucky. The last four, like Boozer, have played industrial or service basketball since they left college.

"If that team can't win at Rome," Kerner said, "we're in trouble."

As much as the Hawks, the way their boss worries, when they lose the first tipoff of the opening game of a 76-game schedule.

Buchholz May Play Singles

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26 (UPI)—The United States Davis Cup selection committee yesterday named Barry MacKay, Bernard Bartzen, Earl Buchholz Jr. and Charles McKinley for the all-important Mexican match Aug. 6-8.

Chairman James B. Moffett said Martin Riessen, Hinsale, Ill.; Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif.; Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif.; and Lawrence Magler, North Hollywood, Calif., new members of the Davis Cup squad, all were being watched carefully by Captain David L. Freed.

He said that the Mexican match will be played at an altitude of almost 8000 feet and is one of the toughest assignments in tennis.

Especially is this true, he added, now as the Mexican team is the strongest one ever to represent that country. The U. S. team left yesterday so they will have 11 days to get acclimated.

MacKay and Bartzen were expected to be the singles players although it was considered possible Buchholz might be used in singles because he won the South African championship at 6500 feet in Johannesburg last April.

Doubles will probably be handled by Buchholz and McKinley. This team recently clinched the tie with Canada.

Nashua Colt Brings $75,000 at Sales

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 26 (UPI)—A dark colt by Nashua out of imported Pashmina, brought the high price of $75,000 at last night's session of the annual yearling sales at Keeneland race course.

The colt, consigned by Leslie Combs II, was bought by trainer Yorkie McLeod of New York, acting as an agent. It was not learned immediately for whom McLeod made the purchase.

A bay colt by Imp. Nasrullah, out of Banish, brought $74,000. The colt, consigned by Stoner Creek Stud, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz, Paris, Ky., was purchased by A. B. Hancock Jr., Paris, acting as agent for Raymond Guest.

Sailfish Award

Leon Ridenoir of Florrissant boated a seven foot, 11½ inch sailfish without assistance to win the first-week award in the Riviera Beach (Fla.) Golden Galleon Fishing tournament. Ridenoir caught the 52-pound sailfish in the Gulfstream, just off Riviera Beach.

Guerrero Floors Kid and Danny Loses

TIJUANA, Mexico, July 26 (AP)—Mexico's Eduardo Guerrero knocked down Danny Kid of the Philippines in the third round and went on to win a unanimous 10-round boxing decision last night at the Downtown bull ring. Both weighed 120.

Guerrero decked the one-time Orient flyweight champion with a right hand to the head. Kid got up at five, but had to wait out the mandatory eight count.

Using a neat jab, Guerrero cut Kid's eye in the eighth round and went on to win by at least two points on cards of the referee and two judges.

Sports Cameo

House of Lords

LONDON, July 26 — How about writing an American's view, the man suggested, "of the—ah, perhaps rather silly business you've been watching over here?" The proposal was unthinkable. A bloke would as lief ride a motorcycle into St. Paul's or raise his voice above a whisper in the cathedral silence of the pavilion at Lord's while Bailey was bowling a maiden over.

Titmus pulled knight over long-on for 6, and under cover of the faint flutter of hand-clapping a man said softly, "I shall try to explain how we feel about the pavilion." The pavilion is the clubhouse of the Marylebone Cricket Club, where good cricket players go when they die, provided they're not professionals.

"There's a person I know," the man said, "a wing commander of the R.A.F. who was playing here during the war. He was fielding right down there below us. He happened to glance up and there, floating lazily down toward the pitch, was a V-1 bomb. He tore his eyes away, and on the turf were all the other players lying face down.

" 'My word,' he thought, 'I'm standing in front of the pavilion. I can't fall down.' He started walking toward the pavilion door like this." The man turtled his neck down between his shoulders and his torso shrank like one expecting a knife in the back at any instant. "He was just inside the doorway when there was a deafening blast. The bomb landed just over there beyond the wall. Broke all the windows and knocked things about. 'I was already a professional,' this person told me later. 'It was all right for amateurs to fling themselves down at Lord's, but not for me.' "

Who Ploughed the Pitch?

After a moment or so for the moral to sink in, the man grinned. "I forgot who it was," he said, "who declared that if the day ever came when Yorkshire had a professional as captain, the end of the empire would be in sight. Last year Yorkshire made a professional captain, and directly went to the head of the tables and won the league championship."

Then there was the three-column, three-line headline of big black type in today's paper reading: "Who Ploughed the Cricket pitch? I did, says the Squire."

It seems that Mr. Jack Evans, head of a Birmingham automobile firm, had been at odds with the villagers of Wootton Wawen, Warwickshire, ever since he bought field farm there a couple of years ago. One thing led to another, until a few days ago the village cricket team reported for practice on the ground they have been renting from Mr. Evans for one shilling (14 cents) a year.

The landlord had had three six-inch furrows plowed the length of the pitch.

"A diabolical thing," said the cricket clubs groundsman.

"I acted rather hastily," Mr. Evans conceded.

Celebrated Hopheads

How could a guy state the American view of this? An American named Spencer Drayton, the former G-man whose job is to cope with malefactors in United States racing, might have some worthwhile views about the doping scandal which has raised a frightful bobbery among the British livery set this year.

Some while ago Vincent O'Brien, "the Wizard of Tipperary," had his license lifted in Ireland until Nov. 30, 1961, after discovery that Chamour, a horse trained by him, had been hopped for a race at the Curragh April 20. O'Brien himself was cleared of any complicity but the rules hold the trainer responsible for the condition of his horses. Camour later won the Irish Derby and has been invited to the Washington (D.C.) International at Laurel in November.

Now it develops that somebody slipped a slow-pill this month to Sing Sing, last season's champion two-year-old which is valued at $280,000. Matched with another top sprinter named Tin Whistle at Newmarket July 2, Sing Sing was found in his stall dazed and half paralyzed. He was scratched and the race was a walk-over for Tin Whistle.

Tests ordered by Jack Watts, his trainer, showed Sing Sing had been doped. There was, of course, no action against Watts. Sing Sing, apparently recovered now, is supposed to hook up with Tin Whistle at Goodwood Wednesday in the King George Stakes. "As there must be some doubt whether he will show his true form," says Sing Sing's owner, Bill Stirling, "I have thought it right that the racing public be placed in possession of the facts as known to me."

The Aqueduct Bird

All this seems fair enough to the American visitor. As they do over here, racing authorities in the United States make the trainer responsible for the condition of his horses, even though it be proved that he had no knowledge of any hankypanky.

This is only proper, for responsibility has to be placed somewhere, though a fellow would like to believe that if this happened to an American trainer with Vincent O'Brien's high reputation, he wouldn't get 18 months.

In at least one respect, American and English horse players are brothers under the hide. The other day Lester Piggott finished out of the money with two short-priced favorites at Hurst Park. Piggott is Britain's leading jockey, a right little, tight little Eddie Arcaro, though other terms were applied to him a week ago when he got whipped with the filly, Petite Etoile, in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascot.

When he finished up the track Saturday, the customers booed, even as at Aqueduct.

Belleville Entrant in Title Hunt

KANSAS CITY, July 26 (AP). —Defending champion Joe Anne Gunderson of Seattle played even par golf in beating Andy Cohn of Waterloo, Iowa, 5 and 4,4, in the first round of the Women's Western Amateur golf tournament today.

Miss Gunderson, led up at the turn and closed the natch by winning the 12th, 13th and 14th holes. Miss Cohn went over par on two of the last three holes as the red-haireld champion turned on the winning pressure.

Sherry Wheeler of Glasgow, Ky., won her first round match, 8 and 6, over Marian Gault, a former Missouri champion from Kansas City. Barbara Williams, Richmond, Cal., eliminated Carol Mann, Olympia Fields, Ill., 5 and 4.

Four players, including Miss Gunderson, tied for the medal, each with 73, one over par on the 5141-yard Mission Hills Country Club course.

The others who shot 73 were Phyllis Preuss of Brighton, Mich., the low amateur in the Western Women's open this summer; Judy Bell, a Curtis Cup team member from Wichita, Kan., and Anne Richardson of Columbus, O., former Ohio champion, Western junior champion and a Curtis Cupper.

Doris Phillips of Belleville, Ill., was the only player from the St. Louis area to qualify for the championship flight. She shot a 77 and was paired in match play today against Lois Penn of Des Moines, Ia.

Other St. Louis scores included 85s by Kathy Fawcett of Norwood and Barbara Buechman of Belleville, an 86 by Marcella Rose of Meadowbrook, a 92 by Mrs. J. E. Tegeler of Norwood and a 93 by Mrs. A. U. Simmons of Norwood.

The qualifying round followed the script except in a sudden death playoff for the last three places in the field of 32 championship players. One of the more consistent players and a former Western amateur runner-up, Marv Ann Downey of Baltimore, double bogied the extra hole and lost out.

Orioles' Farm Hand Pitches One-Hitter

DES MOINES, Ia., July 26 (AP)—Baltimore's Orioles, the talk of the major leagues with their young pitching talent, uncovered another "keep-your-eye-on-him" hurler last night in the Three-I League.

Fox Cities' Bob Cooper, pitching his first game for the Orioles' Class B farm club, allowed only one hit as he beat Des Moines in the seven-inning opener of a scheduled doubleheader, 5-0. Irv Clark's double in the second inning was the Demons' only safety, who lost their sixth straight game.

Bob Savarine belted two triples to lead the first-place Foxes and help young Cooper, who was promoted from Class D Aberdeen of the Northern League.

Second-place Sioux City scored 8-0 and 10-2 victories over Green Bay in the only other games. Cedar Rapids' game at Burlington, the league's other scheduled contest, was rained out.

Ron Overcash had two homers (the Soos hit five) in the seven-inning opener to back Diego Segui's ninth victory. The Soos trailed in the nightcap, 2-1, when they scored seven runs in the seventh inning and added two in the eighth. Bud Spiers hit a three-run homer in the outburst.

Bill Lenoir Wins Easily In U.S. Play

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 26 (AP) — Rain today interrupted play in the National Junior and Boys tennis tournament.

Before the downpour, however, James Osborne of Honolulu upset fourth-seeded George Seewagon of Bayside, N.Y., 6-2, 6-1, in the second round of boys play.

Holmberg Takes Baltimore Crown

BALTIMORE, July 25 (AP) — Top-seeded Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, defeated Paul Cranis of New York City, 7-5, 6-1, 7-5, in the singles finals of the Middle Atlantic grass court tennis championships here yesterday.

In the doubles finals, John Brownlow of Cleveland Mac White of Corpus Christi, Texas, teamed to defeat Holmberg and Bruce Brian of Baltimore, 10-6, 3-6, 6-4.

Summer Soccer

The Maulers won from the Hibernians, 4-1, in the Summer Soccer League at Ladue Field, last night. Tom Morgan, Tom Ahrens, Verne Knobbe and Bill Condon scored for the winners. John Turner tallied the only Hibernian goal.

Tonight's game between the Dunns and Rams A.C. has been postponed because of wet grounds.

Indian Players Call Off Piersall Meeting

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — The Jimmy Piersall controversy has calmed down — on the surface — but remains explosive underneath. Troubled peace has descended on the Indians.

A scheduled meeting today between the Cleveland players and manager Joe Gordon to discuss the perplexing Piersall problem was called off late last night, but it's no guarantee that another won't be called in the future.

Player representative Harvey Kuenn, after a talk with Piersall, said there was no longer any necessity to have a meeting. Piersall, at first greatly distressed to learn that the players planned to hold a meeting concerning him, voiced pleasure over the decision to call it off.

"Piersall convinced me that his talk with president Joe Cronin had given him a new outlook," said Kuenn. "Jim promised me that he would mend his ways and his teammates are going to give him a chance to prove it. We're very glad we didn't have to have the meeting."

On the surface, everybody is happy . . . but the resentment apparently lingers on.

The latest Piersall episode began yesterday afternoon when Kuenn disclosed he had requested a meeting between the Cleveland players and manager Gordon to discuss what should be done about Piersall because of his numerous wrangles with the umpires.

Jimmy's latest squabble, which resulted in his sixth ejection, last Saturday, resulted in a summons to Boston yesterday. He received a fatherly talk from Cronin and was fined $100 to boot.

It wasn't until he arrived in New York last night that he learned of the proposed meeting.

"What have I done now?" was his first reaction.

"I felt like I had jumped out of the frying pan into the fire," said the 30-year-old center fielder.

"I had just told Mr. Cronin that I was wrong and I promised him I would cut out the horse play and concentrate on baseball. Then I come to New York and see where they were going to have a meeting about me. I don't mind telling you I was terribly disturbed."

Then came the talk with Kuenn.

"I asked Harvey, who is a friend of mine, what it was all about," said Piersall. "He told me the players felt I was making them nervous with my actions on the field and they wanted to talk the situation over with the manager.

"I told him it's all right with me if that's what the fellows wanted, but I resented all the talk about my hurting the club's chances to win the pennant. I told him nobody on the club wants to win more than I. And anybody who says that I loaf, or that I deliberately put on acts to get myself thrown out of games just doesn't know what he's talking about."

Kuenn, following his talk with Piersall, contacted several other Cleveland players and it was agreed to call off the meeting.

"From now on, the only thing for me to do is to prove I can keep quiet and play ball," said Jimmy.

Landing Tops With 7 Firsts

Ray Landing, the Stanton, Mo. rider, who made a runaway race of honors at Cahokia Downs, may be in for a real battle at Fairmount.

Although Landing has been in the winner's circle seven times the first five nights of the meet, six other jockeys are within three victories of the lead.

John Hanley and Ruben Lamberth have each piloted four winners, while Dave Gall, Belloin Pulido and the Sanabria brothers, Rafael and Hector, have each been first four times. Rafael, after the close of the Collinsville meeting, will join Clyde Troutt, former Illinois Racing Board steward at the St. Louis area courses, in training the horses of Mrs. Ada Rice.

Fred Roenigke is the top trainer with four firsts. However, Angelo Cilio and Tom M. Johnston have each saddled three winners.

Betting is down over the 1959 total. Last year, the first five nights drew $1,202,045 at the mutuel windows, while this season, the total is $1,075,614, a drop of $126,431.

Joe Amend's five-year-old Hold on Tight is the first two-time winner. He won opening night and paid $27.80, forming one-half of the $247.40 double, while last Saturday, he won again at a payoff of $31.80 for $2. At Cahokia, Hold on Tight, won only one of his eight starts.

A nine-race program, with post time at 8:30 o'clock, will be run tonight.

In Saturday night's seventh race, Beau Clerc and not Jig-A-Long, finished third. The show payoff was $3.60 for $2.

Griffith Again Outpoints Fernandez

All Three Officials Vote 5-4-1

NEW YORK, July 26 (UPI)—Welterweight contender Emile Griffith of New York, bubbling with title ambitions because of his second straight victory over Argentine Jorge Fernandez, announced today he was ready to fight any 147-pounder in the world who stood between him and the championship.

Emile weighed 150 pounds; Fernandez, 148½.

First Decision Unpopular.

On June 2, the speedy Griffith received a split verdict over the stocky black-haired South American at St. Nicholas arena; but the decision was so unpopular it caused a near riot in which chairs and refuse were hurled into the ring.

Last night at the Garden the 3500 spectators caused no disturbance when the decision was announced. Fernandez had been penalized the fourth round on a foul after being warned twice in that session for low blows by Referee Al Berl.

The three ring officials favored Griffith on a rounds basis by identical scores: 5-4-1, 5-4-1, 5-4-1. The United Press International also had Griffith ahead, 6-4. There were no knockdowns. Griffith's left eye was swollen and Fernandez bled slightly from the mouth at the finish.

Gate Only $7500.

Although the gate of $7500 was only about half what was expected, a spokesman for the Garden said another non-televised but would be held there Aug. 9 or 16. Opponents have not yet been selected.

It was Griffith's nineteenth victory in 21 bouts and Jorge's fifth defeat in 75. Emile is rated ninth among contenders by the National Boxing Association. Fernandez is unranked.

Little Olvera Again Steals Tennis Show

PHILADELPHIA, July 26 (AP)—Rod Laver, the Australian Davis Cup star, has been established as the early favorite in the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championships but the most colorful performance this far has come from Miguel Olvera of Guayaquil, Ecuador.

The energetic little Olvera, who defeated Earl Buchholz Jr. of St. Louis in last week's U.S. Clay Court championships, yesterday won over John Brownlow of Cleveland, 8-6, 9-11, 6-3 in the opening round of the Pennsylvania tournament.

He did it the hard way, too, bouncing all over the court. Once, in a desperate effort to save the second set, he was unable to check his momentum and landed in an adjoining court where the women's singles were taking place.

Olvera, with a variety of strokes, threw sliced and topspin forehands at Brownlow and even hit the ball at times with two hands on the bat. He played his shots at great angles, showed a mastery at lob and stroked with skill in the forecourt.

Southpaw Laver, meanwhile, defeated Harold Sparks, Fort Worth, Texas, 6-4, 6-2.

Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, the top-seeded American, also advanced by a 6-1, 2-1 default from Lester Sack of Clarksdale, Miss. Sack retired when he aggravated a leg injury sustained recently.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, winner of the title seven times since 1946, beat Ronnie Fisher of Houston 6-0, 6-4.

Favorites in the women's field also advanced.

Other seeded players who moved into the second round were Janet Hopps, U.S. Wightman Cup captain from Seattle; Karen Hantze, U.S. girls' champion; Mrs. William DuPont Jr., former U.S. and Wimbledon champion; Belmar Gunderson, Wilson College Teacher; and Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, O., runnerup for the U.S. clay court crown.

Rod Susman of St. Louis lost his first match and John Powless of Flora, Ill., won. Susman bowed to Rudy Hernando of Detroit, 6-3, 6-1, while Powless, who is the Florida State University coach, eliminated James McManus of Berkeley, Cal., 6-2, 6-1.

Muny Baseball at Fairground Tonight

The Union Printers and the Doyle Brothers teams of the Muny North Side Traveling baseball League will play a twilight-night doubleheader at Fairground Park tonight. The first game will start at 6:30 and the second at about 8 o'clock. The teams will thus make up two early-season postponements. Play will be at Grounds One.

Staley Anticipates Retirement After '60 Play; Has 1.75 ERA

NEW YORK, July 26 (UPI)—The White Sox don't know it yet, but this may be the last season they'll be able to call on Gerry Staley, their bread-and-butter ace of the bullpen.

Staley, possibly the finest relief pitcher in the majors right now, will be 40 next month and feels it may be high time to hang up his glove.

"I don't think I'll be back next year if I can come up with some kind of a job or business during the winter," said the veteran righthander.

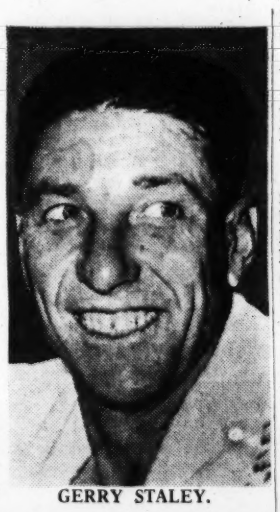
"This is a great game but I'd rather be home with my family. My three kids are in their growing-up years now and they need a father around, as well as a mother, for guidance."

Has 1.75 ERA.

If Staley does quit, the White Sox will be hard put to replace him. He was a prime factor in their climb to a pennant last year with a 2.25 earned-run average and has been even more effective this year with a 1.75 ERA and a 9-4 record.

The secret of Staley's success is a tantalizing sinker ball, which is the pitch he uses seven out of every 10 times.

"Funny thing how I discovered it," he said. "I was warming up with Red Schoendienst's brother, Julius, back in 1947 when we were both with the Columbus club. He noticed I had a natural sinker when I threw three-quarters overhand. He said my sinker did more than my fast ball. So I stuck with it."



GERRY STALEY.

Staley's sinker helped him become a 19-game winner with the Cardinals in 1951 and he was a 17 and 18-game winner the next two years. The Cards traded him to the Reds in 1954 and the Reds sold him to the Yankees the following season.

Given little chance with the Yanks, Staley was picked up on waivers by the White Sox in May of 1956 and has been their No. 1 fireman since.

Not a Showboat.

Staley, currently putting in his fourteenth season in the majors, looks more like your neighborhood grocer than a big leaguer. No showboat, he never "hot dogs" it, as the players say, has never been fined and doesn't go in for fancy sports clothes.

"I don't believe in getting all decked out," he says simply. I'd rather spend the money on my family than on myself."

No matter how much longer he stays in baseball, Staley probably will remain strictly a reliever.

"I'm resigned to it due to my age and all," he declares. "I guess I could go nine innings if I had to, though."

Staley reached into his locker for a dry shirt and put it on. He spoke gratefully about the chance the White Sox gave him but quickly shrugged off the notion his departure would leave a major void.

"They'll find someone else," he said. "You know what they say in the Army—no one is indispensable."

SHORT WAVES

DEAN CROMWELL, former Olympic coach and always the optimist, forecasts great success for the United States track and field team in Rome this summer . . . And in an equally reassuring tone, Uncle Sam's decathlon star, RAFER JOHNSON, predicted it would take a record score to win the tough two-day, 10-event grind . . . Johnson admitted 9000 points would be possible in the decathlon.

Speaking with Cromwell and Johnson at a track and field writers' luncheon in Los Angeles, HAROLD CONNOLLY announced he will be seeking to better his world record of 225 feet, 4 inches and his Olympic mark of 207-3½ in the hammer throw . . . Cromwell said the United States could leave its top three athletes at home and win the games with the next three . . . He predicted a sweep in the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

Also on the track-and-field front, the iron-clad rules for picking the U.S. Olympic team were slightly dented with the recommendation by the track-and-field committee that JOHN KELLEY be included on the marathon squad . . . He was originally left off because he failed to complete the Boston marathon because of blistered feet.

CHARLES HARRINGTON, assistant football coach at Washington and Lee, Lexington, Va., was injured fatally in a car-truck crash near Eudora, Kan. . . . He was 34 years old.

Hollywood Park's 55-day race meeting drew 1,626,533 spectators and a pari-mutuel handle of $124,666,966 . . . That was an increase of 4.55 percent in wagering and 2.05 per cent in attendance.

Making a success in semipro baseball at Wichita was LEROY (SATCHEL) PAIGE, former Brownie righthander, who admits being in his 50's . . . Paige scattered six hits, struck out 14 and walked only one as the Salina Blue Jays defeated McConnell AFB of Wichita, 3-2, in 10 innings.

In the International League, GARY BLAYLOCK went the route as Richmond defeated Buffalo, 3-2 . . . It was Blaylock's seventh victory . . . He helped his own cause with a run-scoring double . . . JIM PENDLETON hit a home run as Jersey City defeated leading Toronto, 5-4.

Denver defeated Dallas-Fort Worth, 4-3 in the American Association . . . DON LARSEN was lifted after pitching 7⅓ innings, during which he allowed six hits, fanned 13 and walked three . . . The loss was charged to RAY CRONE.

CHRISTA BRENDA of Grandview, Mo., won the senior women's figure roller skating title in the American amateur championships at Little Rock, Ark. . . . At Wichita Falls, Tex., 7000 fans saw the Dallas Texans play an intra-squad football game in which COTTON DAVIDSON of Baylor and HOUSTON PATTON of Mississippi were the big wheels . . . The two quarterbacks gained 247 yards through the air.

One St. Louis Girl Wins, One Loses In National Net Meet

CINCINNATI, July 26 (AP)—One St. Louis girl won and another lost in yesterday's play in the national tennis tourney for girls 15 years and under.

Carl Rae Johnson eliminated Cindy Kemp of Chattanooga, Tenn., 10-8, 8-6, but Mary Ann Eisel, the second St. Louisan, lost to Charlotte Perri of Chicago, 6-1, 6-0.

Top-rated Stephanie De Fina of Hollywood, Fla., didn't lose a game as she raced past Judy Anderson of Gary, Ind., 6-0, 6-0.

Julie Heldman of Hamtramck, Mich., seeded second, had only slightly less trouble beating Lati Gordon of Richmond, Va., 6-1, 6-0.

Jane (Peaches) Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., the youngest player in the tournament, had a battle on her hands before she finally eliminated Giuliana Peterson of Bethany, W.Va., 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. "Peaches", unseeded in this tournament, recently won the National events for girls 13 and under and for girls 11 and under.

Johnson League Suspends Four Mallory Players

Four Mallory players have been suspended and their manager, Bud Foster, has been fined $100 by the Missouri-Illinois Ban Johnson baseball league. The suspensions and fines were levied because Foster did not allow the players to participate in the league's annual All-Star game after they had been named to the West team.

The players suspended by the Ban Johnson executive board are outfielders Joe Taormina and Ollie Sweeney, catcher Don Gabelhart and pitcher Harry Gurley. After being selected by the league managers—Taormina was named to start for the West squad—none of the players appeared at the game, which was won by the West, 9-4, at Crystal City on July 15.

Foster had his team in Jefferson City the night of the All-Star game for a non-professional state tournament. Mallory was the runner-up team in the eight-club tourney completed Saturday night, losing to West Quincy in the final game. Foster was picked as manager of the tournament's All-Star team, and Gurley, Taormina and Sweeney also made the honorary squad.

The suspensions will last through Sunday. They became effective last Sunday, when Mallory defeated Twin City, 5-3, even though all four players were out of the lineup. Counting Sunday's game, the suspended players will miss four contests. Mallory also is scheduled to play Twin City tomorrow night and has a doubleheader with Weber on Sunday.

Mallory currently is in second place in the Western Division of the Ban Johnson League with a 10-8 won-lost record, 5½ games behind the Collinsville Ironworkers. The Mallorys won the playoff title last season.

This week's Johnson League schedule:

Tomorrow — Barber vs. Orioles, Carondelet Park, 8 p.m.; Mallory vs. Twin City, Crystal City, 8 p.m.

Friday—Ironworkers vs. Twin City, Twin City, 8 p.m.

Sunday — Kutis vs. Orioles (2), Barrett Field, 1 p.m.; Ironworkers vs. Barber (2), Jones Park Field No. 2, 1 p.m.; Twin City vs. Borbein-Reich (2), ABC Stadium, 1 p.m.; Mallory vs. Weber (2), Jefferson Barracks, 1 p.m.

End Tracey Reports to Grid Cards

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., July 26—"This is 'find out' week," said Head Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, at the football Cardinals' camp today.

"This is the week," Ivy said, "we find out more about a great number of rookies who have been looking good here twice a day in training camp. We go in for heavy work with the rookies and veterans battling each other, and we'll find out a few things about how the freshmen shape up when they go against players with National Football League experience."

Both vets and rookies are in good shape, and Trainer Jack Rockwell is happy over the situation that his efforts are confined mostly to taping the athletes.

John Tracey, who took over as starting right end on offense in his freshman year last season, reported yesterday and moved into a real battle for that spot—called the "tight end," with rookies Si Woods, Jack Atchason and veteran Perry Richards.

Ivy, at the moment is unwilling to make a prediction regarding the rookies he thinks might make it. Practices which the Cards began yesterday are tough head-on scrimmages. Some of the rookies will thrive on this going, others will fade.

Two-a-day practices the rest of the week will be a preparation period for Saturday's scrimmage when the squad will be split into two teams—the Reds and Whites, for an all-out battle.

DAIRY REMOVING STRONTIUM-90 IN SERIES OF TESTS

Experiments for removing radioactive strontium-90 from milk under actual dairy plant conditions began Thursday at the Pevely Dairy Co., Dr. H. T. Blumenthal, co-director of the project, said today.

A pilot plant attached to a 50-gallon vat in the dairy's processing plant at 1001 South Grand boulevard was placed in operation for the first time. It is believed to be the first of its kind operated in the United States.

A resin which proved to be effective at removing strontium-90 in laboratory tests was used in the first experiment. Dr. Blumenthal, who is director of the Institute of Experimental Pathology at Jewish Hospital, said results will be known in about two weeks.

Under present plans, Dr. Blumenthal said, different materials will be tested every two to three weeks. As in the first test, 50 gallons of milk will be used for each experiment.

In the test Thursday, the milk was pumped at the rate of five gallons a minute through the pilot plant column. It was filtered through the resin, which had been placed in a compartment within the column.

One sample was taken from each five gallons that emerged from the column. These samples are being analysed for radioactivity and mineral content.

In future tests Dr. Blumenthal said, milk will be pumped through the column at varying speeds. Laboratory experiments have shown that the amount of radioactivity removed from milk varies with the rate of flow of the milk through the column.

Purpose of the experiments is to develop a practical and economical method of extracting strontium-90 from milk on a commercial basis. Pevely has announced that it will install a purification system as soon as an effective one is developed. The dairy is sponsoring the experiments which began about 10 months ago. Milk used in the tests will not be marketed.

Wilfred R. Konneker, president of Nuclear Consultants Corp., is co-director of the project with Dr. Blumenthal.

The pilot plant is essentially an ion exchanger wherein calcium is substituted for strontium as the milk filters through the test material. Most water softeners operate the same way.

Strontium-90, which is produced by nuclear explosions, is a bone-seeking substance. Some scientists believe it causes leukemia and bone cancer. The strontium-90 content of milk in the St. Louis area has been found to be high in comparison with other areas in monthly tests conducted by the Public Health Service.

change or accepting it reluctantly, and this has not helped the Republicans demonstrate that they are the political instrument best able to preside over a changing world.

Eight years ago, when Gen. Eisenhower was nominated in Chicago, the situation was different. He was the personal symbol of the new postwar world: The man who had presided over the victory in the European war and was arguing for new policies against the Taft Republicans and the Truman Democrats.

MR. EISENHOWER was carrying the struggle to the Democrats in 1952, and he came into politics fighting against the policies of the conservative Taft wing of the party.

Nixon has risen to the top of his party in alliance with the Republican conservatives and it was only very late in the pre-convention maneuvering that he made a definite break with the right and clearly allied himself with the Republican liberals.

Once he did so, however, he moved with great skill and courage. He made clear in Chicago yesterday that he would carry his differences with the conservatives to the convention floor. He insisted on the principle that the candidate of a party must go to the country with a set of policies in which he believes.

This no doubt will alienate the Republican right as Kennedy did the Democratic right with his liberal civil rights platform. But both parties and both candidates are caught up, not only in the conflicts of an election, but in the violent currents of history.

Nixon knows this as well as anybody else. He does not bring to the fight the immense prestige of Mr. Eisenhower. He has to explain how he will be able to govern with a Democratic Senate where again he cannot count on the popularity of an Eisenhower.

Thus, lacking Mr. Eisenhower's personal magnetism, and lacking the authority of a Republican majority in the Senate, he decided not to run on a conservative platform. For even those who believe in conservative policies have their doubts about making them prevail in a time of tumultuous change.

SEOUL, July 26 (AP)—The South Korean Government appointed Maj. Gen. Kim Shin, 39 years old, air force chief of staff yesterday to succeed Lt. Gen. Kim Chang-kyoo, who retires Aug. 1.

MACMILLAN PLAN ON CABINET POST ANGERS COMMONS

LONDON, July 26 (UPI)—Conservative and Laborite lawmakers protested in the House of Commons yesterday against a reported plan by Prime Minister Macmillan to name a member of the House of Lords as Britain's Foreign Secretary.

The row stemmed from reports that Macmillan intended to name the Earl of Home, Commonwealth Relations Secretary, to succeed Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. Lloyd is expected to become Chancellor of the Exchequer in a government shakeup soon.

Critics of Home's appointment feel the Foreign Secretary should be a member of the House of Commons so that he may answer foreign policy questions on the floor of the House.

Government sources said Macmillan's idea was to have another minister named to act as foreign affairs spokesman in the House. In major debates the Prime Minister himself would speak for the Government on foreign policy, the sources said.

URGES ADVERTISING RULES APPLY TO ALL

Advertising aimed at a local market should have to conform to the same set of standards as national advertising, Earl W. Kintner, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, said here today.

Kintner made the point in a talk to the Advertising Club of St. Louis at the Statler Hilton Hotel and earlier at a press conference.

Unless one set of standards applies, he observed, "the campaign to clean up advertising will never be fundamentally successful." Local advertisers, he said, can cause the public to lose confidence in the industry as easily as national advertisers by misleading or deceptive claims.

The FTC has never sought jurisdiction over local advertising, but is attempting to do so now by court action. Kintner said the commission hopes to establish jurisdiction over all advertising in media of interstate circulation.

At the press conference, Kintner said the campaign to clean up advertising has had considerable success. The broadcasting industry, he said, "has responded in magnificent fashion" to FTC appeals. He also praised cigarette manufacturers for eliminating claims about the comparative amounts of tar and nicotine after the FTC requested such advertising be stopped.

Kintner warned that loss of public confidence in the advertising industry would be a blow to the nation's economy.

"Business men who want to protect the American free enterprise system have seen the absolute necessity of raising the level of advertising," he said.

In his speech, Kintner called on advertising and public relations advisers to develop a sense of professional responsibility. He urged them to be willing to resign, if necessary, "from the service of the client (who) persists in violating the ethical precepts of his adviser."

"If advertising men develop this sense of professionalism," he said, "and if advertisers absorb the lesson that good will and public reputation slowly and painfully acquired may well be dissipated by an ill-advised and short-term campaign, public respect for advertising will be assured."

would carry weight in the South.

4. Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton of Nebraska—he is not only an able executive, but is being considered more carefully in view of Midwest resentment over Kennedy's failure to select a Midwesterner for his running mate.

That, in the above order, is the Nixon stable for Vice President. Rockefeller comes first.

THERE'S ONE OTHER uninvited starter—Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. All over Chicago, which otherwise is taking this convention in stride, you see "Americans for Goldwater" running around, busy as bees. The arch-conservatives are determined to make him President.

Goldwater knows he can't get the presidential nomination. His real obective has been to write a conservative platform and get himself the No. 2 place on the ticket. Nixon is against the latter. He doesn't like Goldwater's right-wing politics—even though he, Nixon, used to vote that way himself. Also, he doesn't like the idea of a far west—California-Arizona—ticket.

The man who is straining at the leash against letting Nixon take Rockefeller for Vice President is Leonard Hall, G. O. P. ex-chairman, now Nixon's campaign manager. Hall wanted to run for governor of New York; Rockefeller ran over him. Now Hall is pressing delegates in Rockefeller's delegation to desert him, is pulling every wire to embarrass him. It was he who persuaded Gov. Hatfield of Oregon, a Rockefeller admirer, to make the nominating speech for Nixon.

SOUTH RHODESIA CALLS RESERVES, 8 RIOTERS KILLED

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia, July 26 (UPI)—Mobs of Negroes rampaged through their settlements for the third day today. The government ordered a nation-wide call-up of white reserve troops

Eight natives were reported killed and 60 injured, five of them shot fatally by police today—the first time police have opened fire on the rioters since they began an orgy of pillaging and looting on Sunday. One European was reported killed but there was no confirmation.

The deaths broke the 60-year record of Southern Rhodesia which had boasted that no Africans had ever been killed in racial disturbances. Three of the victims today were killed by whites defending their stores inside the riot-torn Negro settlements.

Violence flared again today when 7000 Negroes gathered on a football field and refused to return to their jobs until three arrested Nationalist party leaders were freed. The crowd broke up into gangs which roamed the Negro settlement.

A few Africans, drunk from raids on beerhalls, were reported roaming the countryside near the European sections but white and native troops, supported by armored cars and riot police, protected the European section of the city.

An all-out attempt to end the rioting today began with a major show of force by police and army troops who moved through the streets of the Negro area. Later police and troops began a house-to-house search.

About 45,000 whites waited uneasily behind barred doors, the anti-white riots in the nearby Congo fresh in their minds.

About 140,000 Negroes live in the sprawling townships here. However, it was believed most of them were as much distressed by the violence as the whites. Troops reported turning back hundreds who tried to get out of the townships. Small groups of terrified Africans huddled between the townships and the city.

The trouble erupted Sunday in the wake of round-up of native political leaders in Salisbury. A mob of 7000 natives tried to seize control of the center of the city but was beaten off by police in a day-long battle.

chairman of the party's senatorial campaign committee.

He urged the delegates not to be "lured by a lust for novelty," but to stick by principles that assure individual freedom.

"We dare not let ourselves become so fascinated by so-called bold programs that we forget soundness is more important than a superficial thing they call 'boldness'," he said.

An eight-minute demonstration strengthened the possibility Goldwater would be put in nomination for Vice President. When he got up to speak, a noisy, sign-waving Arizona delegation spilled into the aisles and soon the banners of several other states joined the demonstration.

PRESENTING 19 Republican candidates for the Senate, he urged the delegates to remember that whoever is nominated for President and Vice President cannot do their jobs, if elected, "without the loyal support of loyal Republican members of Congress."

"Tnese Republican candidates for the United States Senate are your front-line troops," he said.

It is through the actions and votes of Republican members of Congress, he said, that "we, the Republican party, will express our philosophy: That man has a soul as well as a stomach."

"The prophets of the radical left," he said, "continue to offer only one solution to the problems which confront us. They tell us again and again and again we should spend our way out of trouble and spend our way into a better tomorrow.

"We need Republicans in the Congress to protect this nation against the reckless spenders.

"And what of the clear and unmistakable intention of Russia to conquer the free world?

"When the apostles of appeasement attempt to persuade us to accept piecemeal surrender in a timid refusal to face reality, we need Republicans in Congress to protect this nation."

U.S. Births Continued to Drop In May, Down 1.9 Pct. for 1960

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The United States birth rate in May, for the ninth consecutive month, ran below the rate of a year earlier.

The National Office of Vital Statistics gave the tentative total of registered May births—subject to correction by the end of the year—at 335,000, compared with 338,000 in May 1959.

The office said that in the first five months of this year there were an estimated 1,676,000 births, or 1.9 per cent fewer than the 1,709,000 births of the comparable 1959 months.

The number of births in May was only about 0.9 per cent below those a year earlier, but the rate dropped 2.2 per cent, from 22.6 to 22.1 per 1000 population, reflecting an increase in the whole population.

For the five months ended with May the decrease in numbers of births was only 1.9 per cent but the rate fell from 23.5 to 22.5, a drop of 4.3 per cent.

However, marriages were up. There were an estimated 120,000 in May, 3.4 per cent more than in May 1959. The rate per 1000 population was 7.9 in May this year and 7.7 a year earlier.

From Jan. 1 through May there were an estimated 526,000 marriages, 3.7 per cent more than in the similar 1959 span. The rate was 7.1, up 1.4 per cent.

Divorces also continued the increasing trend which has prevailed rather steadily since 1958. However, the office said the 1960 increase is mainly due to an increase of 93 per cent in Pennsylvania. That state reported 5000 more divorces in the first five months of this year than it did in 1959. It was understood the increase might reflect more complete reporting rather than a stepup in actual decrees granted.

The cumulative divorce total for the first five months of the year was 78,369. That was 6.2 per cent above the comparable 1959 figure of 73,764 and 13.9 per cent above the five-month total for 1958.

—Associated Press Wirephoto
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Fair skies and continued warm weather were forecast for the St. Louis area for tonight and tomorrow.

Showers and thundershowers were prevalent through all of Missouri and Illinois yesterday with many localities receiving from 1½ to 2 inches of rain. Cape Girardeau reported 2.08 inches. St. Louis had only .36 of an inch.

The weather disturbance weakened considerably in the night and moved eastward. As a result, western Missouri had fair skies and the showers were ceasing elsewhere.

Thundershowers, which were general through the Mississippi valley, also occurred in the Great Lakes region. Lighter rain fell in the southern Rockies and southern Appalachians regions.

Orlando, Fla., received an eight-inch downpour yesterday, forcing some families to take temporary shelter. Most of the rain — 7.95 inches — fell in a two-hour period.

Cool Canadian air moved down on the north-central part of the country, bringing some relief from the hot spell. Relatively cool temperatures also prevailed in the northeast and Pacific coast states. Most of the central and southern United States remained warm and muggy, however.

Cooling degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 16; the month, 313; the season, 869.

BUSINESS GROUP LEADERS OPPOSE CITY PAY CEILING

Presidents of 16 neighborhood business associations have indorsed proposed charter amendments to raise salary ceilings for the Mayor and professional city employes to $25,000, it was announced today.

Robert Kinealy, chairman of the neighborhood division of the Citizens' Better Government Committee which is campaigning in favor of the amendments, said small business men have shown great interest in the salary proposals.

The amendments also were indorsed by the board of directors of the Health and Welfare Council of Metropolitan St. Louis. John R. Bartlett Jr., president of the council, said passage of the proposals "is essential if the city is to provide the level of services required for the health and welfare of its residents."

Change In Situation.

Bartlett noted that the city hospital system budget was $805,000 in 1914 when the present salary limitation was fixed. The cost today is $16,059,230 annually. Physicians were satisfied to work for $5000 a year in 1914, but not any more, he said.

"Times have changed everywhere but in the St. Louis City Charter," Bartlett asserted.

The two proposals will be on the ballot in next Tuesday's primary election. One would set the Mayor's salary at $25,000 a year; the other would raise the 1914 charter salary ceiling of $10,000 to $25,000 a year.

Both proposals require a three-fifths majority for approval.

A total of 81 positions would be affected by the second amendment. The Civil Service Commission would establish the new salaries, most of which would be less than the maximum of $25,000.

Physicians, hospital specialists, engineers and attorneys would receive higher salaries should the amendment pass. Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has said the city is unable to attract and keep such professional personnel with the present $10,000 limit.

Officers of Associations.

Neighborhood business association presidents who have indorsed the amendments include: Arnold Abrams, Central Business Improvement Association; Ted Bernstein, West Florissant Merchants Association; William Kadlez, Grand-Gravois Businessmen's Association; Irving Kornblatt, Thirty-ninth Street Businessmen's Association.

Oliver Kratz, Chippewa-Broadway Businessmen's Association; Maurice Manesberg, Wellston Chamber of Commerce; Tom McGregor, Grand-Arsenal Businessmen's Association; Elmer Oehler, West End Businessmen's Association; Ernie Rathgeber, St. Louis Retail Drug Association; Marvin Reiss, Gravois Businessmen's Association.

MAN IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FALL FROM WINDOW LEDGE

Cpl. Hugh E. Thompson, attached to the Marine Recruiting Office, was injured seriously when he fell from a window ledge into the moat at the old Federal Building, Ninth and Olive streets, early today.

Two companions, Miss Antoinette Scarpelli, 4130 Federer place, and Miss Barbara Yoder, 1035 Kilner place, Jefferson Barracks, told police that Thompson was escorting them to a bus when he suddenly ran up the steps of the building and leaped onto a window ledge. He lost his footing and plunged about 40 feet into the areaway, or moat, between the building and the sidewalk.

The fire department rescue squad lowered a stretcher and brought Thompson out. At City Hospital he was found to be suffering from fractures of the heels, pelvis and skull. He is 20 years old and lives at the Downtown Y.M.C.A. The Marine Recruiting Station is in the old Federal Building. The women gave police no explanation for Thompson's action.

STOCKS REBOUND FOR FIRST RISE IN 12 SESSIONS

NEW YORK, July 26 (UPI)—Stocks managed their first gain in more than two weeks today despite some afternoon selling which cut early gains in half.

Although the rise was not a strong one it was seen by many experts as a successful test of the old lows. Prices yesterday came within touching distance of a critical testing area after declining in 11 consecutive sessions.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 5.07 points higher at 606.75 at the close. Second-hour change was 9.56 plus. The 20 rails were .38 of a point higher at 134.40 and the 15 utilities .16 up at 92.02.

Brokers now are hoping the list will be able to rise steadily from this level as it did last March 8 and again on May 2. However, some of the experts say this seems doubtful unless there is a sharp improvement in the international situation and the business outlook.

The Associated Press said that gains of fractions to about a point were the general thing for key stocks but some blue chips recovered 2 or 3 points. A number of the more volatile stocks recouped several points, more than 8 in the case of polaroid.

Some of the best gains were trimmed by profit taking, after non-times best.

Of 1207 issues traded, 636 advanced and 343 declined. New highs for the year totaled 12 and new lows 62.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.80 to 213.40 with the industrials up 3.60, the rails up .90 and the utilities up .10.

It was the best gain in the Associated Press average since June 8 when it rose 2.20.

Volume was 2,720,000 shares compared with 2,840,000 yesterday.

LONDON INDEX OFF 3 POINTS

LONDON, July 26 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 311.2, off 3.0.

Business Failures Even Off.

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — Commercial and industrial failures after a four-week decline evened off at 259 in the week ended July 21, reported Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. This toll compared with 258 in the preceding week. It exceeded slightly the 245 occurring last year and came close to the 264 in the similar week of 1958. Three per cent more concerns succumbed than in pre-war 1939 when 251 were recorded.

$1,400 MILLION CUT IN DEBT REFUNDING

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The treasury announced today a financing operation that will clip $1,400,000,000 off the 289 billion dollar national debt.

Officials said the government's improved budget position helped make possible. A budget surplus of $1,100,000,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30 was reported last week.

It will be accomplished by paying off in cash $10,400,000,000 in Federal Securities maturing next month and the borrowing of about nine billion dollars by the issuance of new securities.

Holders of the maturing securities will not be offered the preemptive right to exchange their holdings for the new issues or issues.

Issues to be paid off are $9,600,000,000 in 4¾ per cent treasury notes maturing Aug. 15 and $800,000,000 in notes of the Federal National Mortgage Assn. maturing Aug. 23 and carrying 3 5-8 per cent interest.

Holders of the maturing issues may subscribe for the new securities to be offered shortly, but they will have no claim to them ahead of other investors as is normally the case when new securities are exchanged for old.

General Steel Castings to Be Wholly Owned by the Public

Proposed Offering of Common Stock, Announced Last Week, Will Complete the Transition.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

The proposed offering of common stock of General Steel Castings Corp., announced last week, will increase the company's working capital and complete its transition to a publicly held corporation.

General Steel Castings last Friday filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission for a proposed offering to the public of 296,649 shares of the company's common stock. The sale will consist of 100,000 shares of previously authorized but unissued common stock and 196,649 shares now owned by American Steel Foundries.

W. H. Kester

The company would receive about $2,200,000 from the proceeds of the 100,000 shares, if they were sold at yesterday's closing price at $22⅛. This will augment the company's working capital, which was reduced by the recent purchase of St. Louis Car Co. for $8,300,000 in cash. General Steel Castings borrowed $5,000,000 in short-term loans from six banks to help pay for the acquisition.

Long-term financing of the major part of the acquisition will be arranged later, Charles P. Whitehead, president, said yesterday.

The distribution of 196,649 shares now owned by American Steel Foundries will complete the transition of the company to a publicly held corporation.

General Steel Castings Corp. was formed in 1928 by American Steel Foundries, American Locomotive Co. and the Baldwin Locomotive Works, which were its sole stockholders until July 1929, when Pullman, Inc., also acquired a block of the common stock.

In July 1929 General Steel Castings purchased the assets of Commonwealth Steel Co. in Granite City for $35,000,000. A plant was built in Eddystone, Pa., and headquarters of the company were there until 1947, when they were moved to Granite City.

Pullman, Inc., ceased to be a stockholder of General Steel Castings in 1953 and American Locomotive Co. disposed of the last of its holdings in 1954. The rest of the shares originally held by Baldwin Locomotive Works were transferred to the Baldwin Securities Corp., in an exchange of shares. Baldwin Securities disposed of the last of its holdings of General Steel Castings last year.

On Sept. 27, 1956, the stock of General Steel Castings was listed on the New York Stock Exchange, following public distribution in March of that year of some shares held by American Steel Foundies and Baldwin Securities. The 196,649 shares now owned by American Steel amount to 24.17 per cent of the total shares outstanding at the end of 1959.

After the sale, American Steel Foundries will no longer be a stockholder in General Steel Castings. It has three representatives on the board of directors, but they are expected to resign after the sale, Whitehead said.

American Steel Foundries will use the proceeds of the sale of its holdings to furnish funds for expansion of plant and equipment, Joseph B. Lanterman, president, said. The stock of General Steel Castings has been carried on the books of American Steel at cost of $3,981,426, or $20.25 a share.

Mid-Continent Tab Card Co. of Omaha has established a branch plant in 11,000 square feet of leased space in Washington, Mo. The organization, which manufactures tabulating cards for business machines, will employ about 20 men plus office personnel in the new plant. John Lanigan of St. Louis has been named plant manager.

SOYBEANS HIGHER, GRAINS ARE STEADY

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—Soybean futures traded at a fairly rapid clip today with prices strong but dealings in the grains were slow with prices little changed.

A Government report showing stocks of soybeans as of July 1 indicated a considerably smaller carryover from the 1959 crop than had been expected.

It set off a good general demand at the opening gong and the nearby month was bid up more than a cent a bushel. Other deliveries moved up major fractions.

RAMBLER RETAIL SALES 10 PCT. OVER 1959 PERIOD

DETROIT, July 26 (AP)—American Motors Corp. says its Rambler retail sales in the July 11-20 period increased more than 10 per cent over the same period last year.

AMC said yesterday its dealers sold 10,950 Ramblers during the second week of July, compared with 9919 for the same week a year ago. Retail sales through July 20 totaled 254,110 Ramblers, compared with 207,775, for the similar period in 1959.

Note—seemingly a report of June 14 was misinterpreted. It later was stated that "the first 10-day results followed the end of a dealer sales contest. The results also were on a daily sales rate basis, the days on which dealers could sell cars. Actually, for the period the daily rate of sales was 26.9 per cent above the rate for the same period a year ago." As a result of the contest, American Motors set an all-time record for the month of June with sales of 48,474 units.

New Weapon against Cancer

First tried at Tulane, an ingenious technique called perfusion lets surgeons isolate—temporarily—a cancerous area in the body and flood it with nitrogen mustard. Article (page 120) reports on 112 cases . . . and the good news is that over half are "arrested." In August Reader's Digest—just 29¢ this month only (regular price 35¢).

SURVEY OF MUTUAL FUNDS OPERATIONS

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—Second quarter stock sales of 28 large investment companies totaled $302,000,000 compared with $355,000,000 in purchases, Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. reported today.

The quarterly review of investment company security holdings by the investment company specialists showed that for the second straight quarter portfolio activity increased. There were 530 issues traded by the companies studied compared with 508 in the first quarter of 1960. In the final quarter of 1959 the total was 308.

The Wiesenberger investment report concludes that investment companies were "clearly defensive minded" in the latest three months. They favored utility, food, beverage and retail trade stocks, the report showed.

"In line with the defensive trend cash and government securities, as a per cent of net assets, were increased by 11 per cent during the quarter," the study showed.

Utilities held the No. 1 position in the list of industries in which purchases exceeded sales. Drugs and cosmetics placed second, dropping electric and electronics into third from the runnerup spot three months earlier.

In order of dollar volume, among the 28 studied companies the largest commitments during the quarter were made in International Business Machines, Middle South Utilities and American Telephone & Telegraph. Also based on dollar volume, the largest sales were in United States Steel, Radio Corporation of America and Chas. Pfizer.

Among industries in which sales exceeded purchases by the largest amount were metal and mining, steel, auto, rubber and textiles.

U.S. TREASURY STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury July 21: Balance $7,606,585,065; deposits fiscal year July 1 $2,716,584,580; withdrawals fiscal year $5,573,058,515; total debt †$288,880,392,672; gold assets $19,234,003,326.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for July 25: Purchases of 340,786 shares; sales of 326,302 shares including 2503 shares sold short.

TREASURY CUTS DEBT, U.S. BONDS IMPROVE

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—United States government bonds maintained fractional advances in late trading today following an initial boost due to the Treasury's decision to retire almost 1½ billion dollars of the national debt. Volume became moderate after a fairly busy opening.

Industrials and utilities picked up ground to give the corporate list a firm tone. Trading ran a bit behind yesterday's pace.

In the Treasury list intermediate and long range securities advanced 2/32 to 4/32. Dealers attributed the change in trend from the last two sessions to the fact that more money will be available for investment after the August Treasury refunding. The Treasury will issue about 9 billions in new securities to replace almost 10½ billions of maturing notes.

Tokyo Electric stamped 6s of 1963 fell 1⅛ at 96¾ and Belgian Congo 5¼s added 1 at 57.

Meanwhile, the interest rate on the Treasury's weekly sale of short term notes rose above last week's but not high enough to equal the level of two weeks ago. The latest issue of 13-week bills brought a price equal to an average yield of 2.404 per cent compared with 2.307 per cent a week earlier.

The companion issue of 26-week bills sold for an average yield of 2.701 per cent compared with 2.625 per cent a week ago. Yields turn higher when demand for the bills causes their prices to decline.

ARMCO STEEL FOR 6 MONTHS

8-MONTH STUDY SOLVES MYSTERY OF ICE FROM SKY

ATLANTA, July 26 (UPI)—It took eight months of study, but scientists finally have figured out that the big ice cube that frightened a Georgia farmer was just frozen drinking water from a jet airliner.

A 40-pound chunk of ice plummeted from the sky last October and fell on the farm of O. J. Lecroy near Toccoa, Ga. Scientists and ordinary citizens from all over advanced dozens of theories about its origins.

Representative James Davis (Dem.), Georgia, released a report from three Government agencies yesterday announcing that the ice was formed when drinking water leaked from a commercial DC-8 jet plane flying at 39,000 feet. The water froze outside the plane and dropped when the plane descended.

The report by the United States Geological Survey, the National Bureau of Standards and the United States Weather Bureau included 40 pages of findings in addition to diagrams and pictures.

Ovation in Chicago

Vice President Nixon, leadership of the Republican party within his grasp, is almost engulfed by supporters offering an enthusiastic welcome in front of Nixon headquarters in Chicago yesterday. Mrs. Nixon and daughters are lost in crowd offering an ovation to Nixon on his arrival to take an active part in the Republican National Convention which is expected to make him its presidential candidate.

From the Ramparts

Start of a Busy Day

Party Patriarch

Former President Herbert Hoover displays to delegates the gold medal presented to him following his address to the G.O.P. conclave last night. Eighty-five years old and 32 years removed from the convention which nominated him for the presidency, Hoover received a tumultuous greeting from the convention and a warming "no" when he remarked, for the fourth time, that this would probably be his last appearance before such a gathering.

Reminder for Delegates

Hints on How to Get A Book on Hints

LONDON.

THE BRITISH ARE making a great effort to sell their goods in the United States, and they have just had a big exposition in New York which, according to the British press, has been a whopping success.

ART BUCHWALD

The Board of Trade is even putting out a booklet called "Hints to Businessmen Visiting the United States of America." When we heard about the booklet we decided to get one and we put in a call to the Board of Trade.

This is how it went:

When we got the operator at the Board of Trade and we told her we wanted the book on hints for business men going to the United States she put us through to "Enquiries."

The Enquiries clerk put us through to the Librarian.

The Librarian suggested we call another number and ask for Mr. Taylor on Extension 614.

The extension answered, but they had never heard of Mr. Taylor. They gave us back to the switchboard. The operator asked us:

"What is Mr. Taylor's initial?"

We said we had no idea.

"Oh well, then," she said. "I'll give you Enquiries."

The Enquiry clerk came back on and we told him we were looking for Mr. Taylor, and we called Extension 614 and they had never heard of Mr. Taylor.

He went away and came back a few minutes later. "Mr. Taylor is in Room 614," he said. "His extension is 779. You see, you got the room and the extension mixed up."

We apologized for our stupidity and the Enquiry clerk accepted it.

The clerk transferred us to Extension 779.

"Do you have Mr. Taylor in your department?" we asked.

"Yes, we do," a lady said.

Our heart started beating faster. "May I speak to him?"

"He's on vacation," she said.

"Oh," we said.

There was a pause. "Would you like to speak to anybody else?"

"I don't know anybody else," we said. "I only know Mr. Taylor."

"Can I give him your name when he gets back?"

"No," we said. "He doesn't know me. Someone gave me his name."

"Who gave you his name?" she wanted to know.

"The Librarian in the Board of Trade."

"Well, would you like to speak to Mr. Taylor's assistant?"

"Why not?" we said. "I'm sure Mr. Taylor wouldn't mind as long as he's on vacation."

Mr. Taylor's assistant came on and we told him about the book we wanted. He went away for a few minutes and then came back.

"Where do you want the publication sent?" he asked. "We don't send things overseas."

We said we wanted it sent to our hotel in London.

He went away and came back. "What you want is the Central Office of Information, Controller Overseas. I don't have the phone number, but here is the address."

We looked it up in the phone book. We asked for the Controller Overseas. The operator said there were many controllers overseas. Which one did we want?

"The Controller of the United States Overseas," we said.

A lady came on the phone. We explained our problem.

"Who told you to call?" she asked.

"Mr. Taylor in the Board of Trade, just before he went on vacation."

"I'm not sure if we have such a booklet, but if we do, it should be at the Board of Trade."

We called a man who wasn't quite sure if the publication was in print. He said he'd send us what he had, though. And, sure enough, the next morning we received a booklet. Only it wasn't "Hints to Businessmen Visiting the U.S.A." It was "Make It in Britain," and written for Americans wanting to invest in the United Kingdom, rather than British visitors wanting to do business in the U.S.A.

The next day we packed a lunch by the phone and started all over again. This time we were put through to a Mr. Henry, Extension 2856.

Mr. Henry knew exactly what we wanted and he sent the booklet over the following day with his compliments.

It's good to have a friend at the Board of Trade, particularly when the only other one you have there is on vacation.

Ann Landers

Unwanted Husbands

Dear Ann Landers:

RECENTLY A WOMAN wrote to you and signed herself "Lonely." She said she was a career girl, attractive, had money in the bank and presented a bold front to the outside world.

Everyone thought she was very happy and a big success, but she admitted she was lonely and would gladly trade places with many wives who wrote to complain about their husbands' sloppy habits, poor table manners, bum jokes, etc.

Please tell me who this woman is, Ann, and where I can contact her. She can have mine.

If this girl has an interesting career, I hope she'll keep it and stop looking for trouble. I traded a good job, independence and self-respect for a broken washing-machine, a second hand refrigerator and a no-good man.

SMART TOO LATE.

Dear Smart: Sorry, but I never divulge the identity of those who write to me.

If it's any comfort, you're not alone in your misery. I was stunned at the number of women who wrote to tell me "Lonely" could have their husbands—with pleasure.

This is indeed a sad commentary on the state of Family Life, U.S.A.

Dear Ann Landers:

I AM A BOY almost 15 and I have a big problem—my folks.

I go with a gang of fellows who are a couple of years older. They all have permission to take a 400 mile bicycle trip—200 each way. I want to go but my folks say no.

I can handle a bike as well as anybody and know I'd have a great time. The plan is to camp out and I have all the gear I would need. Please help me. I feel like an infant.

B.K.L.

Dear B.K.L.: Your parents have an emotional investment in you dating back almost 15 years. If they say you aren't ready for a 400 mile bike trip, take their word for it.

This is one of the problems that crop up when you go with kids who are older. Grin and bear it—and listen to your parents. They know the territory.

Career of Giving Glamour to Gift Wrapping

By Virginia Irwin
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

IF YOU EVER tied your own thumb into the bowknot you were trying to tie on a gift package, you may find it easier to believe that a girl named Kaye King actually makes her living teaching people how to wrap pretty packages.

Kaye has a knack for achieving glamorous effects with nothing more than pieces of pretty paper, bits of ribbon and a lot of patience. In fact, it's this knack that has made her one of America's foremost authorities on gift wrapping and given her a job that many a career woman might envy.

She travels around the country seven months a year, has a staff of 15 girls working under her, and has made personal appearances on some 700 television shows all over the United States demonstrating the technique of leaving your left thumb out of the knot you're tying on somebody's present.

In St. Louis to confer with gift-wrap buyers for various stores, Miss King explained that she had worked her way up from designing greeting cards to the job of design stylist for Hallmark Cards, Inc., of Kansas City, the country's largest in the multi-million dollar industry that has grown with public demand for greeting cards, wrappings, ribbons and decorations.

She is also an expert on party planning and on forms of personal correspondence. Recently she created something called the "knotless bow," an unusual ribbon frou-frou that has been granted a patent by the Government.

KAYE KING makes a living teaching people how to wrap packages. Examples of her work are shown on top of page.

"I sort of boast that I can wrap anything from a rubber ball to a battleship," she laughed. "So far no one has asked me to gift-wrap a battleship but not long ago on a television show I was asked to wrap a pair of cocker spaniel puppies. I hastily fashioned a doghouse out of a cardboard box, cut doors and windows, and covered inside and out with gift-wrap papers. The puppies obligingly played their part by poking their inquisitive little noses through the windows and generally put on an enchanting performance."

There is a suspicion that Kaye is in demand for television interviews as much for her beauty as for demonstrating her gift-wrapping knack. Young, blond and lyrical of figure, Kaye is also a delight on the speaker's platform.

She recently starred in a commercial movie short entitled "The Art of Gift Wrapping." The movie, and the field that it covers, is so popular that it has already been viewed by more than a million persons in the United States, Canada and Europe, on television, in department stores, at conventions, in schools and at women's club meetings. The film, in which Kaye describes and demonstrates how to wrap gifts simply and elegantly, surprised all concerned by winning the top award at the National Film Festival for movies in its category. It was also rated as "outstanding" at the Scholastic Teacher film festival in New York.

When Kaye isn't traveling to fill speaking engagements, she spends most of her time creating new and unusual ways to wrap gifts and plan parties. She insists that gift wrapping requires more patience and ingenuity than talent. To aid people who are all thumbs when it comes to wrapping up a pretty package, Kaye has written a well-illustrated book entitled "Gifts Too Pretty to Open."

Born Sue Leist, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Leist, of Macon, Mo., Kaye changed her name when she went to work for Hallmark in Kansas City right after finishing high school in Macon. During the first few of her seven years with Hallmark she attended night school at the Kansas City Art Institute and also worked as a model. Unmarried, she shares an apartment in Kansas City, when she is there, with two other career girls.

"People seem to think that at 25 it's high time I started thinking about marriage," Kaye says, "but I tell them I haven't finished my education. Actually I regard all the traveling I do as just that—education. Being away from home seven months of the year hasn't allowed much time for romance."

Here is her advice on wrapping pretty packages: "Never try to wrap a gift when you are tired, nervous or in a hurry. More likely than not you will find your fingers become all thumbs."

If Kaye had her way everyone would start Christmas shopping now and Christmas gift wrapping well ahead of time instead of letting it all pile up until the snow flies.

"I call it avoiding the wrap race," she laughs." But no matter what the occasion, I believe that how the gift is wrapped, in other words, its 'wrap-appeal,' is every bit as important as what's in the package."

What to Watch in Convention Telecast

By Merriman Smith

CHICAGO, July 26 (UPI).

MILLIONS of Americans will be watching the Republican convention on television this week without really grasping the depth of the political drama unfolding on their living room screens.

Based on years of experience at these affairs, Republican and Democratic, we have prepared a handy list of tips on how to get the most out of watching the proceedings on television. Conventions can be fun despite the seconding speeches if the viewer knows what to look for and here are some tips for those of fairly nimble vision:

FUNNY HATS — Watch these purely for kicks because people who wear them are rather low in the political spectrum of importance. You'll never see Barry Goldwater or Nelson A. Rockefeller running around the convention floor in a floppy cap or elephant-shaped sombrero. The people who wear funny hats at conventions do so for several reasons: The hat may carry out some state motif (Florida delegates sometimes wear oranges in their hair) and thus reflect civic pride. Other delegates wear screwy headgear simply because they're bored and neglected. Occasionally, one of these funny fellows gets that way on the way to the convention hall.

MUSICIANS—Play a game at home—see if you can pick out the horn tooters who switch from one demonstration to another. At the Democratic convention in Los Angeles, one band played for three different candidates in one day. They just changed the sign on the bass drum.

GAVELS — Prepare a simple score card and try to count the number of gavels used during the convention. The presiding officers sometimes use seven or eight different gavels during a session. The big wooden hammers are presented by local groups who bear them home proudly as souvenirs of the historic proceedings.

FIGHTS—Offer a small prize to the child who spots the most fights. These fights rarely occur among delegates, but between photographers and ushers. If yours is a sporting family, it is sometimes fun to make small wagers. In our family, we usually bet on the photographers because there are more of them.

AISLES—Try to count the aisles in the convention right at the start when things are relatively calm. This will help orient your viewing later. Aisles frequently vanish on the TV screen because they fill up quickly with reporters, photographers, TV and radio men and odd-lot visitors who manage miraculously to appear on the floor of any convention without tickets, badges or any other form of accreditation.

SAME FACES—It is considered grand fun in some rather knowledgeable families to tally from the TV screen the same faces that appeared in both conventions. These same faces divide roughly into two groups—the TV people and the Washington lobbyists who attend everything but the vegetarian party meeting.

BADGES — Badge and button counting can be fun. Some of the delegates wear as many as eight or 10. A well-dressed delegate may wear a bejeweled elephant, his delegate's badge, several buttons indorsing various candidates (this is for the middle-of-the-road delegate) and possibly a souvenir from the telephone company. Some delegates delight in wearing seemingly anarchistic badges: "Stop Everybody" or "Anybody for Vice President."

LOCAL PLUGS—Be alert for this sort of thing during the first roll call of the states to nominate for President. The moment of undivided attention is fleeting for the chairmen of many state delegations and these fellows try to make the most of their quick trip through the limelight. On the first roll call, most state delegations will simply pass, but in doing so the chairman will extol the virtues of his state until hammered into silence by the gavel-pounding on the rostrum. A sample might be:

"Texas, the Lone Star state, the home of Sam Houston and Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Alamo, where the deer and the antelope play, the greatest cotton and grapefruit—(bang, bang, bang by the gavel)—the great state of Texas passes."

Adventures of the Backyard Pioneers

IF I LOOK WAN and worn these days it's from waiting up until 1 and 2 a.m. for two boys, age 8 and 9, to come home. This is a little late for children their ages but they haven't gone far. Just to the cabin at the edge of the yard where they are "sleeping out."

CLARISSA START

This "sleeping out" began last summer and a column on our first experiences brought forth a letter from a mother in Creve Coeur whose family had just been through the same thing. I enjoyed it so much that I saved it to share when the "sleeping out" season was with us again.

The process at their house began, as it does at ours, with their 6-year-old begging to spend the night out of doors all through a long, cold and rainy spring. Finally one night in June was warm and cloudless and a reluctant consent was given.

"The tent was tightened, the bedroll assembled and pajamas donned in four seconds," the mother wrote. "I sprayed the poor child with so much bug repellent that he could hardly breathe and kissed him good night. Daddy shook his hand as though he were off to the Himalayas. His two sisters watched in silent admiration as he crawled into the tent.

"I took my post at the window and glued my nose to the pane. He was propped on his elbows with his chin in his hands. When he saw me, he grinned, waved and threw me a kiss. I threw one back and tried to go watch television.

"In our home," her letter continues, "it's Daddy's job to turn out the lights and check that the doors are locked. On this night we left all the lights on, inside and out, so that if he decided to come in he could see the way. We left all the doors standing wide open so that he could come in any entrance that struck his fancy. I slept half at the window and half in bed.

"About 3 a.m. I heard footsteps in the hall. There was my little pioneer jumping into his bed.

"'Is everything all right?' I asked cautiously.

"'Oh sure,' he answered confidently. 'I just heard a funny noise, kinda like an atom bomb so I figured I better come in since I didn't know what it was.'

"I was glad he had found refuge inside the house. Now I could get a little sleep."

The letter went on to say that son Jack now is a veteran who with his friend, Glenn, sleeps out regularly. So does ours and I've finally succumbed to the purchase of a folding cot so at least I can stop worrying about black widow spiders and slithering snakes and worry about three dozen other things.

Apparently starvation is the only real peril in our back yard. The last time our son and his friend slept out they made it until 1:30 a.m. by which time they were out of potato chips, lemonade, the six peanut butter and jelly sandwiches they'd packed and the cereal they'd taken along for breakfast. I met them in the kitchen, fixed another sandwich and got them to bed.

Before summer is over I'm hoping that they'll be able to sleep through the night, or if not, that I will.

Causes of 'Blackouts'

"Dear Dr. Molner:

"I HAVE HAD BLACKOUTS for as long as I can remember, but in the last year they have become more frequent. I suffer from dizziness and everything turns black when I stand up. Sometimes my head feels full and hot inside. The spells last from a few seconds to perhaps a full minute.

MRS. J.T."

There are many causes of "blackouts"—momentary loss of consciousness which can occur without a person actually fainting or collapsing. This type of problem as a rule is indeed annoying and may be serious, and it can, of course, be embarrassing.

Some blackouts are mild convulsive disorders—often what we call the petit mal type of epilepsy. (The grand mal type involves the violent seizures.) In the petit mal type, the attacks are very brief and sometimes extremely numerous. For example, an individual with petit mal may halt in the middle of a sentence for a few seconds, then go on and complete the sentence, sometimes not even realizing the pause has occurred.

Another type of blackout can be due to changes in circulation. There is a sensitive spot in the neck which, in certain people, can cause a slowing of the circulation. A tight collar, or looking over the shoulder can touch off this sort of thing. (It is called an "irritable carotid sinus," that being part of an artery serving the brain.)

Another cause is a slowing of the heart action due to a "heart block," or interference with the impulses causing the heart beats. This is called Stokes-Adams Syndrome. In older people with hardening of the arteries, blackouts can result from narrowing of the carotid artery.

Still another is what we call "postural hypotension," or moments of low blood pressure which occur when one is changing position, from sitting or lying down, to standing. This can occur in young as well as old people.

Some of these blackouts (or other blackouts which may have nothing in common with any I've just listed) may be triggered by other conditions. The menstrual cycle, since it brings extensive physical changes (fluid balance in the body, glandular activity, etc.) as well as psychological stresses, is a not-unusual factor in women. Fatigue and emotional disturbances also are common factors in blackouts.

Treatment, hence, varies. If there is a suspicion of petit mal (preceded, perhaps, by a head injury or severe infection which may have occurred so far back that you can't remember it) the use of one or another of the anti-convulsant drugs sometimes puts an end to, or lessens frequency of, the blackouts. If the blackouts are primarily related to the menstrual cycle, some of the newer medicines to prevent "water-logging" of the system at that time may help.

If circulatory or other disturbances are the apparent cause, still other special drugs may have a place in treatment to minimize the trouble. Age, sex, condition of arteries and other elements, you see, often need to be taken into account to track down the cause, and then the treatment, when blackouts are troublesome.

"DEAR DR. MOLNER: What is the difference between low blood sugar and low blood pressure? V. R. T."

The same difference as the pressure with which water spurts from a faucet, and the amount of "hardness" in the water. In other words there's no connection. The two can occur in the same person but one does not cause the other. Low blood sugar refers to the amount of sugar in the blood. Low blood pressure refers to the tension under which it is pumped through the body. "Low blood pressure" usually refers to a systolic pressure below 100.

What's the Best Way to Educate a Genius?

Young Pianist Sparks Controversy Over Proper Way to Develop Child Prodigies

The genius of child composer Kenneth Brown, who at 8 years of age has already had his work performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra, has sent psychologists into controversy over the best method of insuring the adult survival of child prodigies. Should they get personal schooling — or does this lead to "burning out"? Does ordinary education stifle genius? Should a genius marry? How can more bright boys, so essential to a nation's future in the atom age, be developed? Surveys including research probing into the minds of great men such as William Pitt and Oliver Goldsmith (a boyhood blockhead) reveal startling truths about genius.

By Ben Davie

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

Now 8 years old, KENNETH BROWN has been writing music since he was 4. The Philadelphia Orchestra played his "Israeli Rhapsody."

NEW YORK, July 26.

AMERICA'S LATEST child prodigy, Kenneth Brown, has, without knowing it, become the new symbol of a long-simmering controversy in the United States. Teachers and others, all eager to do their best by youthful genius, are engaged in an erudite battle of words over which is the best way to develop it.

Eight-year-old Kenneth recently had his composition "Israeli Rhapsody" performed by the distinguished Philadelphia Orchestra and praised by many musicians and critics.

"What's all the fuss about?" he asks. "Doesn't everybody like music and try to write it?"

Although he has a far above normal IQ, Kenneth's parents hope, by keeping him at a conventional school, to give him normal boyhood development.

Something like this was in the minds of a 12-year-old California boy's parents recently. A year ago his teacher at a one-room country school called on the California State Polytechnic College for help. "He's too much for me," the teacher said, "I can't keep up with him much less teach him."

The boy is a genius with an IQ of 186 (normal is around 100) but he thinks it is perfectly normal for a boy of 12 to solve calculus problems with the ease of a computer. He is so gifted that the college and a Los Angeles manufacturer have installed a scientific laboratory in his home to enable him to carry out his research.

The father has insisted on maintaining his son's anonymity to prevent any emotional problems stemming from publicity about his brilliance. Meanwhile, the boy keeps going to his one-room school while two college professors coach him in math and electronics at home.

Today more than ever the gifted child, as a national resource in the struggle for world supremacy, is finding himself the center of spirited debate. Parents who have been baffled about the best kind of schooling for the budding or established genius in their home can expect no clear cut answers from educators. Most believe that the gifted child should be detected as early as possible, perhaps even during his pre-school years. But there the agreement ends.

How best to develop a gifted child's special skills?

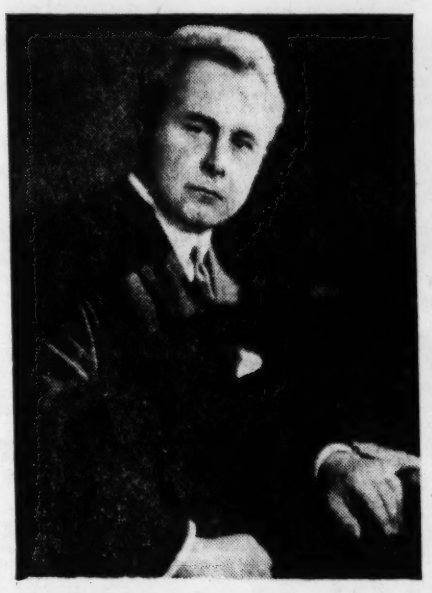
One group of educators believes in special schooling, consisting of an intellectual fare stronger than could be digested by the average public school student. The prodigy would study with other gifted children in special schools.

Other educators believe that such emphasis on gifted children is too much like pressure.

They are opposed to whisking these youngsters through school and university in record time. And they are against telling them in effect, "You are tomorrow's leaders. The fate of the nation is in your hands."

"Force-feeding sometimes defeats its purpose," is their argument.

Recently a study on the childhood pattern of genius concluded that the mass education of America's public school system had the effect of suppressing genius. The study, made by Harold C. McCurdy, phychologist of the University of North Carolina, was published by the Smithsonian Institution. It examined the childhood experiences of 20 geniuses estimated to have had intelligence quotients of 160 to 190.



Another child prodigy, JOSEF HOFMANN, played his first big concert at 9, went on to become one of the world's greatest pianists.

McCurdy conceded that he had gathered no details of the genius' early life, "such as nursing and weaning and toilet training to which psychoanalysis has attached so much importance."

But he contended that he had found evidence of these behavior patterns that were common to the 20:

1. As children they received a high degree of attention and love from their parents and were in constant association with adults.

2. They were isolated from other children and formed close association with only a few of their brothers and sisters.

3. As a result of these two behavior patterns, they experienced rich fantasies.

Public schools, McCurdy said, have the effect of reducing all these factors to a minimal value.

Remarkable educational programs had been laid out for these geniuses by their parents. However, he concluded that genius was not to be envied. It is rather a costly gift, he said, and only three of the 20 studied enjoyed marriages "both freely contracted and happily sustained."

The geniuses studied included philosophers John Stuart Mill, Pascal and Jeremy Bentham, poets Alexander Pope, and Alfred de Musset, and statesman William Pitt the younger, who was Prime Minister of England at 25.

Researchers have also disposed of the myth that child prodigies are likely to burn out young and land in the human junk pile. A study of 300 men and women of genius found that almost all of them had been unusually perceptive children even when they had not appeared to be.

Author Oliver Goldsmith was pronounced by his earliest teachers to be "dull, stupid, a heavy blockhead." Actually his teachers were too obtuse to understand him, at home he was writing with surprising skill.

A 9-year-old Polish boy, Josef Hofmann, gave a piano recital in Berlin 75 years ago. Among those who crowded around him and congratulated him was a rising violinist. "You have definite talent, my boy," the fiddler said seriously. "Work hard and you will go far."

Voltaire composed verses as a child and at 10 could out-argue learned adults on almost all subjects.

The late Dr. Lewis Terman of Stanford University devoted his life to probing children's intelligence and the effect of natural gifts on mature life. In the early 1920s he picked a group of 1500 Californian children with IQ's of 140 and over, and patiently followed up their careers.

More than 70 per cent entered professional or business careers and were earning almost twice as much money as the average of their classmates. The rate of mental illness, alcoholism and divorce among the 1500 was far below the average.

If Kenneth Brown and the unknown Californian boy can survive the din of arguing educators they have a good chance of being happy adults.

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

DEFENSE IS a partnership project. Because the defenders don't know exactly what resources they have between them, they try constantly to guide each other to the best result obtainable.

West led the king of diamonds and East signaled with the eight. Declarer then ruffed the diamond continuation and drew three rounds of trumps. The queen of clubs was next led and finessed, losing to the king. Declarer then took the balance, since he could discard his heart losers on dummy's long clubs. He made five.

The contract should have been defeated. East was primarily at fault. He should have overtaken the king of diamonds and returned the deuce of hearts.

Against this defense the declarer could not prevail. If he took the ace of hearts immediately, the defenders would eventually take two hearts and a club to produce a one trick set. And if declarer ducked East's heart return, West would continue with the king to accomplish the same result.

From East's viewpoint, in the face of dummy's long club suit, he must base his defense on finding partner with heart strength.

East should realize the danger that South has only one diamond. With dummy showing 10 high-card points, and with nine points in his own hand, East can reason that West's overcall was based more on distribution than high-card strength. This would therefore place West with a six-card diamond suit.

Instead of signaling with the eight and asking for a continuation of the suit, East should make sure of a heart switch by overtaking with the ace and leading with a heart.

This play puts West on notice that there is no future in further diamond leads. It marks declarer, for West's benefit, with a singleton diamond. The overtake indicates to West that East holds four diamonds.

This type of partnership cooperation is the backbone of good defense. The defenders do not see each other's cards, but, by working together, they can accomplish the same result as if they did.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Disruptive Force

Dear Martha Carr:

WE ARE A GROUP OF COUPLES who have met for many years for dinner and cards. We are all grandparents and proud of it, but we feel that the place for the grandchildren is with their parents or a baby sitter on our party night. However, one couple brings the grandchild along and to say the child disrupts our evening's pleasure is an understatement. What can we do to make these people realize, they're about to break up our long standing and happy group short of hurting them too much?

MRS. B.B.

You might try having a party soon that would include the grandchildren of all the couples. Then when the riot has subsided and the furniture repaired and the broken china mended, you would have the perfect excuse to vote as a bloc for parties for grandparents only.

Dear Martha Carr:

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW has been giving my year-old child whisky for some time. Not wanting to cause a family rift about this I am at a loss as to what to say or do about this.

WORRIED.

Tell your mother-in-law you just happened to mention this to your pediatrician and he exploded in anger. If she persists, you'll just have to be firm about it, family rift or not. Tell her you don't intend to let her teach your tot to be a toper.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHEN ARE PEOPLE going to learn that the only way to get along with others is to agree with them, at least to a degree. Believe me, you gain far more than you could possibly lose. I'm speaking in particular of "Mr. Perfet's Wife." All she needs to do is say, "Darling, you are perfectly right. I'm a clumsy oaf, while you are such and expert at so many things. Here you take the cloth and rug-cleaning fluid and show me how it's done." Bet you 20 to 1 that he'd fall flat on his face and keep his big mouth shut.

HUSBAND TRAINER.

Dear Martha Carr:

I'VE NOTICED REFERENCE to the Family and Children's Service of Greater St. Louis in your column many times and I'd like to pass along this message about the agency to your readers: The agency workers are kind, thoughtful and understanding. They do not ply you with embarrassing questions or make you feel uncomfortable or self-conscious about your situation. The worker listens to your problems in the utmost confidence and gives them careful consideration. Regardless of how many years a person has been married or how hopeless the situation seems, the agency seems to be able to help. I had a shaky and stormy marriage for more than 20 years. It was held together for the sake of the children. Finally on the verge of a divorce, we were referred to the agency. Now I say a daily prayer of thanksgiving for the help and guidance we received. I hope this will encourage others to realize there is still a chance to save their marriage.

GRATEFUL.

Take the Time to Listen

By Adele Starbird

HOW MANY PEOPLE do you know who never interrupt when another is talking? Watch it for a few days. If you can find even two, you are to be congratulated; you enjoy an acquaintance that is far above the average in courtesy.

And how many people do you know who really listen to what is being said, who do not betray by their first remark that they have been impatient to jump into the conversation? Very few.

Listening is real work, and sometimes a work of art. The listener who is relaxed and attentive is participating in the conversation as much as the talker; he contributes the best of himself. He is "present" for the other, to use a new and currently fashionable word for a condition long recognized.

Listeners are valuable because the need to talk is an absolute need, like the need for food. I have said before that not so many women would be running to doctors if their husbands would take the trouble actually to listen to them.

I have attended innumerable national conferences lasting from three to 10 days, and I have been on the planning committee for some of them. I noticed that when the conference members were given an opportunity to express themselves, they went away refreshed and enthusiastic, if not, they were frustrated and critical, without knowing why.

We might set up a magnificent program; we might engage the most brilliant speakers in the country; but the conference was not successful unless we also provided plenty of time for discussion. What was said by the members was not so important as their need to say it.

There are, of course, compulsive talkers, just as there are compulsive eaters, and they cannot be permitted to run wild in a meeting. Their need to talk is neurotic, and must be helped and treated like any other neurosis.

Neurotics aside, talk is for most people the great healer. Children who talk freely to listening parents have fewer problems than the others.

Employes need to talk to the boss. The time he spends listening is a good investment.

I had to learn that lesson over and over. My classic example occurred in one year of crushing work. A staff member whom I loved and trusted was put in charge of a certain area, after which I paid no attention to her, knowing her ability and experience, and assuming that she would take for granted the admiration I had so often expressed.

But things began to go wrong. I was baffled until a student came to me and said, "Miss X is brokenhearted because she feels cut off from you. She has lost all confidence in herself."

"But I was paying her the highest possible compliment! I thought I could safely leave her alone."

"I know," said the student sagely. "But she can't stand it. Do try to find time for her."

So I invited the lady to my apartment and we had a long leisurely visit, "just like old times," as she said happily. And after that visit the difficulties were smoothed out, not because of any advice I had given, but because she felt that she had touched base again.

Take time to listen as you go through the day. It may be the most valuable contribution you can make.

Revolutionary new Moisturizing Foundation Cream

Now-Tan in hours without sun!

Smoothes, softens as it tans

There never was a "tan" like this . . . so petal smooth, dewy and radiant! No make-up can give it. Not even the sun.

It's the clear "glow through tan" you get with Miss Mantan, new Moisture Foundation Cream. Used as directed the tan look comes in 4 to 6 hours...lasts for days. Won't rub off, or wear off like make-up.

The secret of this young-as-springtime "tan"? A remarkable substitute for the oils and moisture found in smooth, petal-moist young skin, and an amazing discovery, Protosol, that tans your complexion without sun or sunlamps. Protosol is the "tanning" ingredient found in laboratory and clinical tests to be non-irritating, non-sensitizing—safe for all types of normal skin.

For important dates, Miss Mantan gives your tired, let-down face a quick "lift" . . . a tan radiance that lasts for days without touch-up! It blesses your skin with "night cream" moisturizing, all night long . . . works under make-up all day. Use Miss Mantan today. Look as tan as you like tomorrow or return unused contents to the distributor, as shown on the package, and your full purchase price will be refunded.

U.N. Force in Congo

WE CONTINUE to report joyfully in our newspapers new accomplishments that make more dangerous the art of war. We have successfully fired two Polaris missiles from a submerged submarine and hit a mark 1150 miles away.

I wish we could report at the same time that we are spending as much money trying to build up the various avenues to peace—particularly the United Nations, which is our main hope.

We were indeed fortunate to have the U.N. functioning when from every side there came news of the disruption of law and order in the Congo and Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to send in troops if anyone else did.

Fortunately, with the U.N. functioning and as able a man as Dag Hammarskjold as its secretary general, this organization took prompt action, and we can now hope that things will move along smoothly in the Congo. This will be difficult, however, because even though the U.N. force has removed the threat of various and sundry troops descending on the area, it must be kept at a strength that enables it to keep order, and this will require help from nations throughout the world.

It is certainly less expensive to put the U.N. force in the Congo than to undertake the job of preventing other nations from going to war. We are fortunate in having an organization where people with cool heads can control the hotheads.

The Encampment for Citizenship, a group that is celebrating its tenth anniversary, joined me at Hyde Park Thursday noon for its annual picnic. The group of 125 young people, in addition to having mixture from many American racial backgrounds, included some from other countries—France, Holland, Latin American nations, and probably more. It was interesting to answer their questions about the Democratic convention and American politics in general.

Later in the day I went down to New York City to attend a meeting of "Y" students at Union Theological Seminary, from where I went to a meeting in Harlem of the reform Democratic group.

I left New York at an early hour Friday morning to catch a plane to Washington for briefings at the State Department in preparation for the meeting in Warsaw, Poland, of the World Federation of United Nations Associations.

Our American Association for the U.N. is not in any way controlled by the Government, but we always ask for the privilege of being informed on any situation that may exist in a country to which we will send delegates. We feel that as citizens we should be cognizant of such a situation and that it helps us in discussions with the various U.N. associations represented there.

I think this was the last meeting of the American delegation to the Warsaw conference, and so, even though Washington is hot in July, most of us made an effort to be there. I was home as early as possible in the afternoon, since later in the day I had to fly here to St. Louis to attend some Democratic meetings for Congressman A. S. J. Carnahan.

Bill Vaughan Says

A RAILROAD STRIKE disrupts commuter service in New York. The economic loss must be considerable, to say nothing of the bridge and pinochle hands that will never get played.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD sandlot league has canceled plans for an all-star game. "It turned out," said a spokesman, "that we didn't have any stars."

AN ACQUAINTANCE in the editorial cartooning field isn't much of a Kennedy fan. He hates to draw hair.

Uncle Ray's Column — Wild Tribesmen

By Ramon Coffman

MOST OF THE PEOPLE of the Philippine islands are civilized. The children attend school, and the homes compare well with those on the mainland of Asia.

Here and there we find tribesmen of a backward type. They have been "exposed" to civilization, and have improved their way of life, but still keep certain old customs.

Among the wild tribesmen are the Igorots (pronounced EE-go-ROTES). They live in north-central part of the island of Luzon, far from the main cities.

The Igorots have thatched huts, and raise several crops, including rice. Many of the men spend their time chiefly in hunting, and their weapons include spears and axes.

It is common for an Igorot village to have a "spirit tree." This tree grows at the outside edge of the village. When a person dies his soul is supposed to rest in the tree for a time.

An Igorot hunter is likely to carry a "devil stick." This is a piece of bamboo about 18 inches long, with holes like those in a flute. When the hunter whacks the stick against his thigh, he produces sounds which are supposed to drive away evil spirits.

After the American government took control of the Philippines, the old head-hunting custom of some tribesmen was wiped out. If Igorots hold a head-hunting dance today, they are supposed to circle around an imaginary head.
